365 SKIES

"365 SKIES" premiered in association with the European Cultural Institute, Italy, as part of "Personal Structures 2026" at Palazzo Bembo, Venice, for seven months from May 9th 2026 during the course of the 26th Venice Biennial.

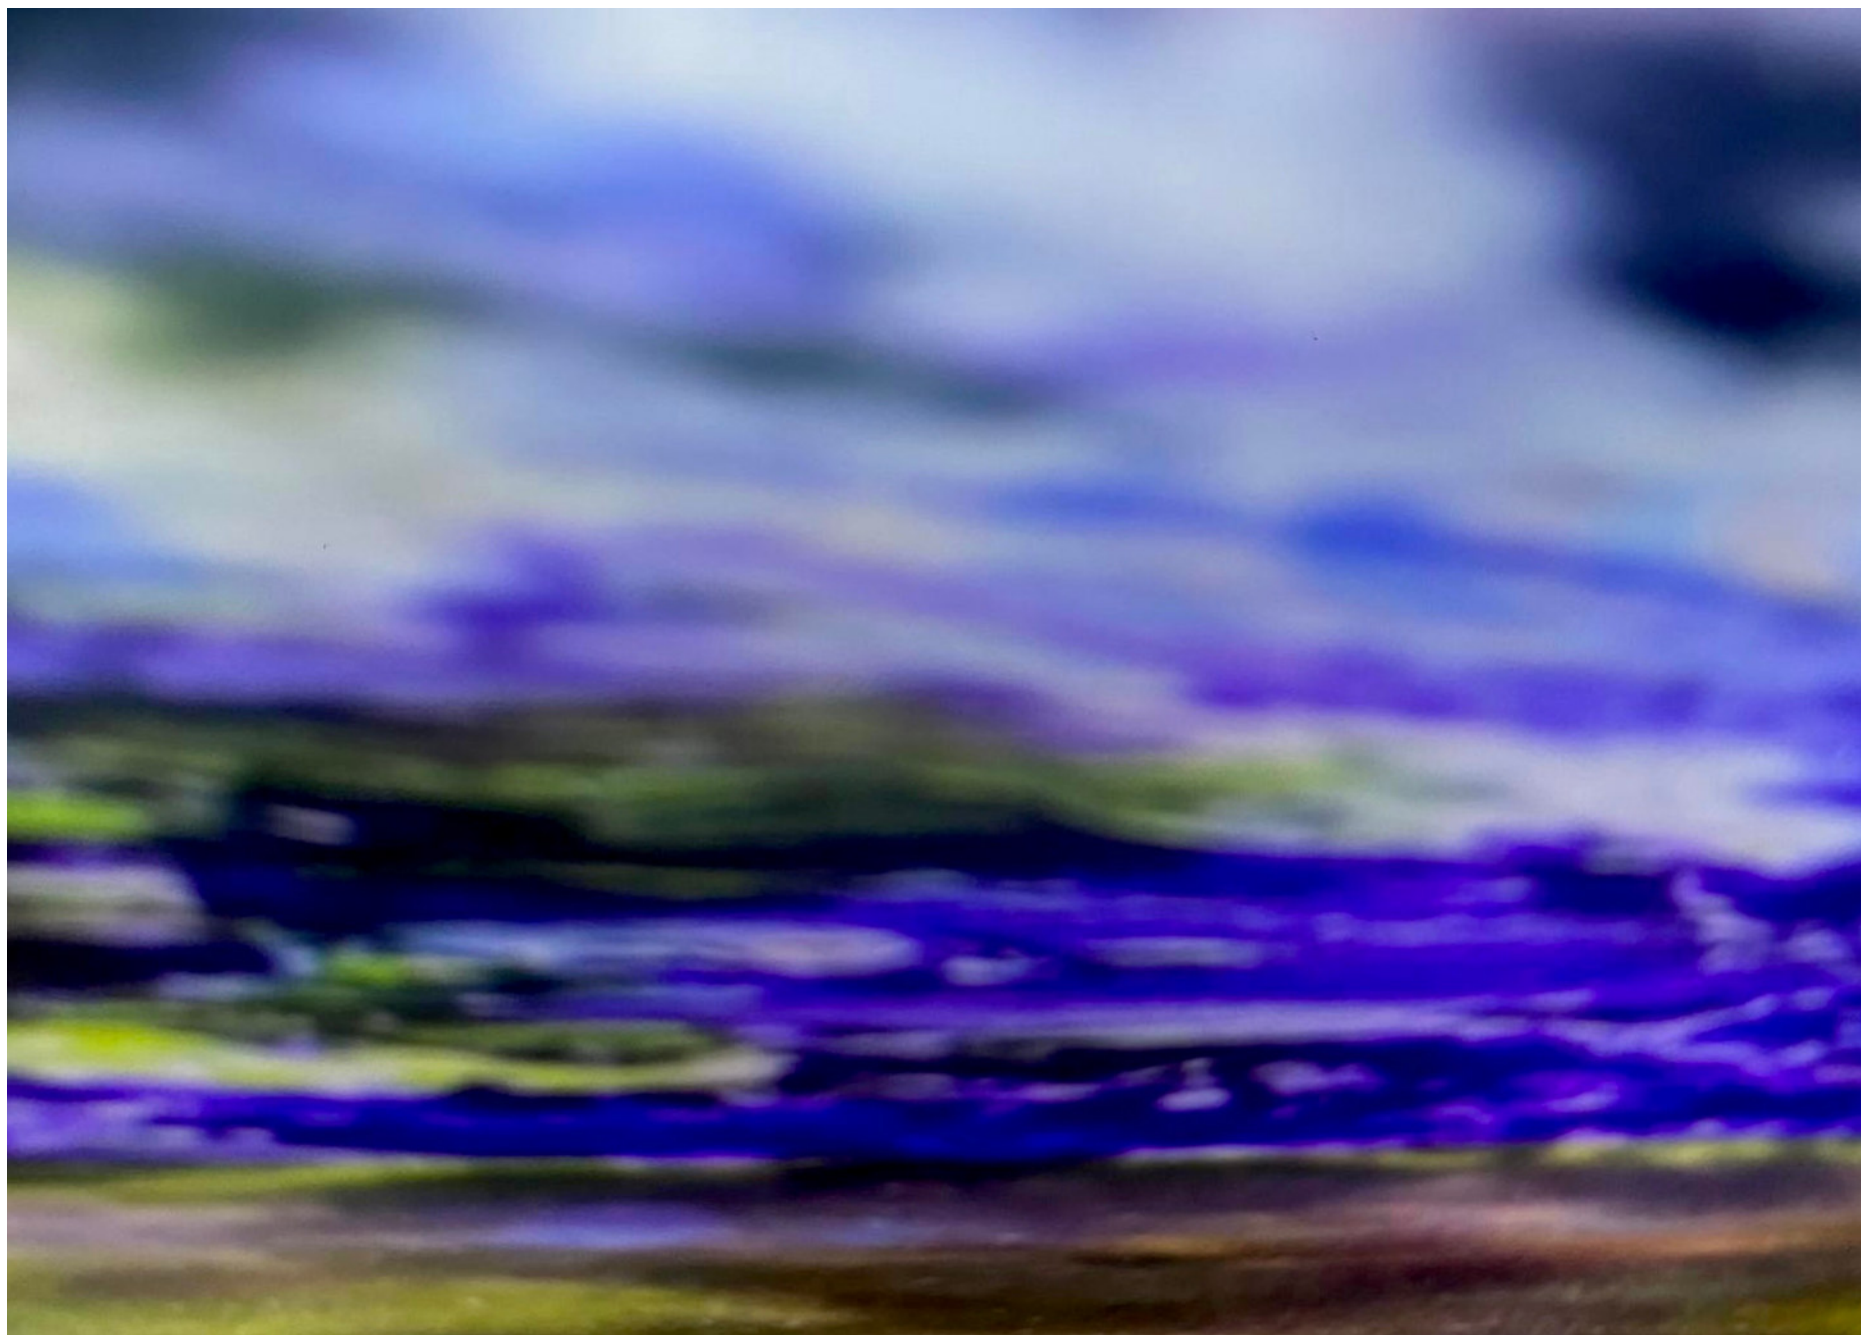

Artist Bryan Hamilton Chadwick endeavored to make a painting of the sky, every day, for an entire year.

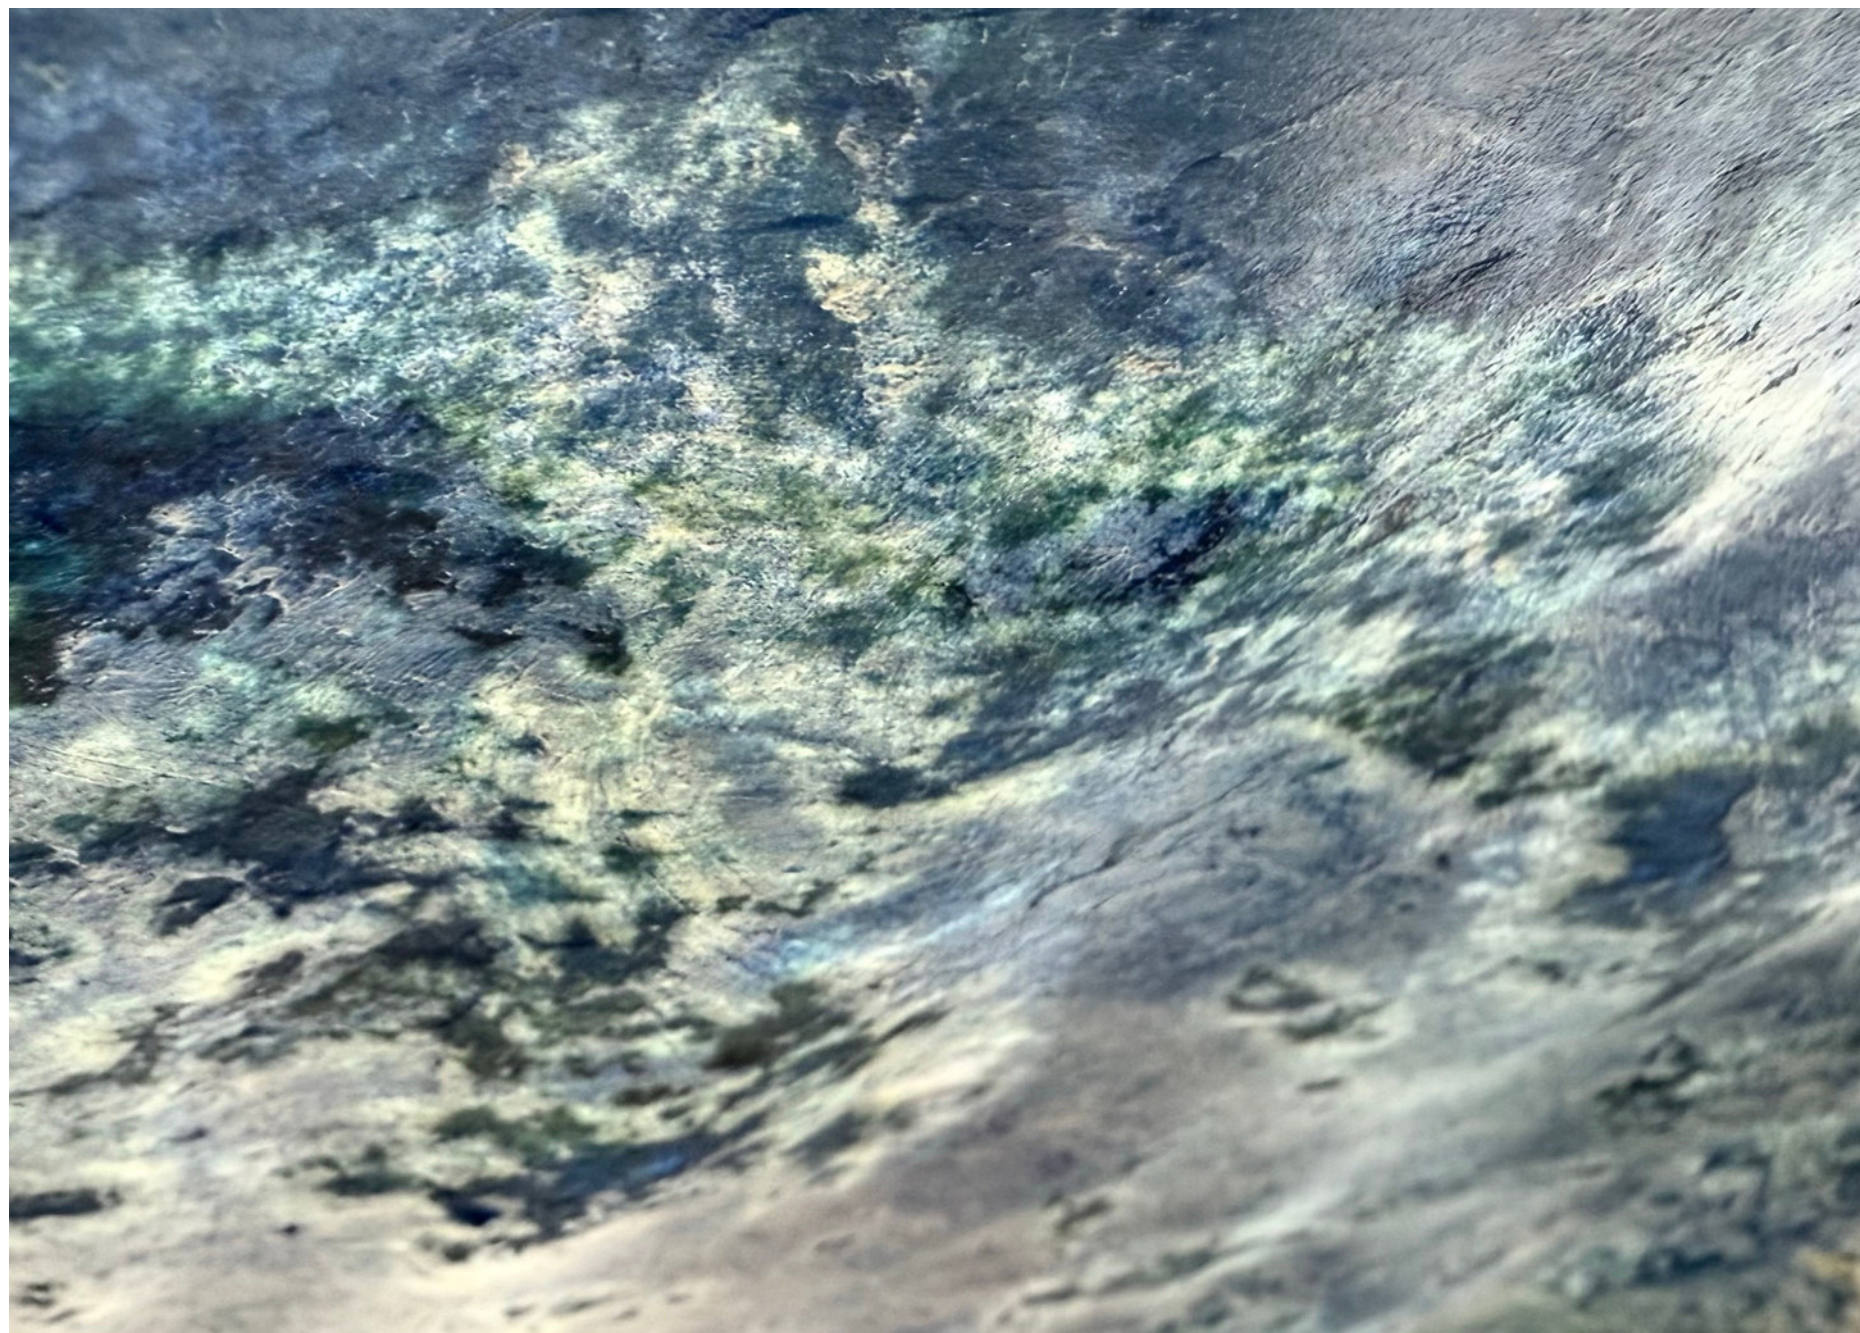

That's far too many artworks to include in a book. So this volume shares just 100 of them.

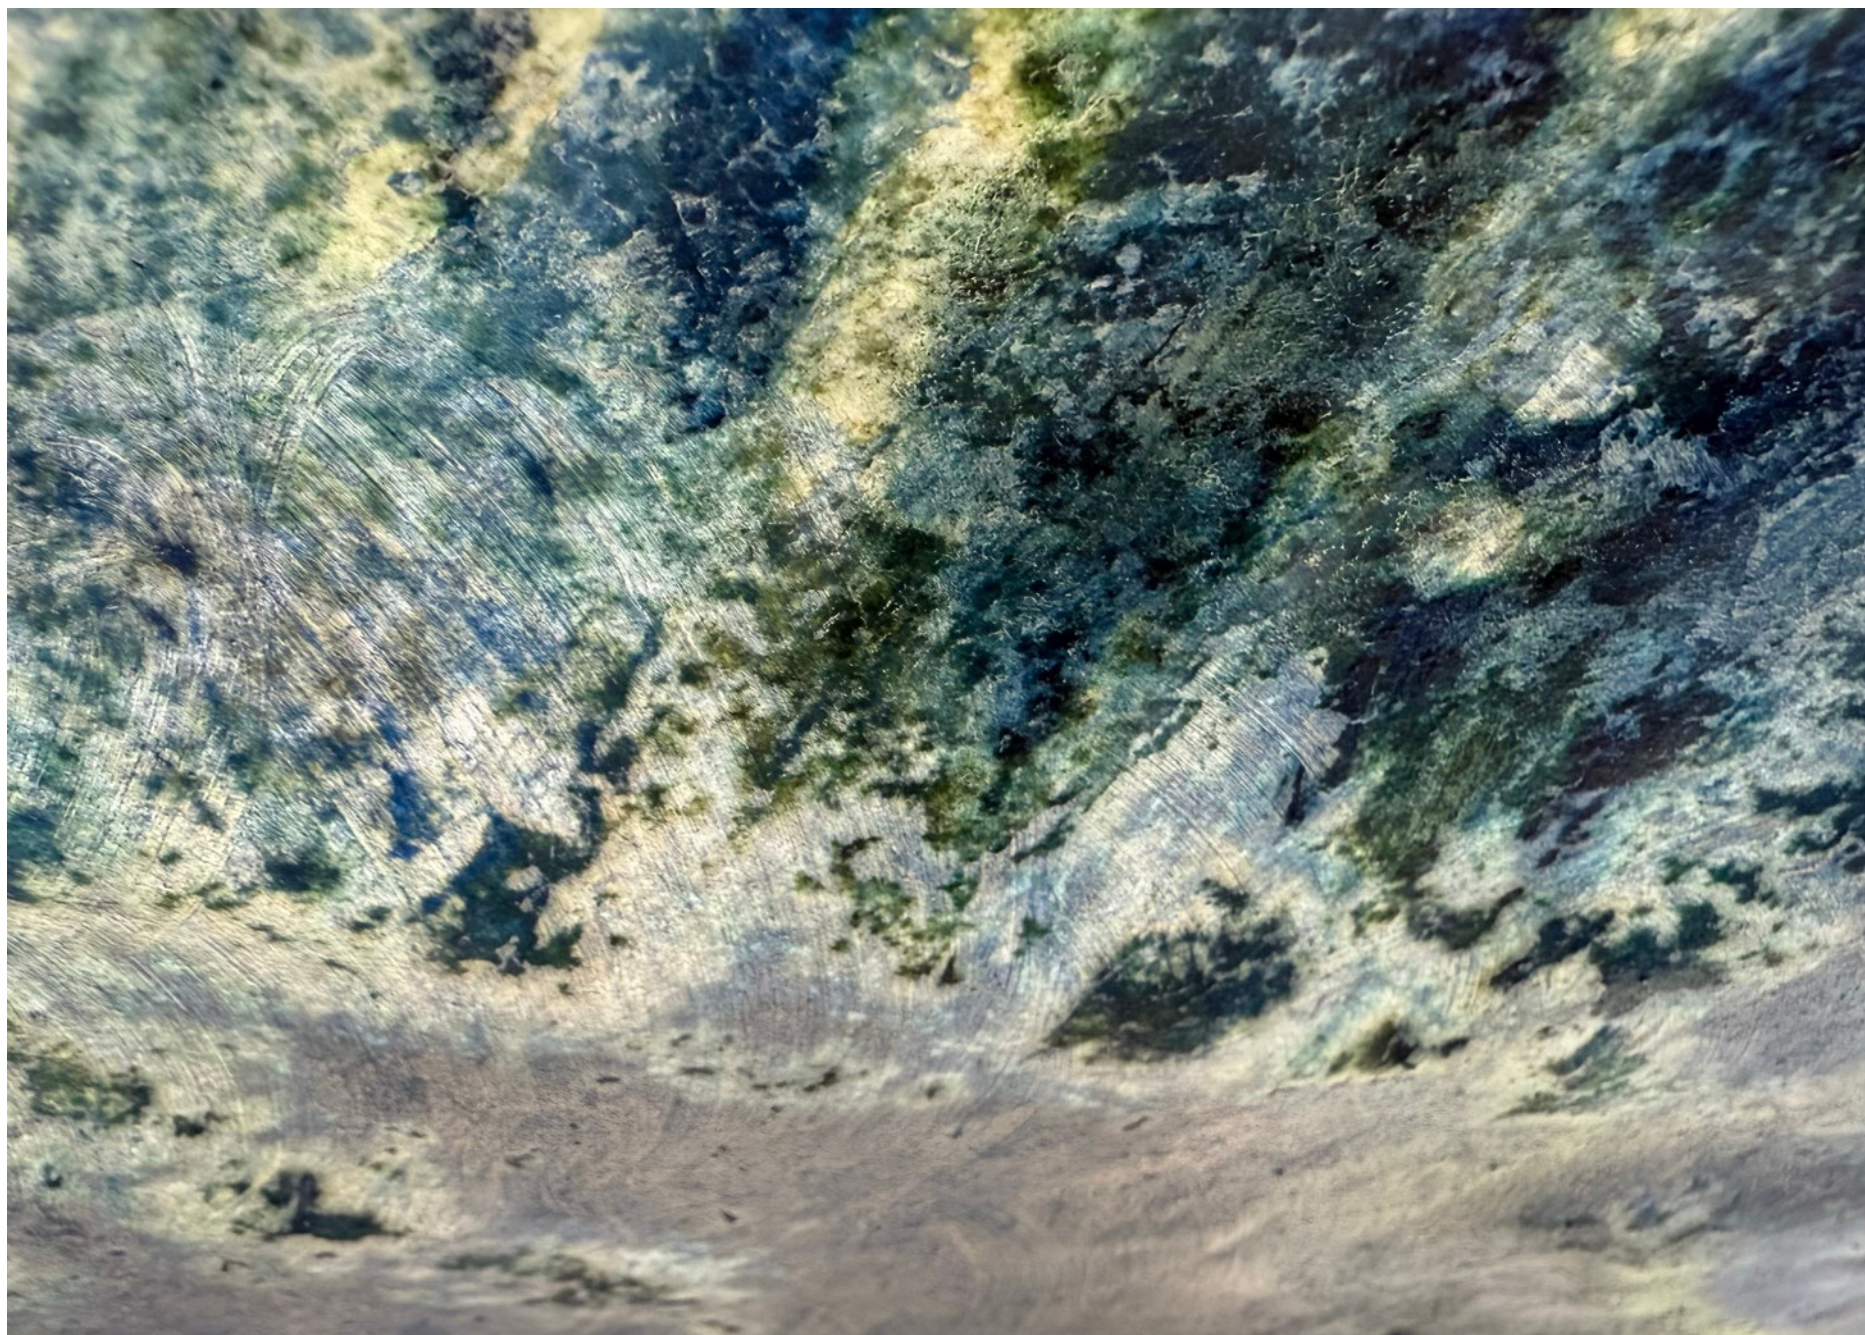

To experience the entire work, you're invited to view the film, "365 Skies", which includes score and music by the artist with a narration in support of his long-held concern that creative inspiration may be a survival mechanism in us.

Regardless of where it comes from.

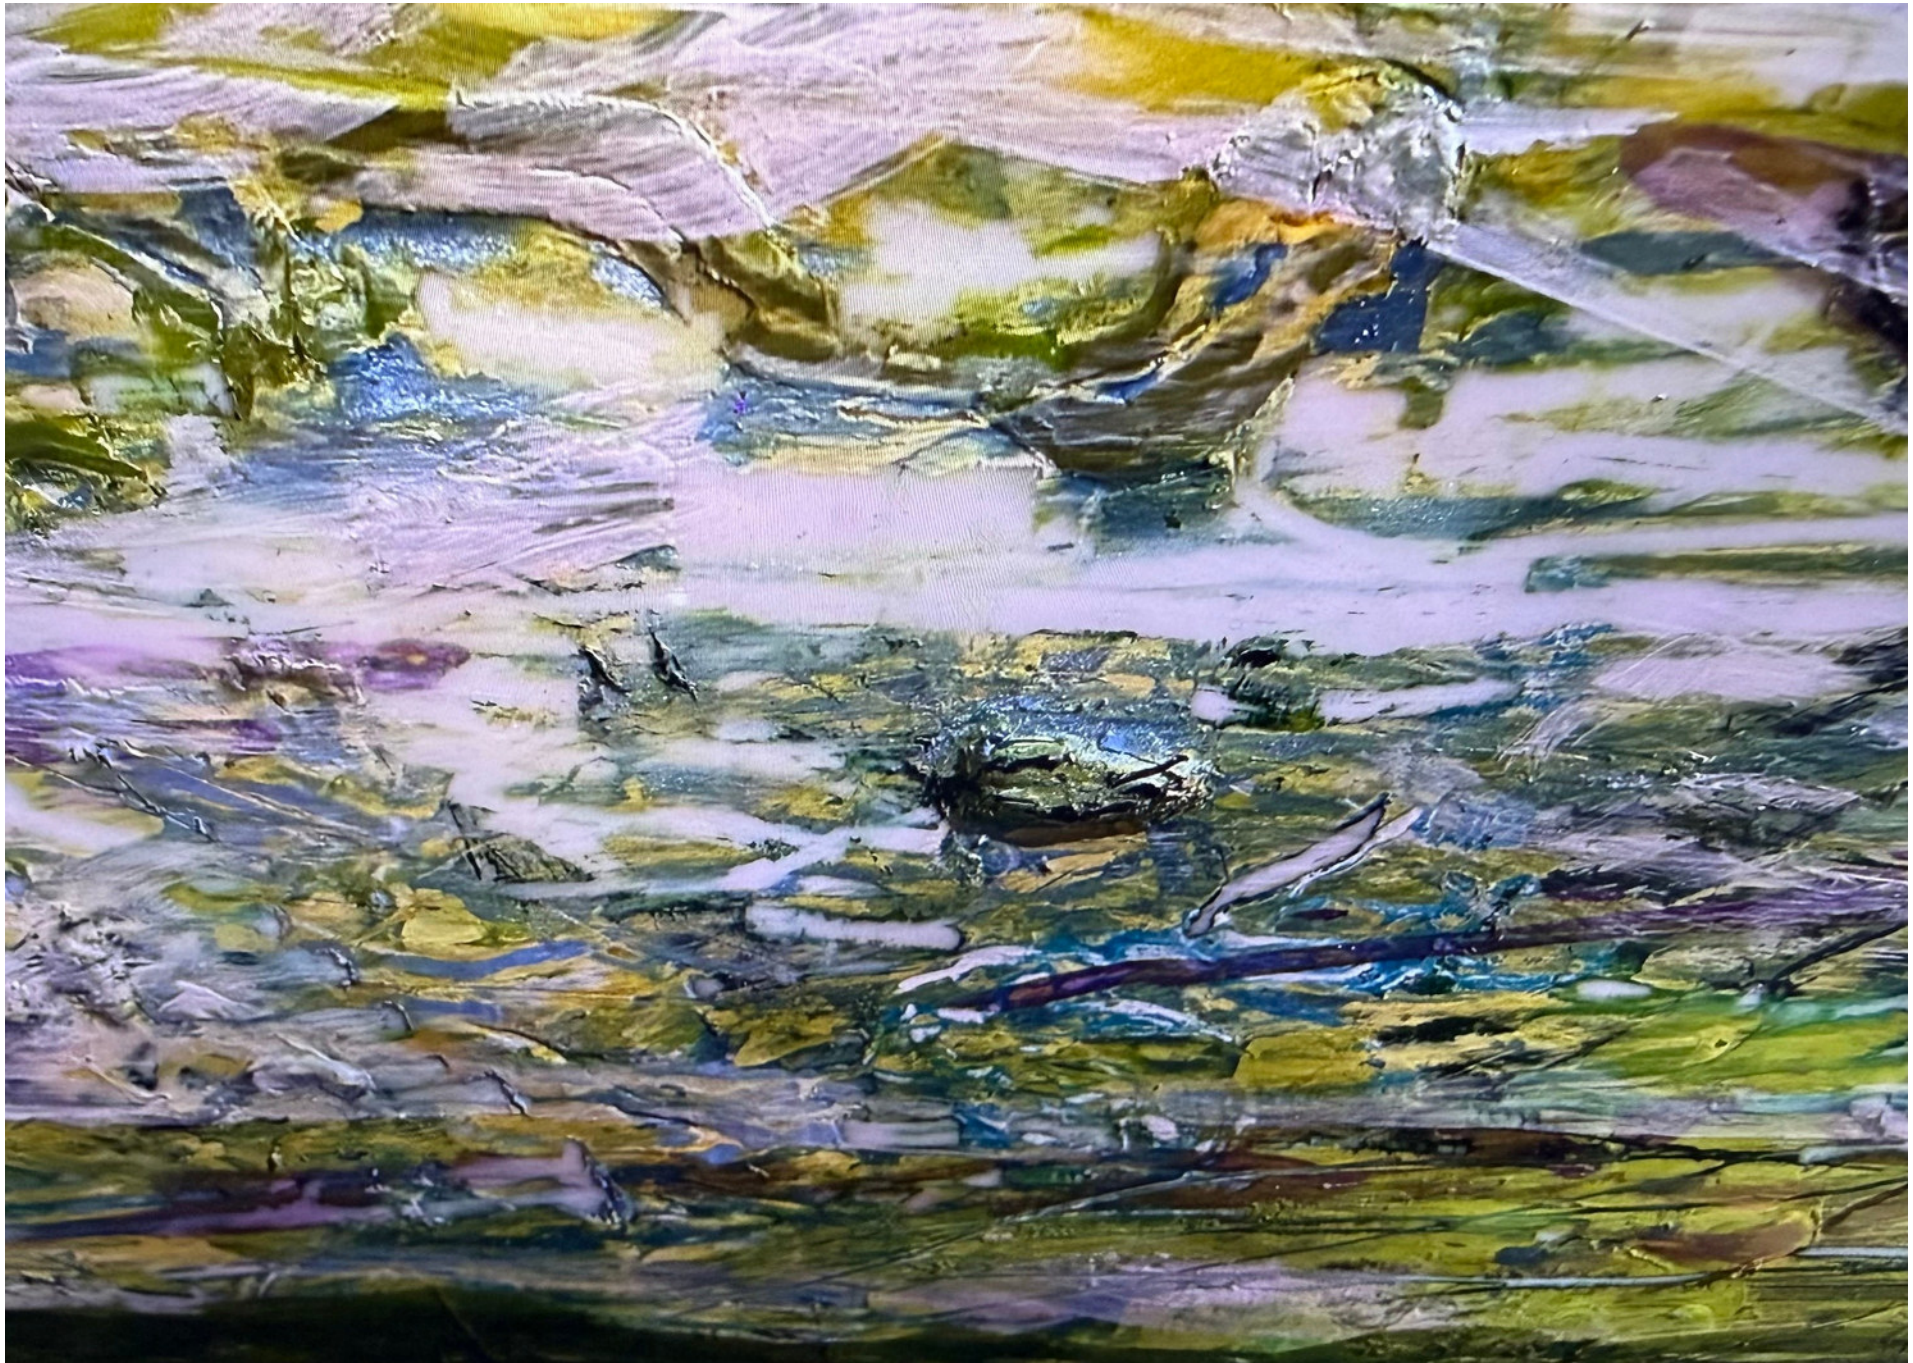

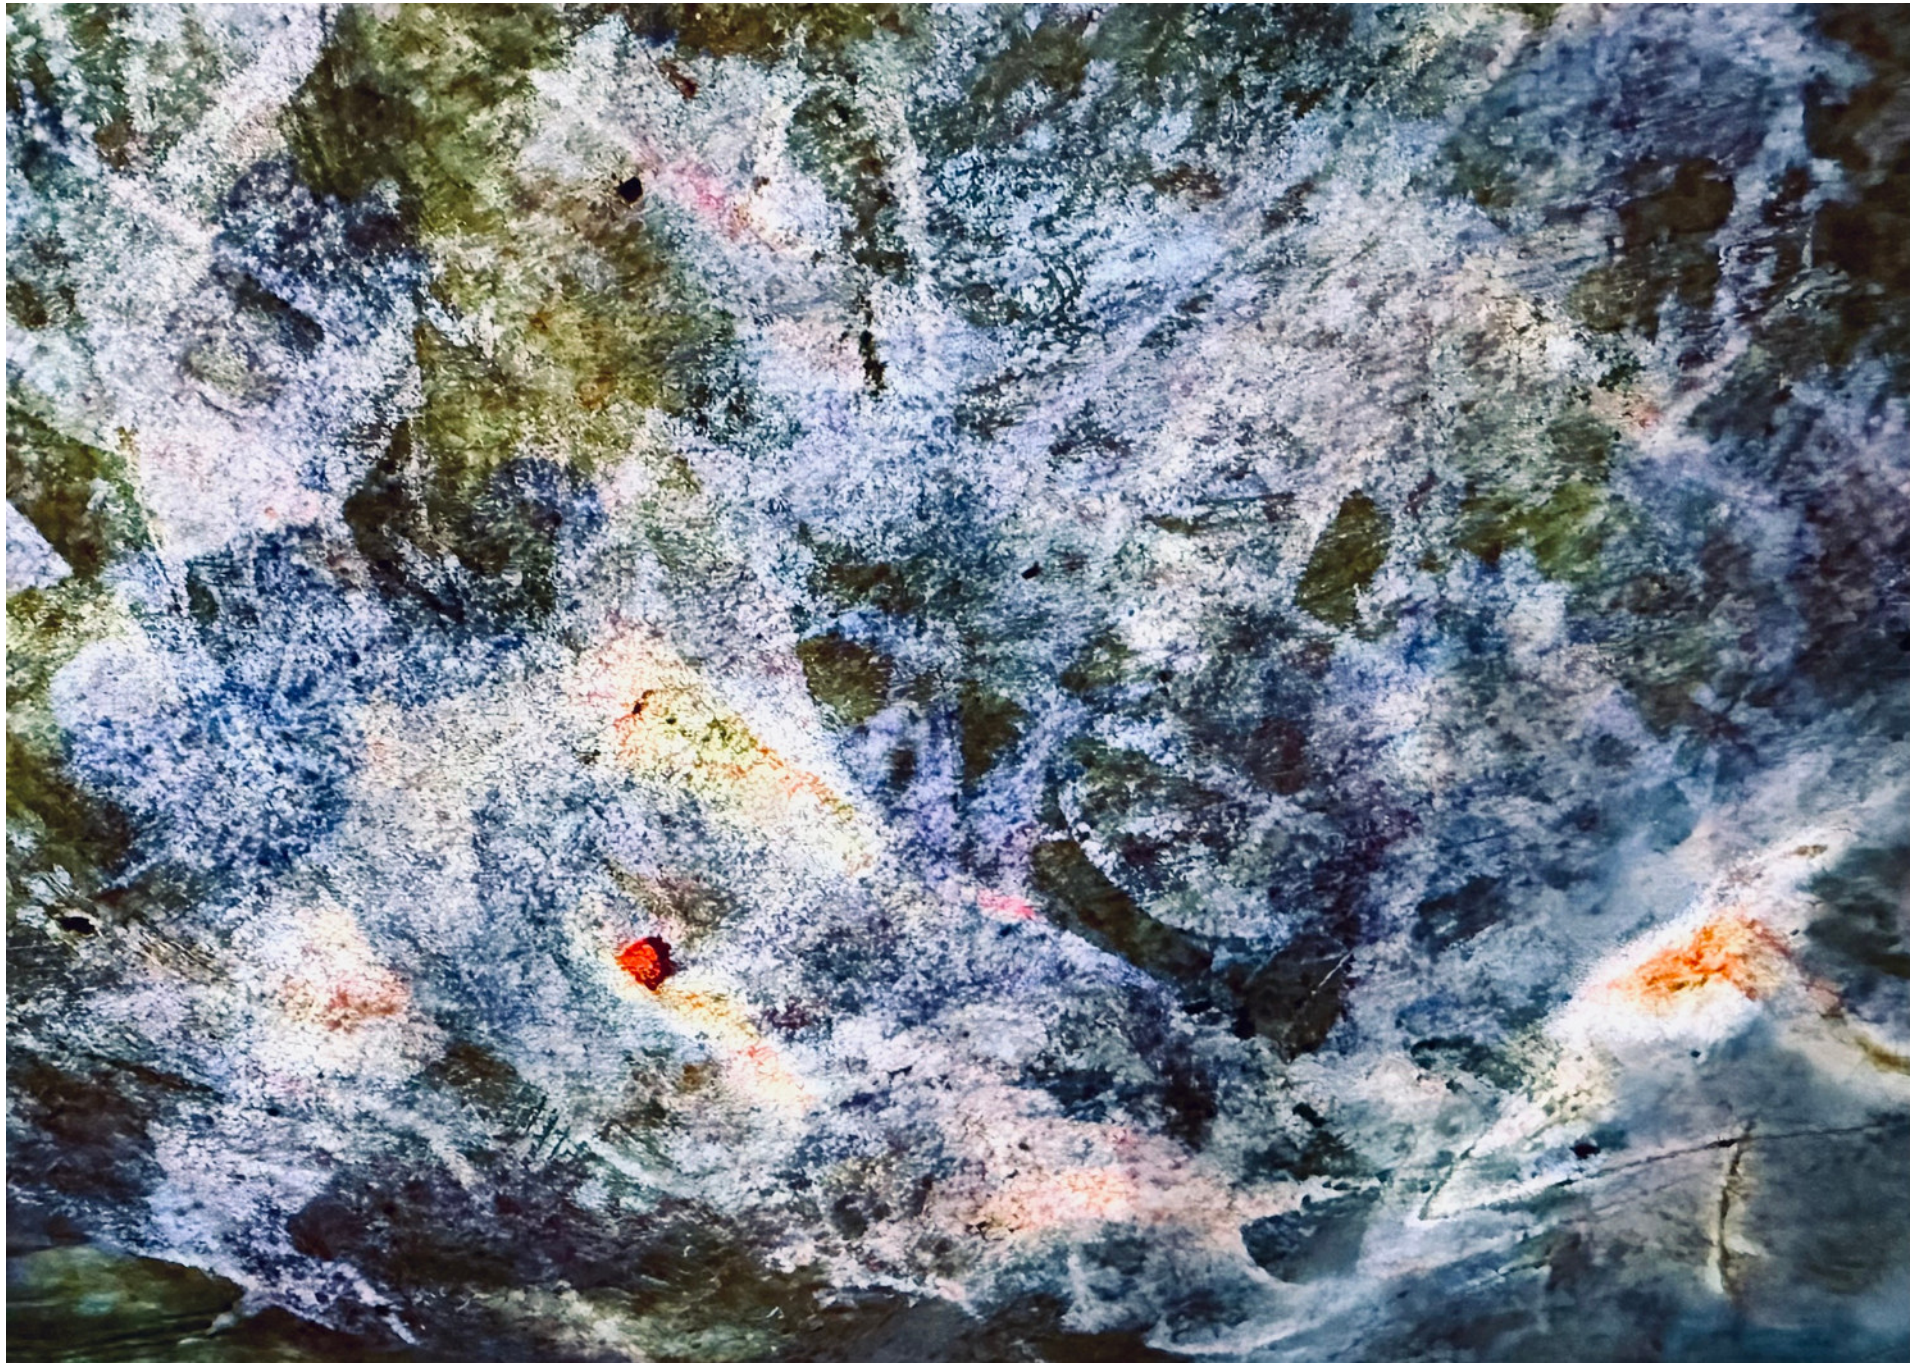

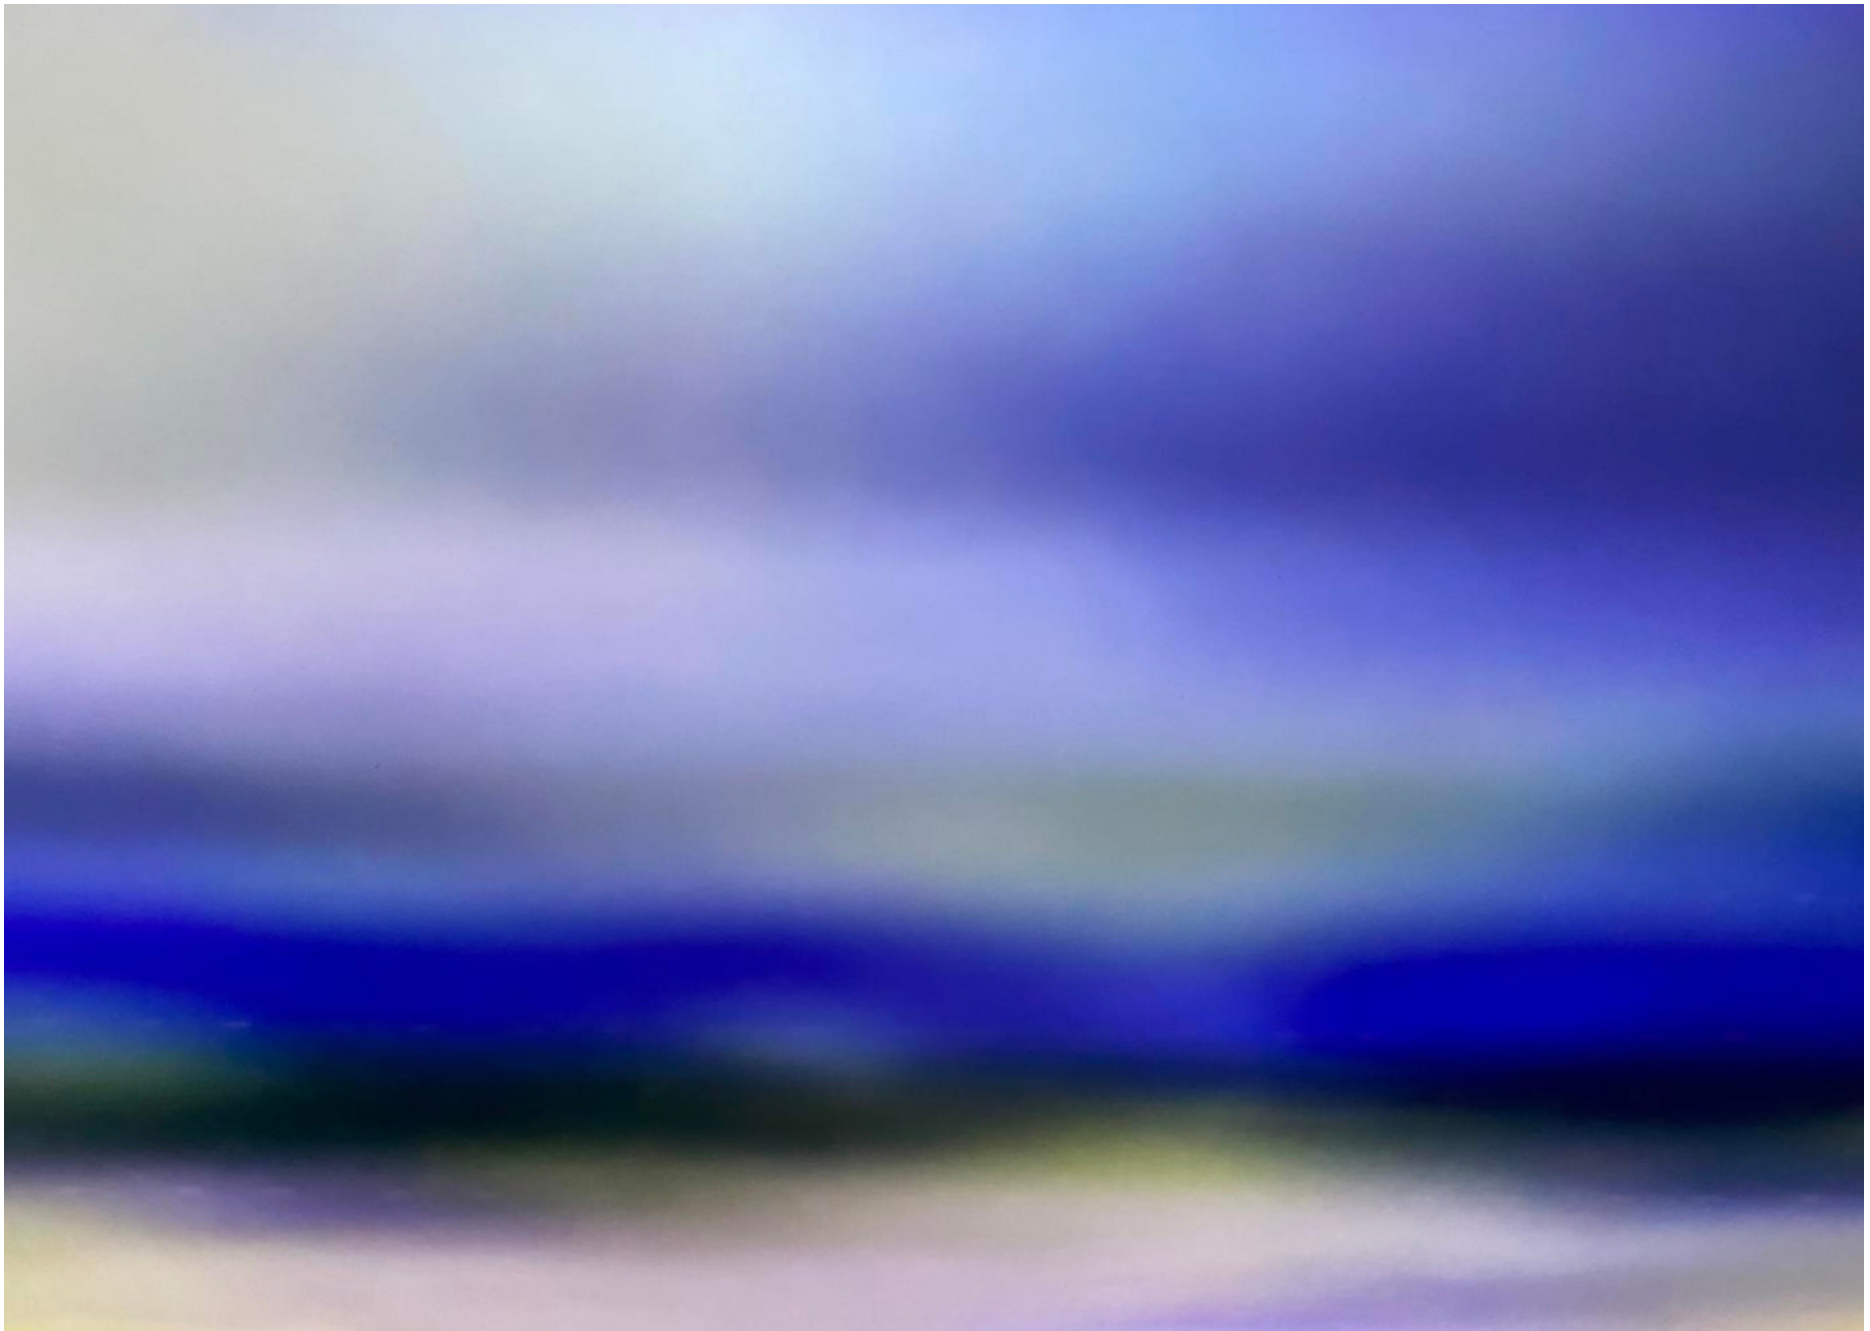

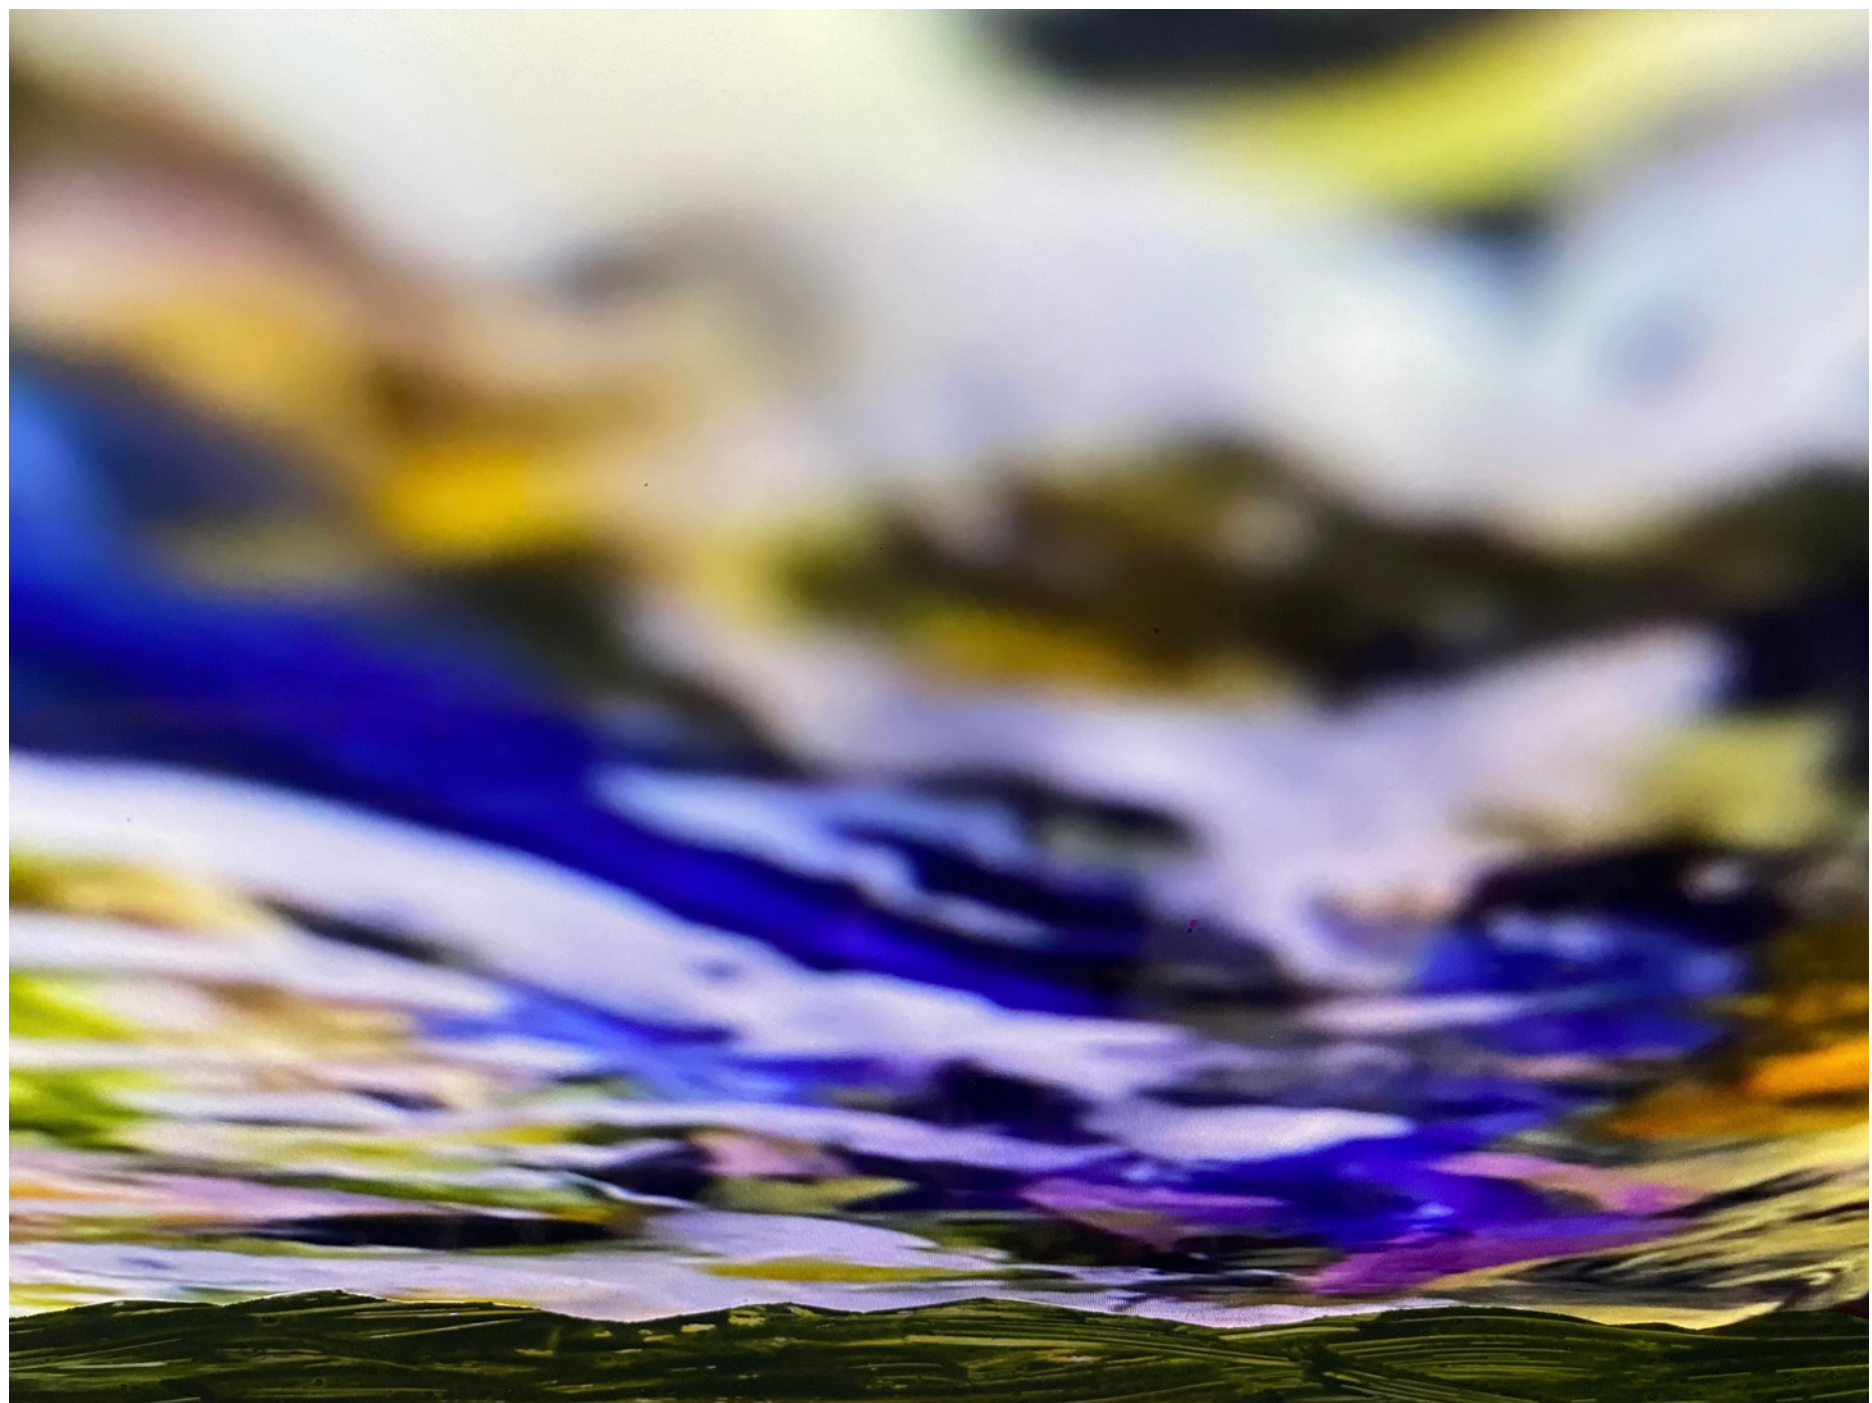

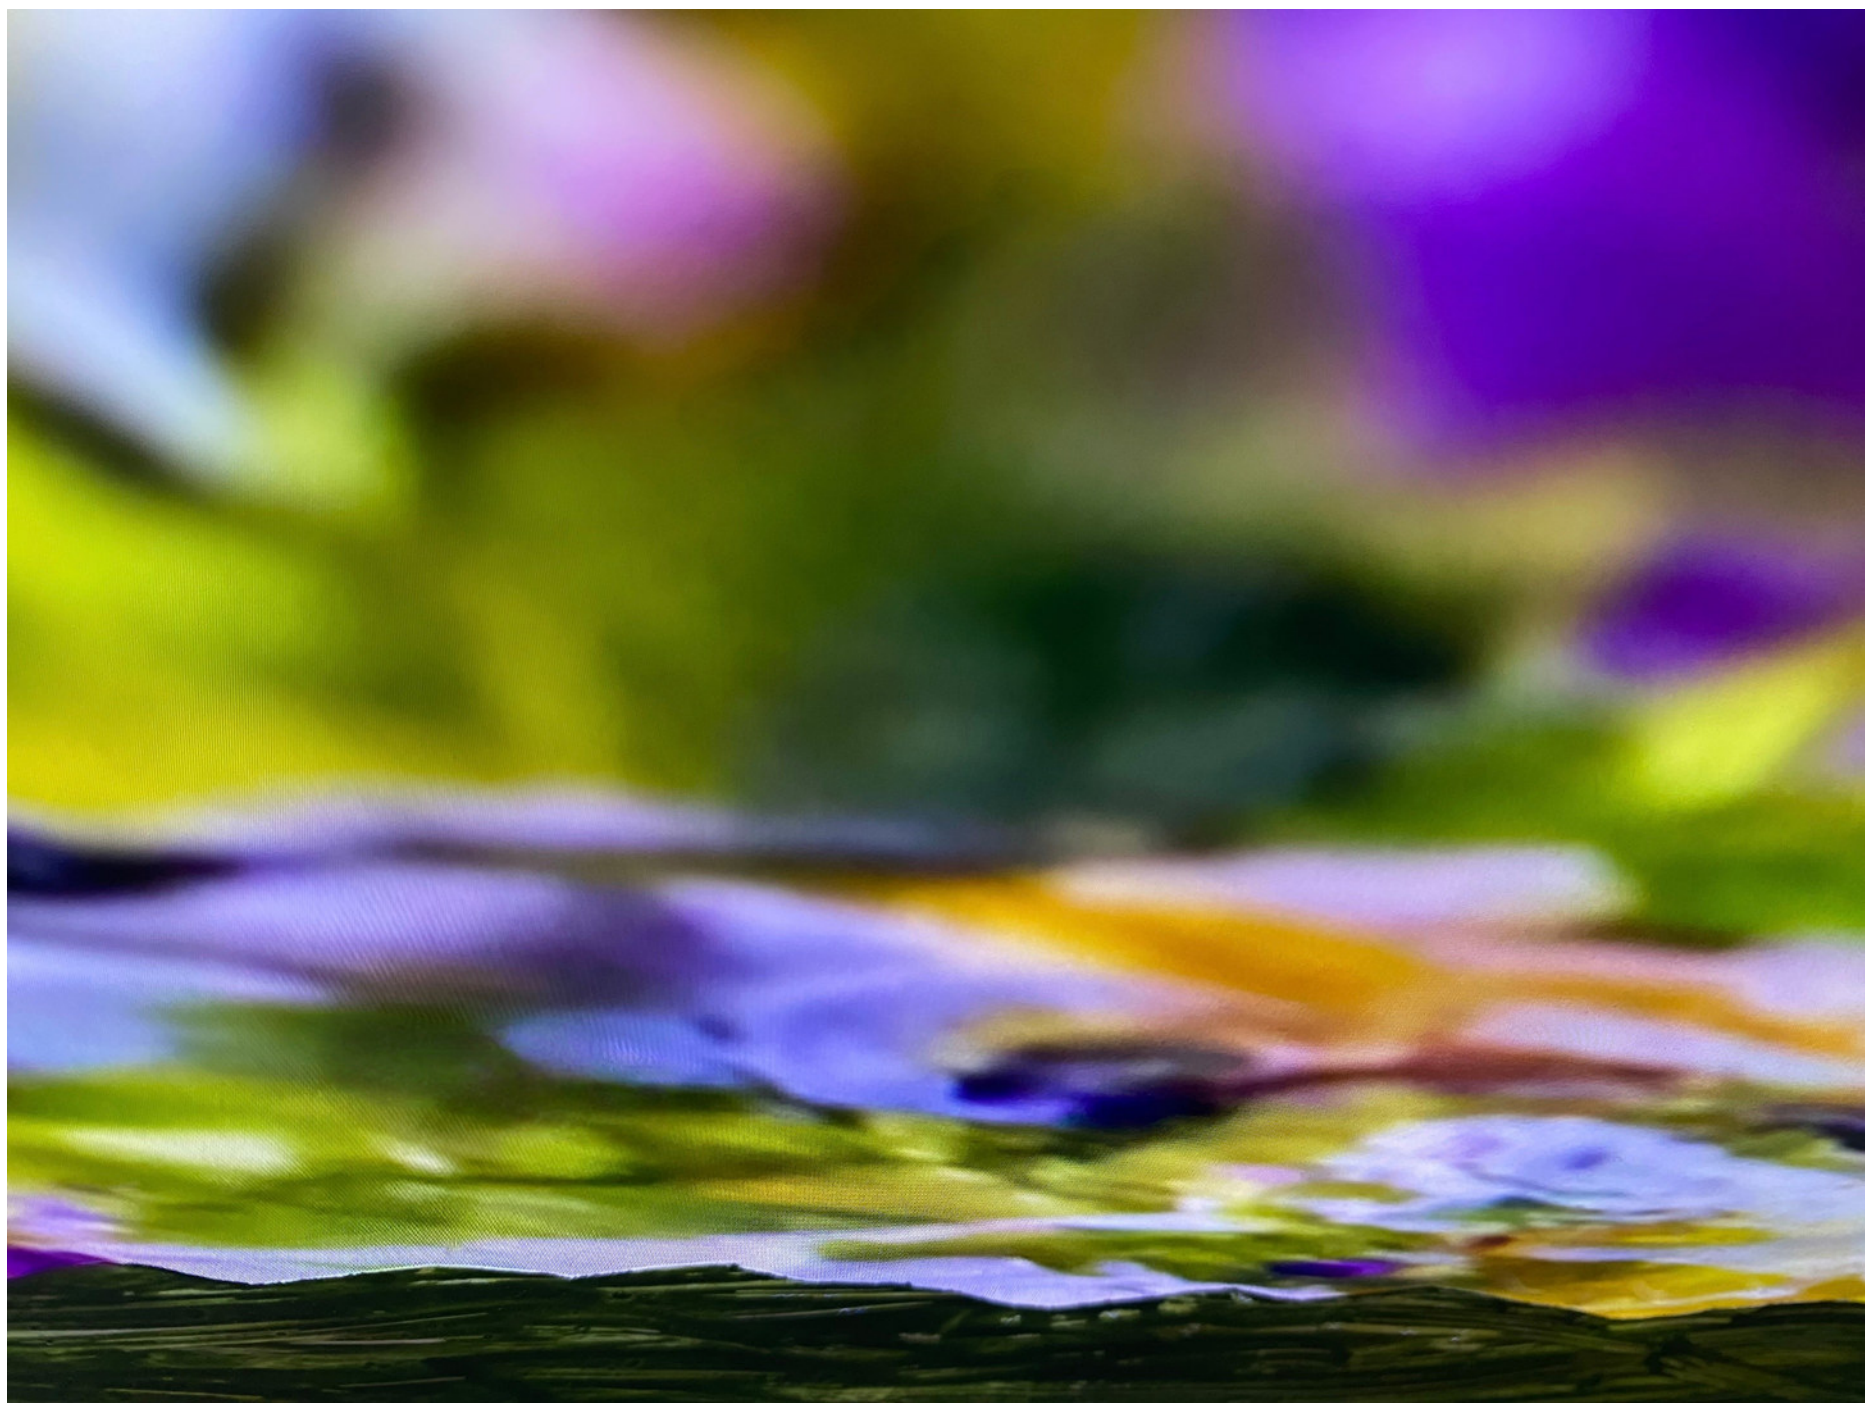

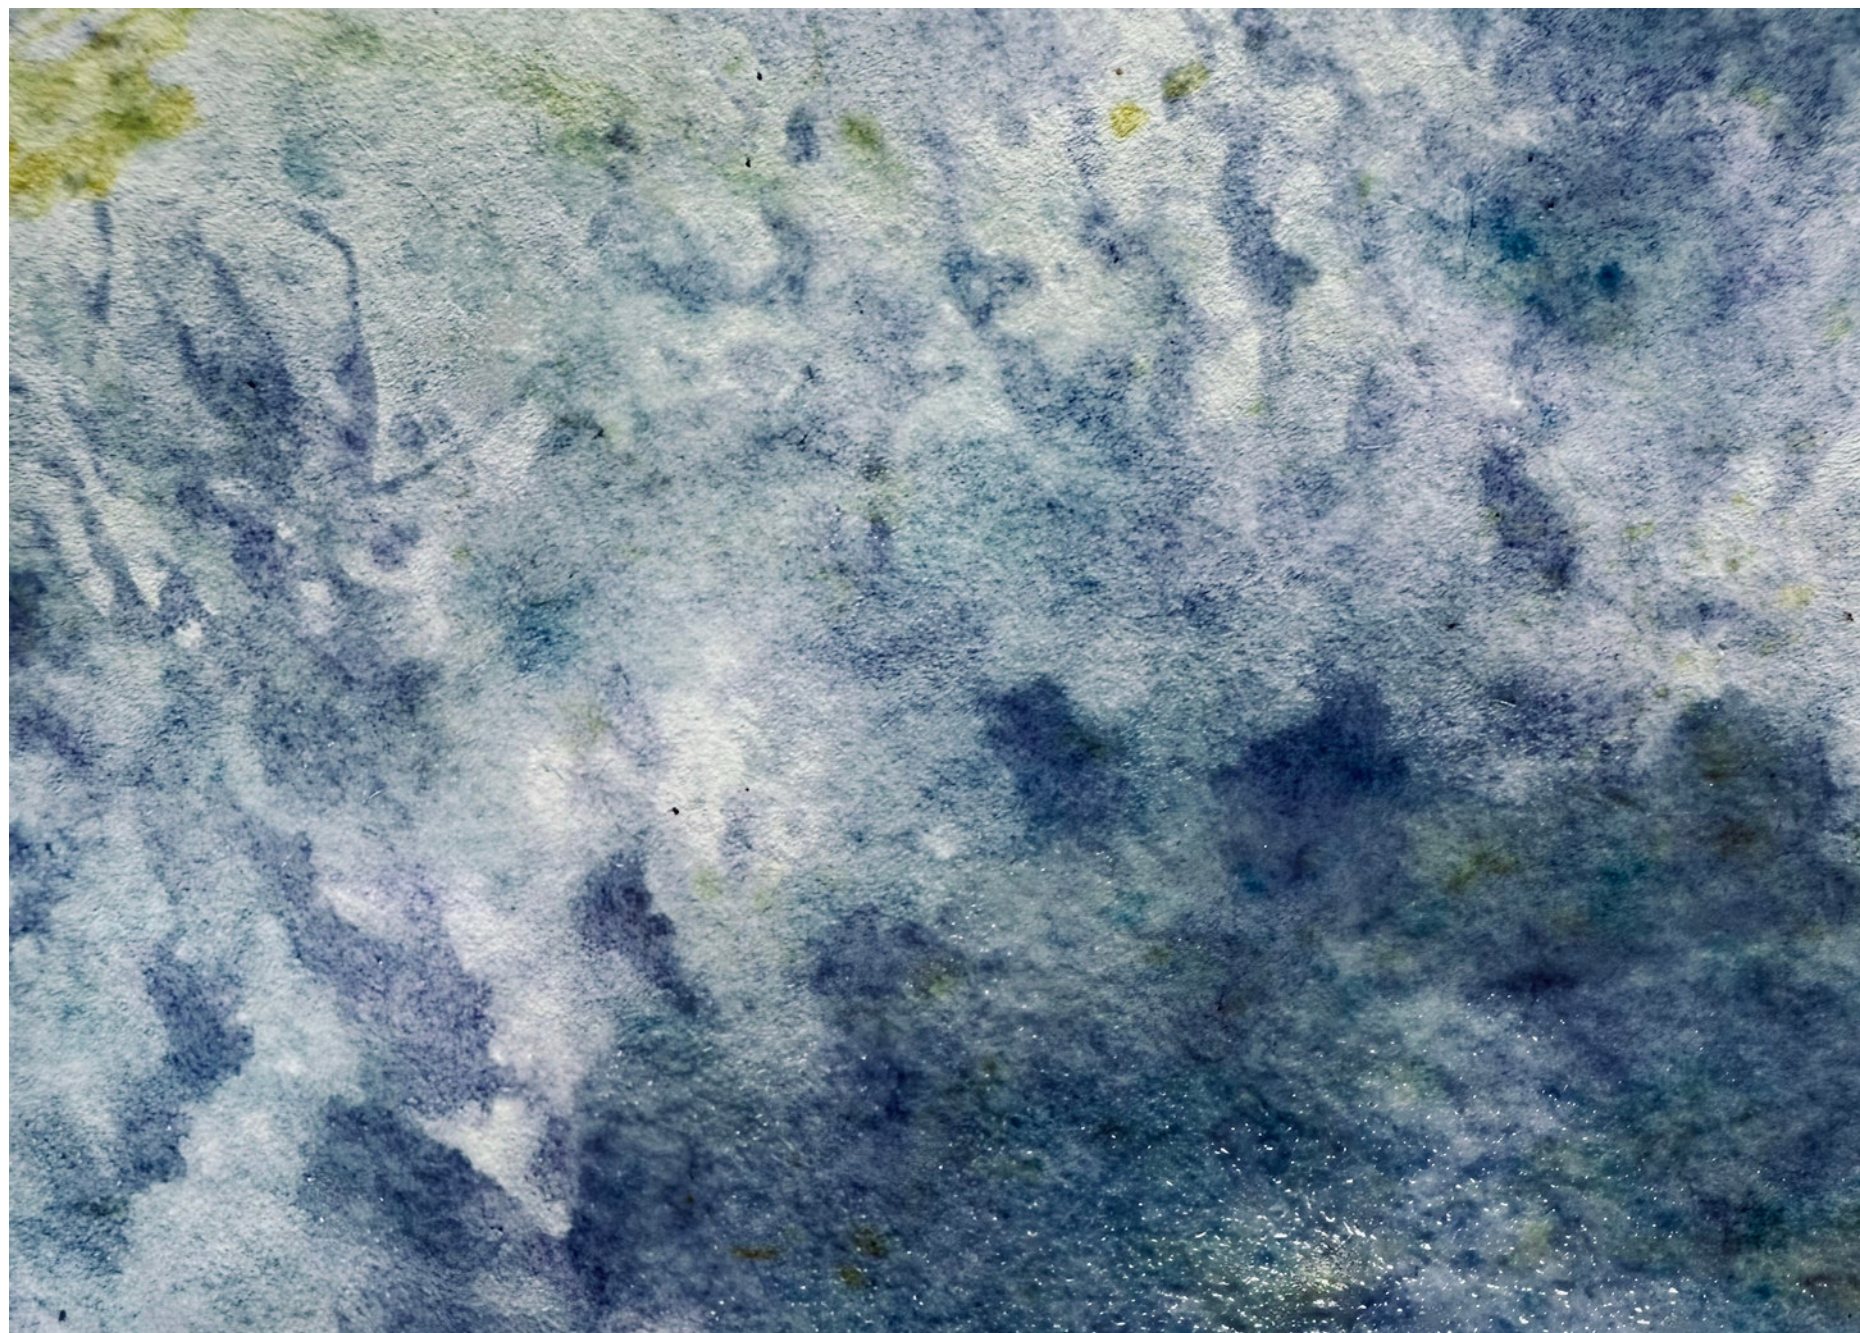

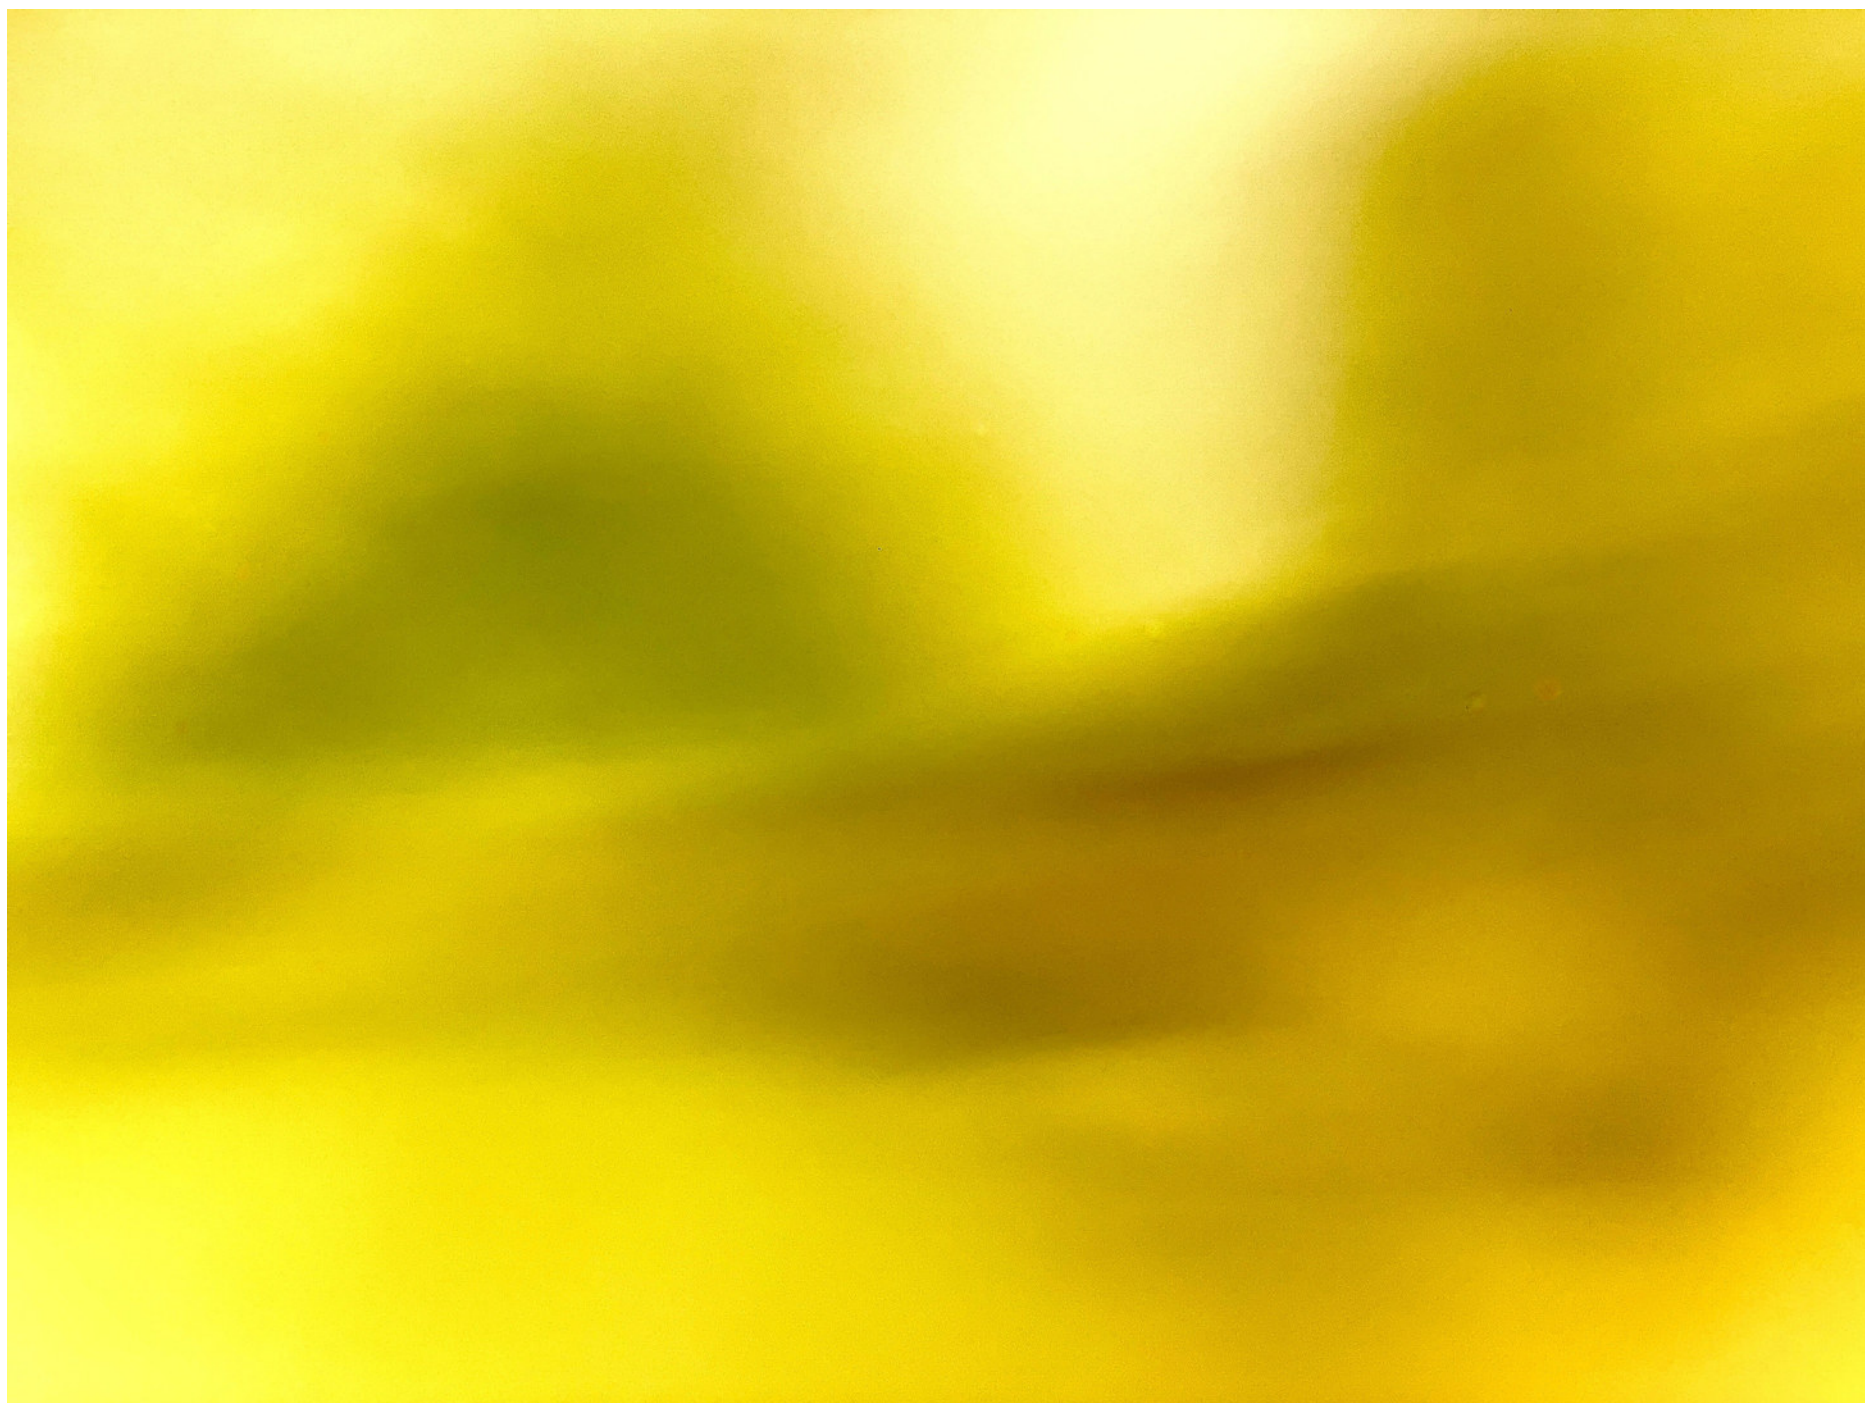

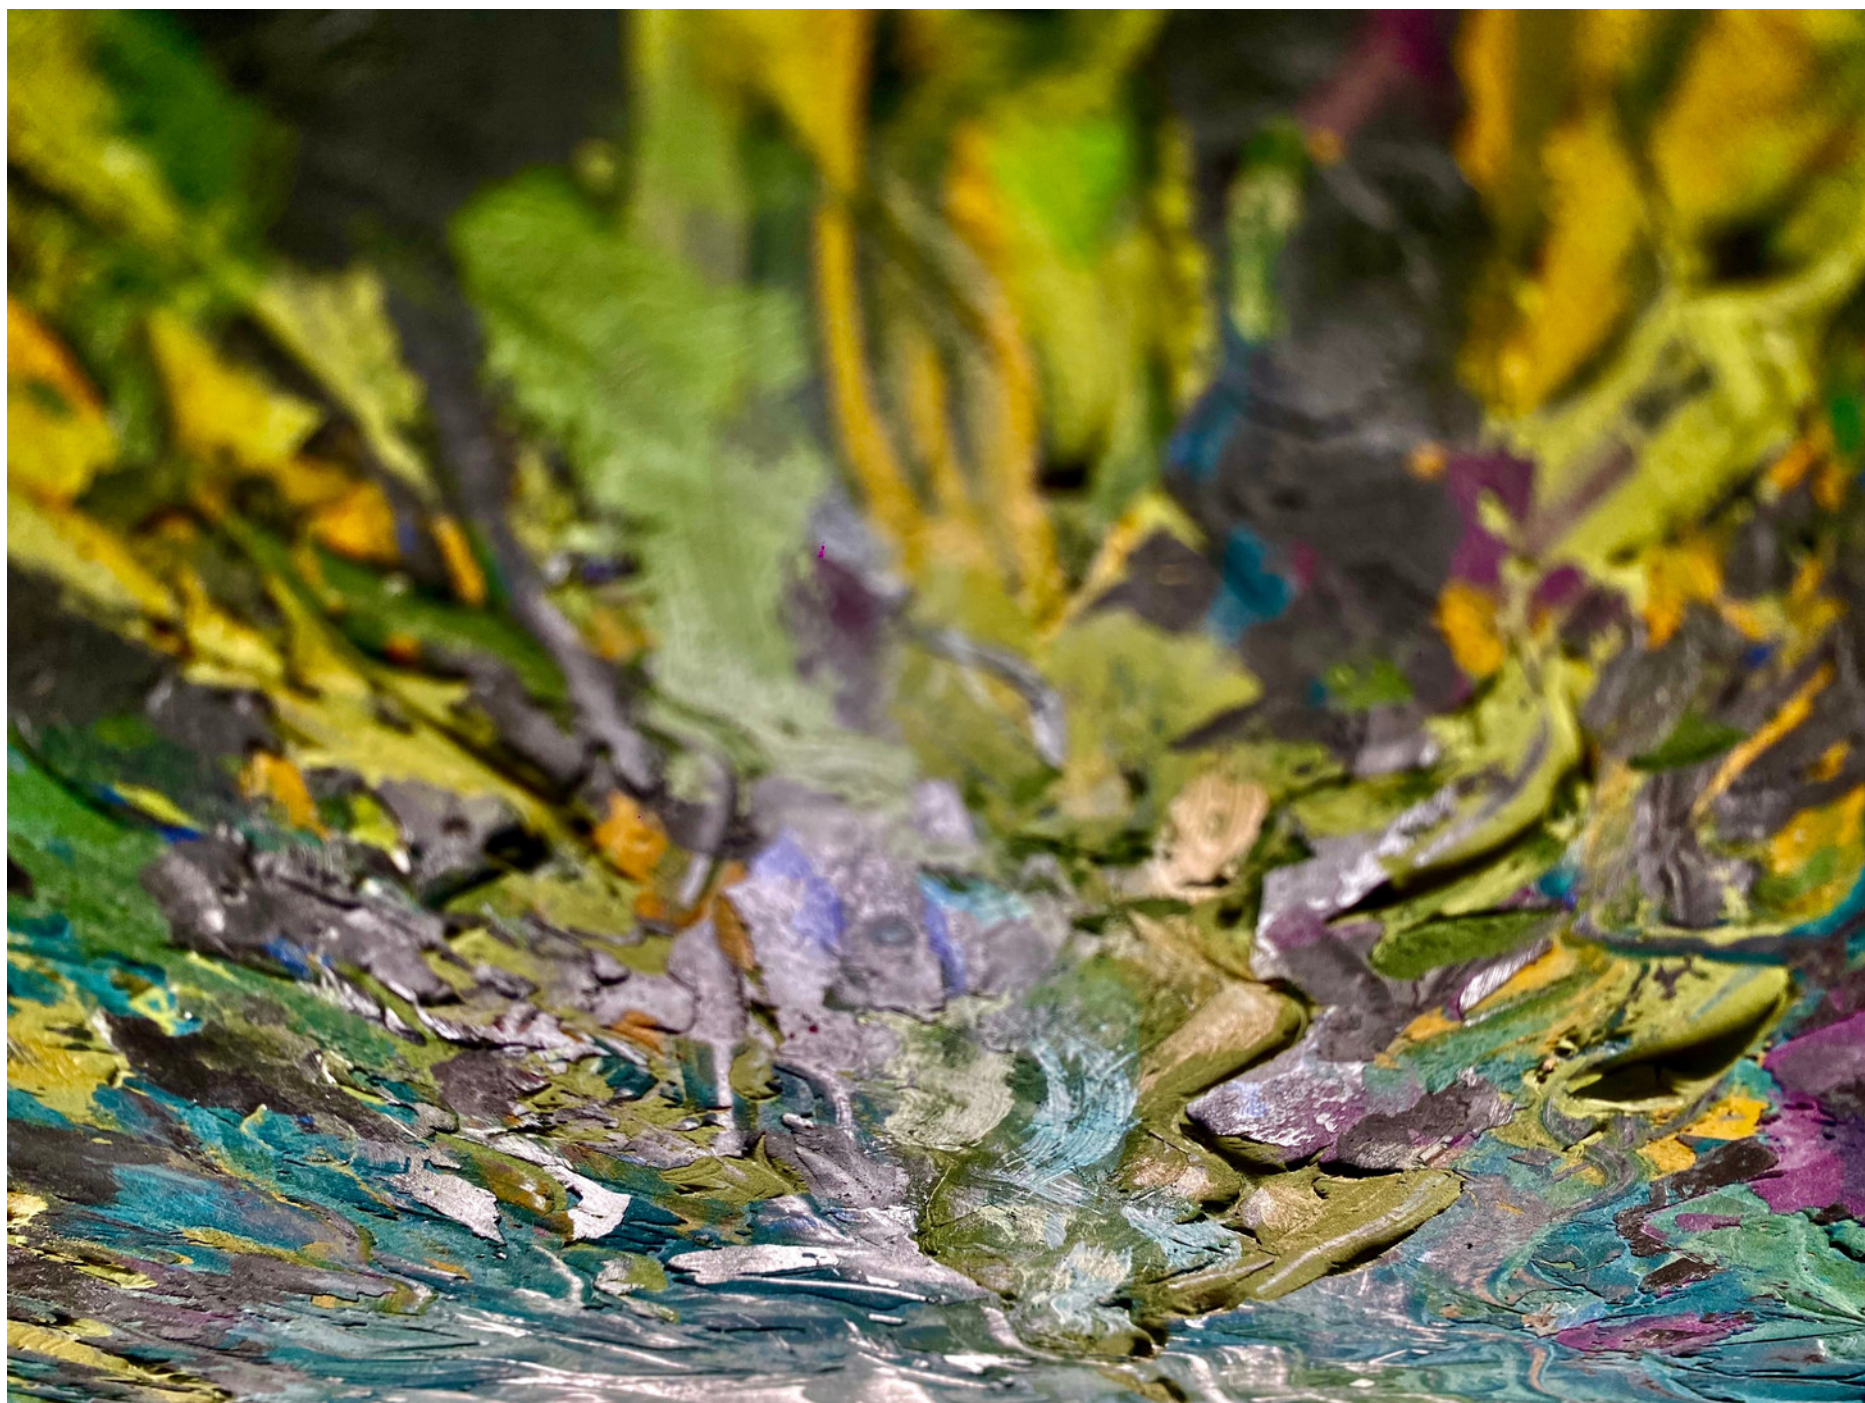

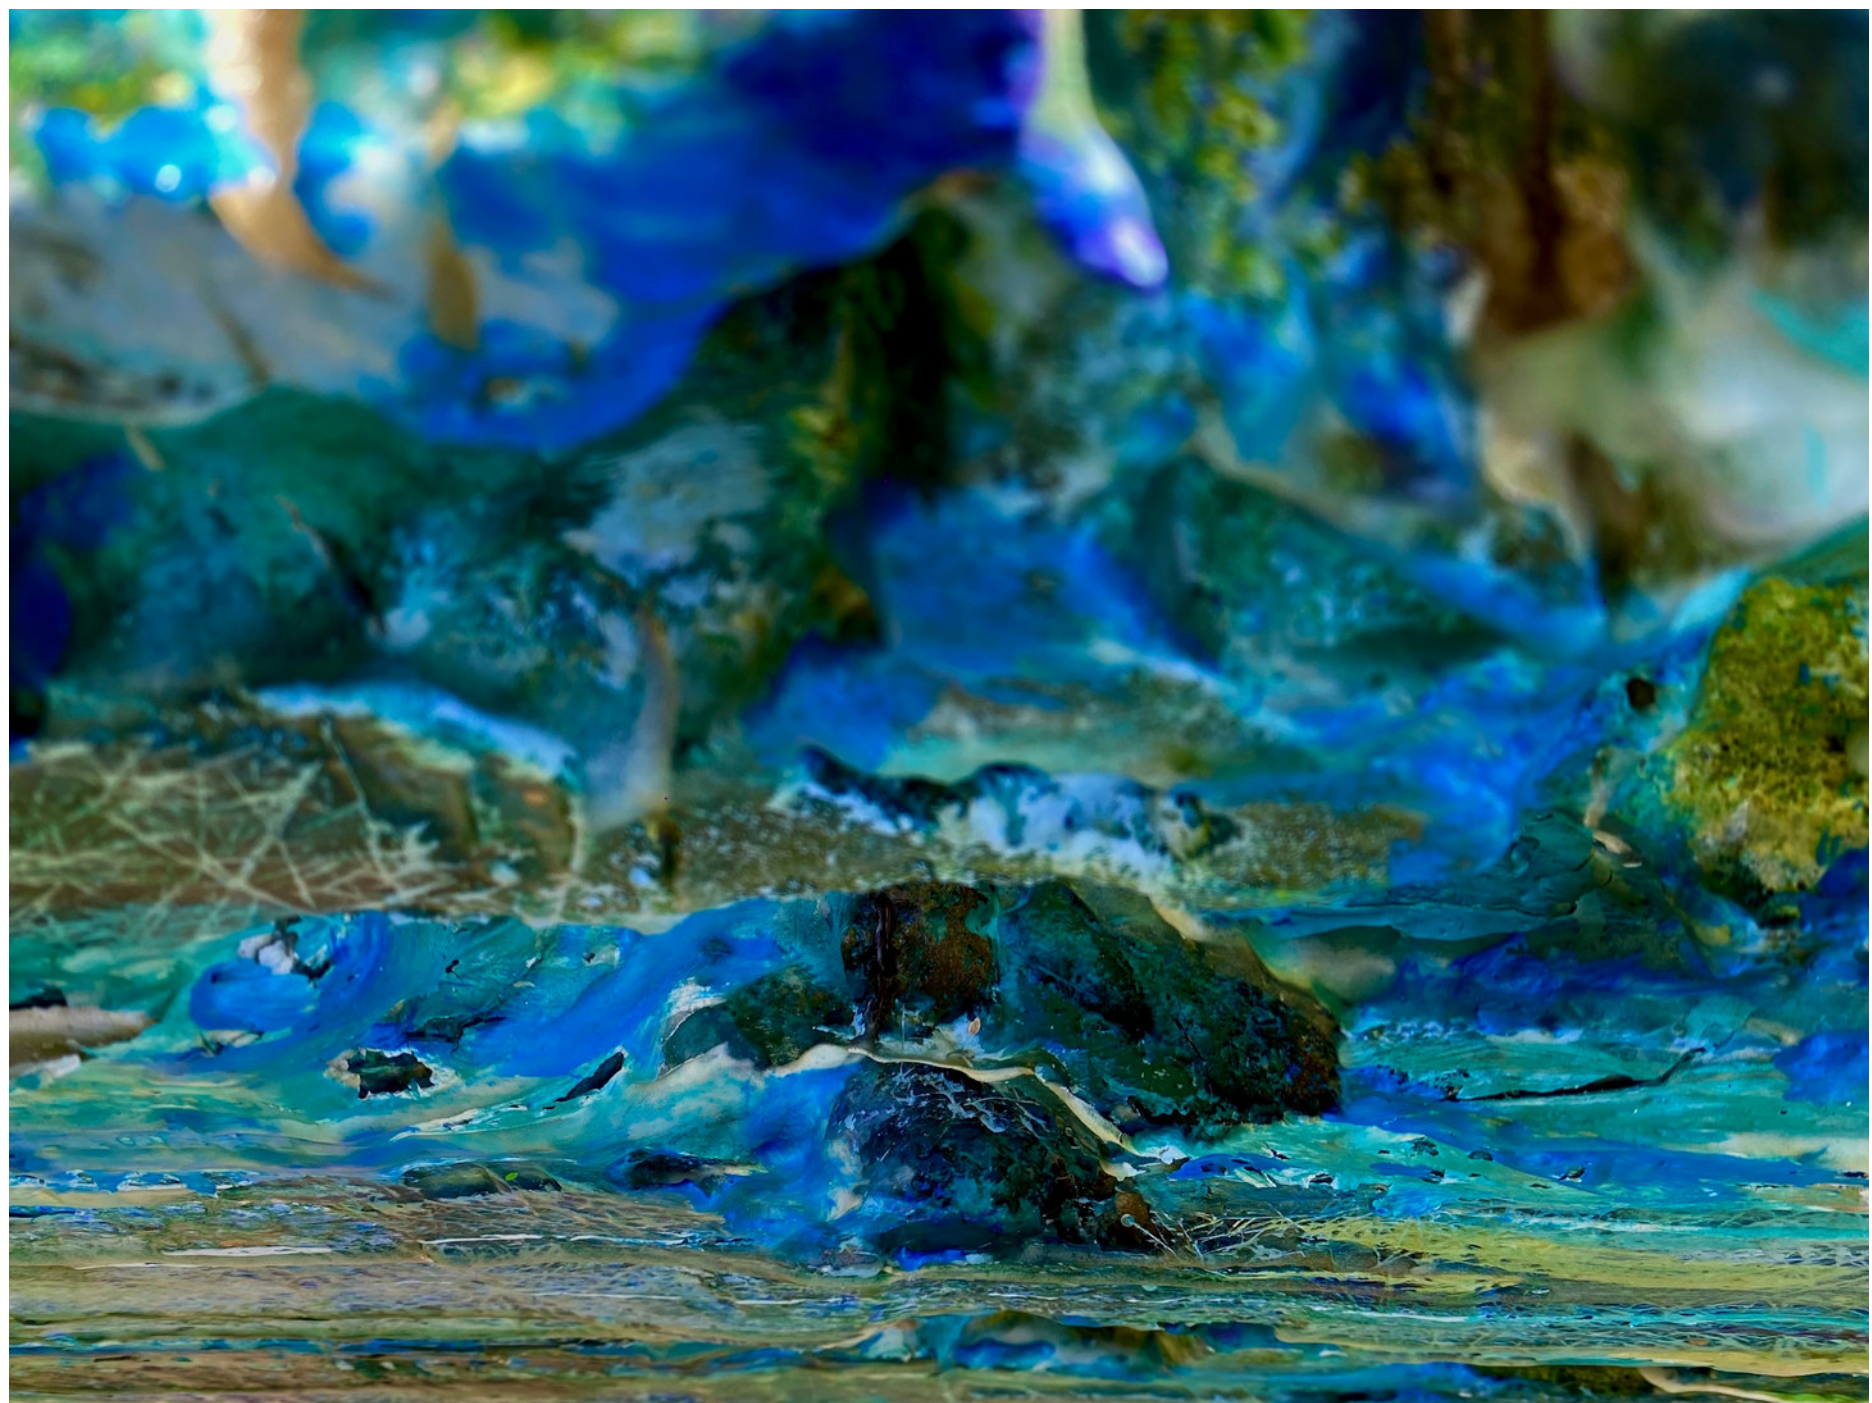

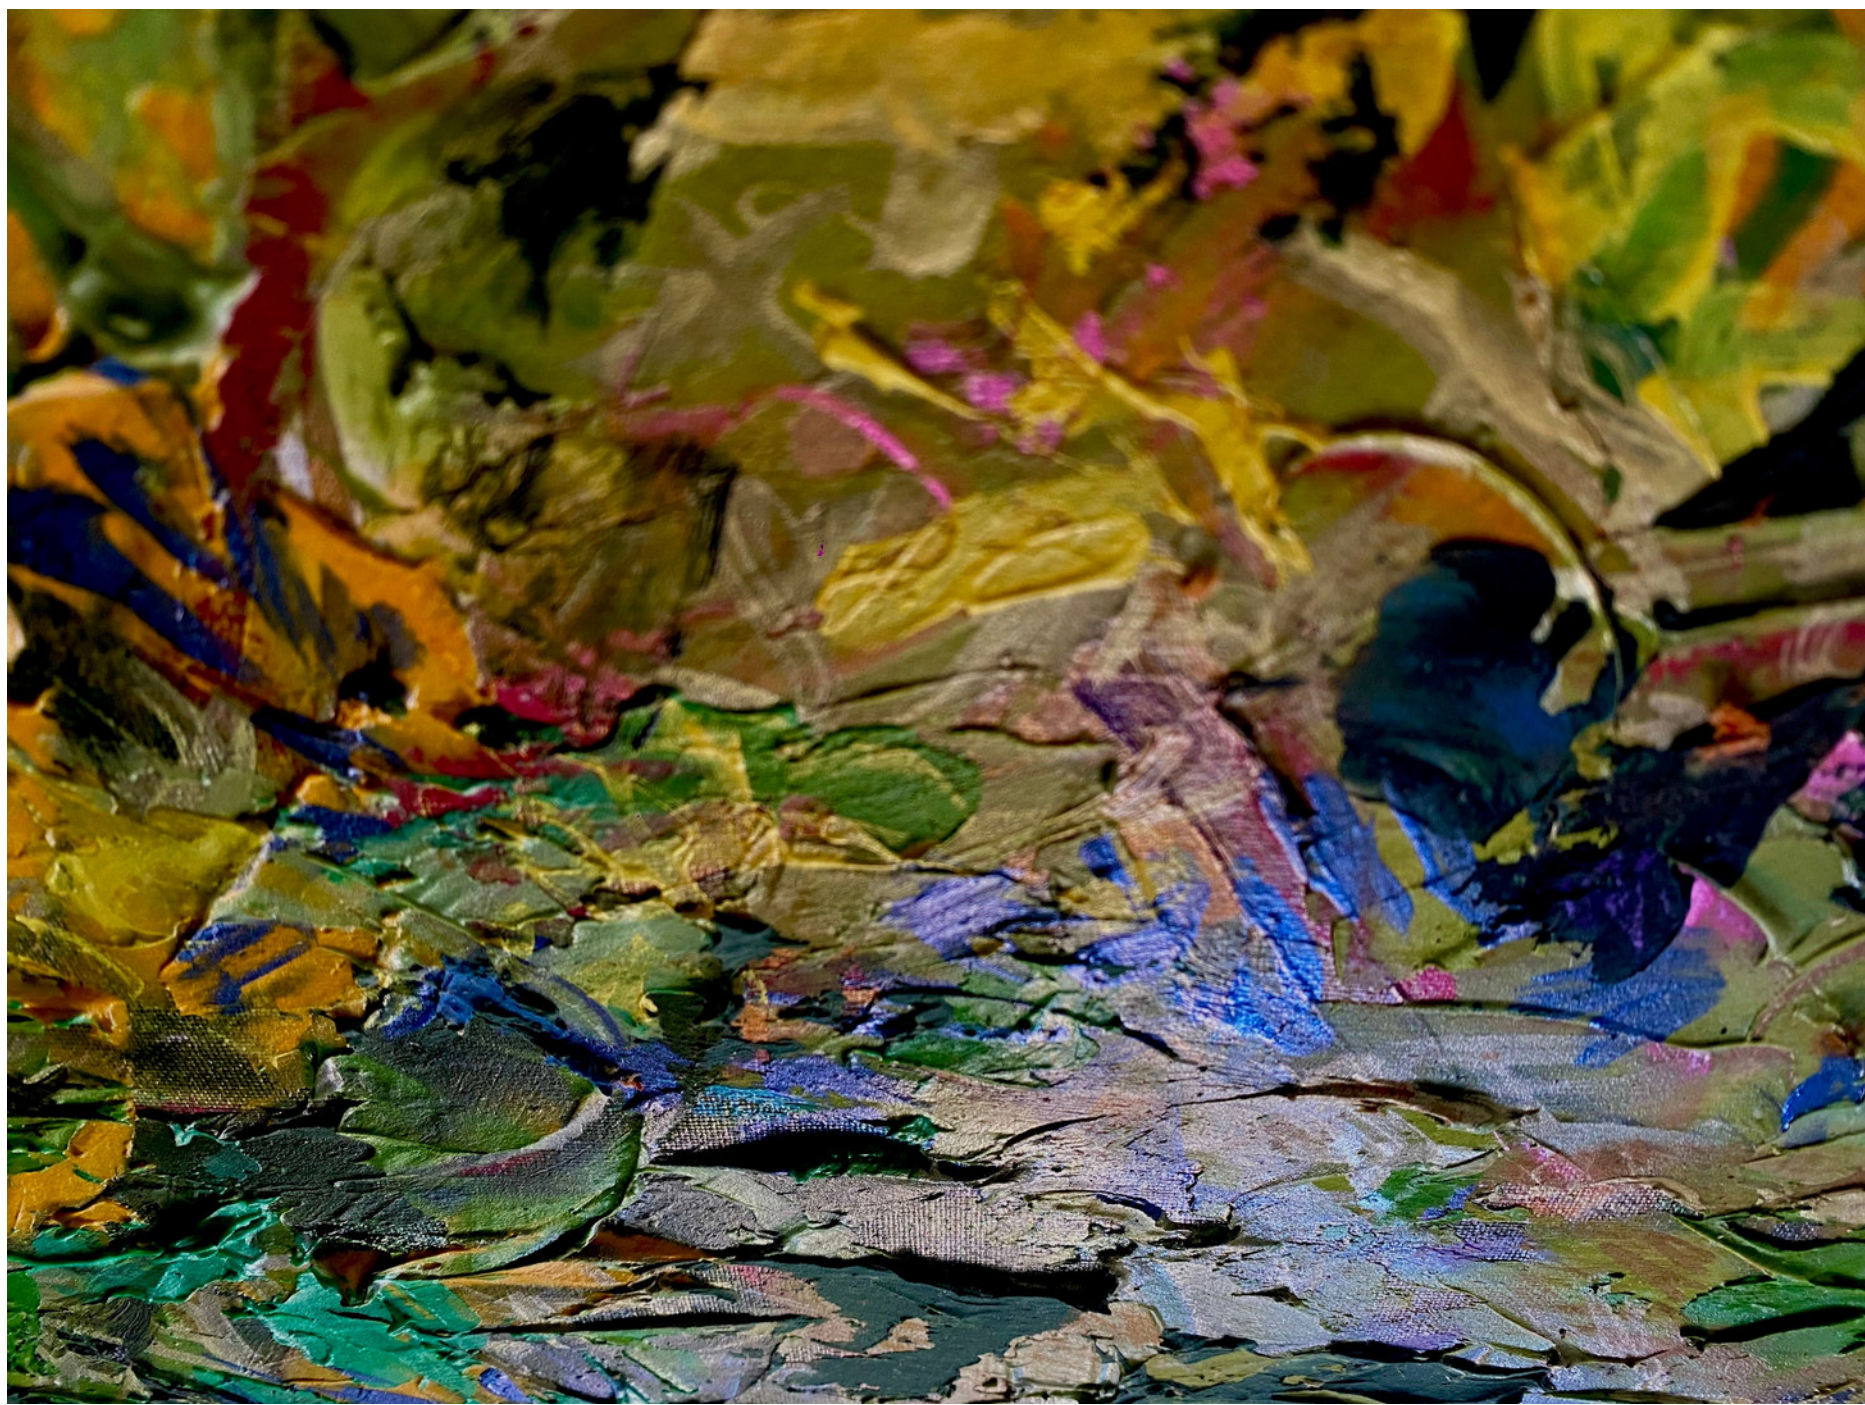

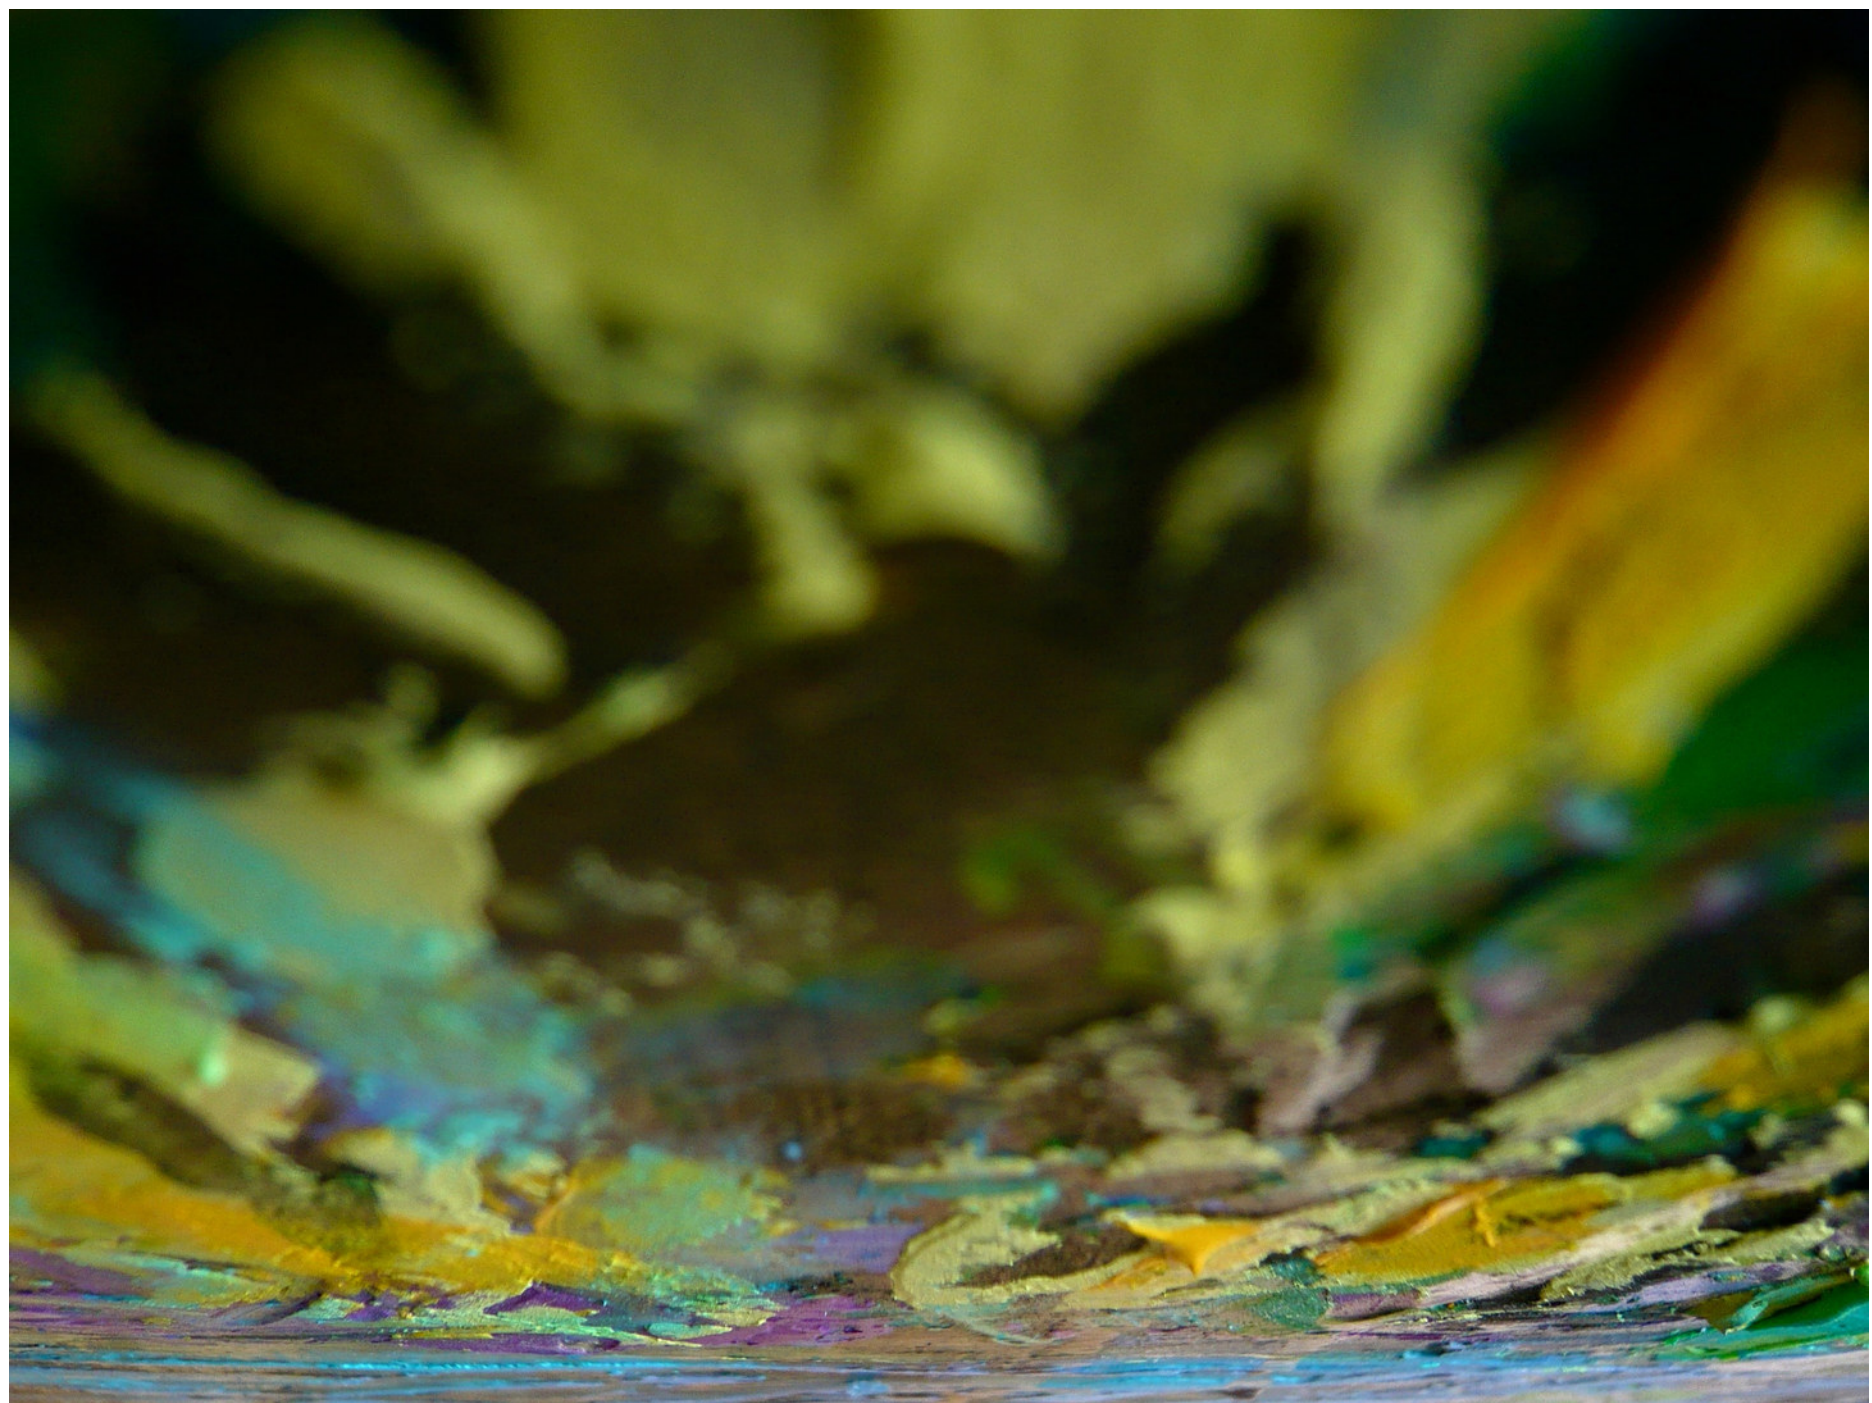

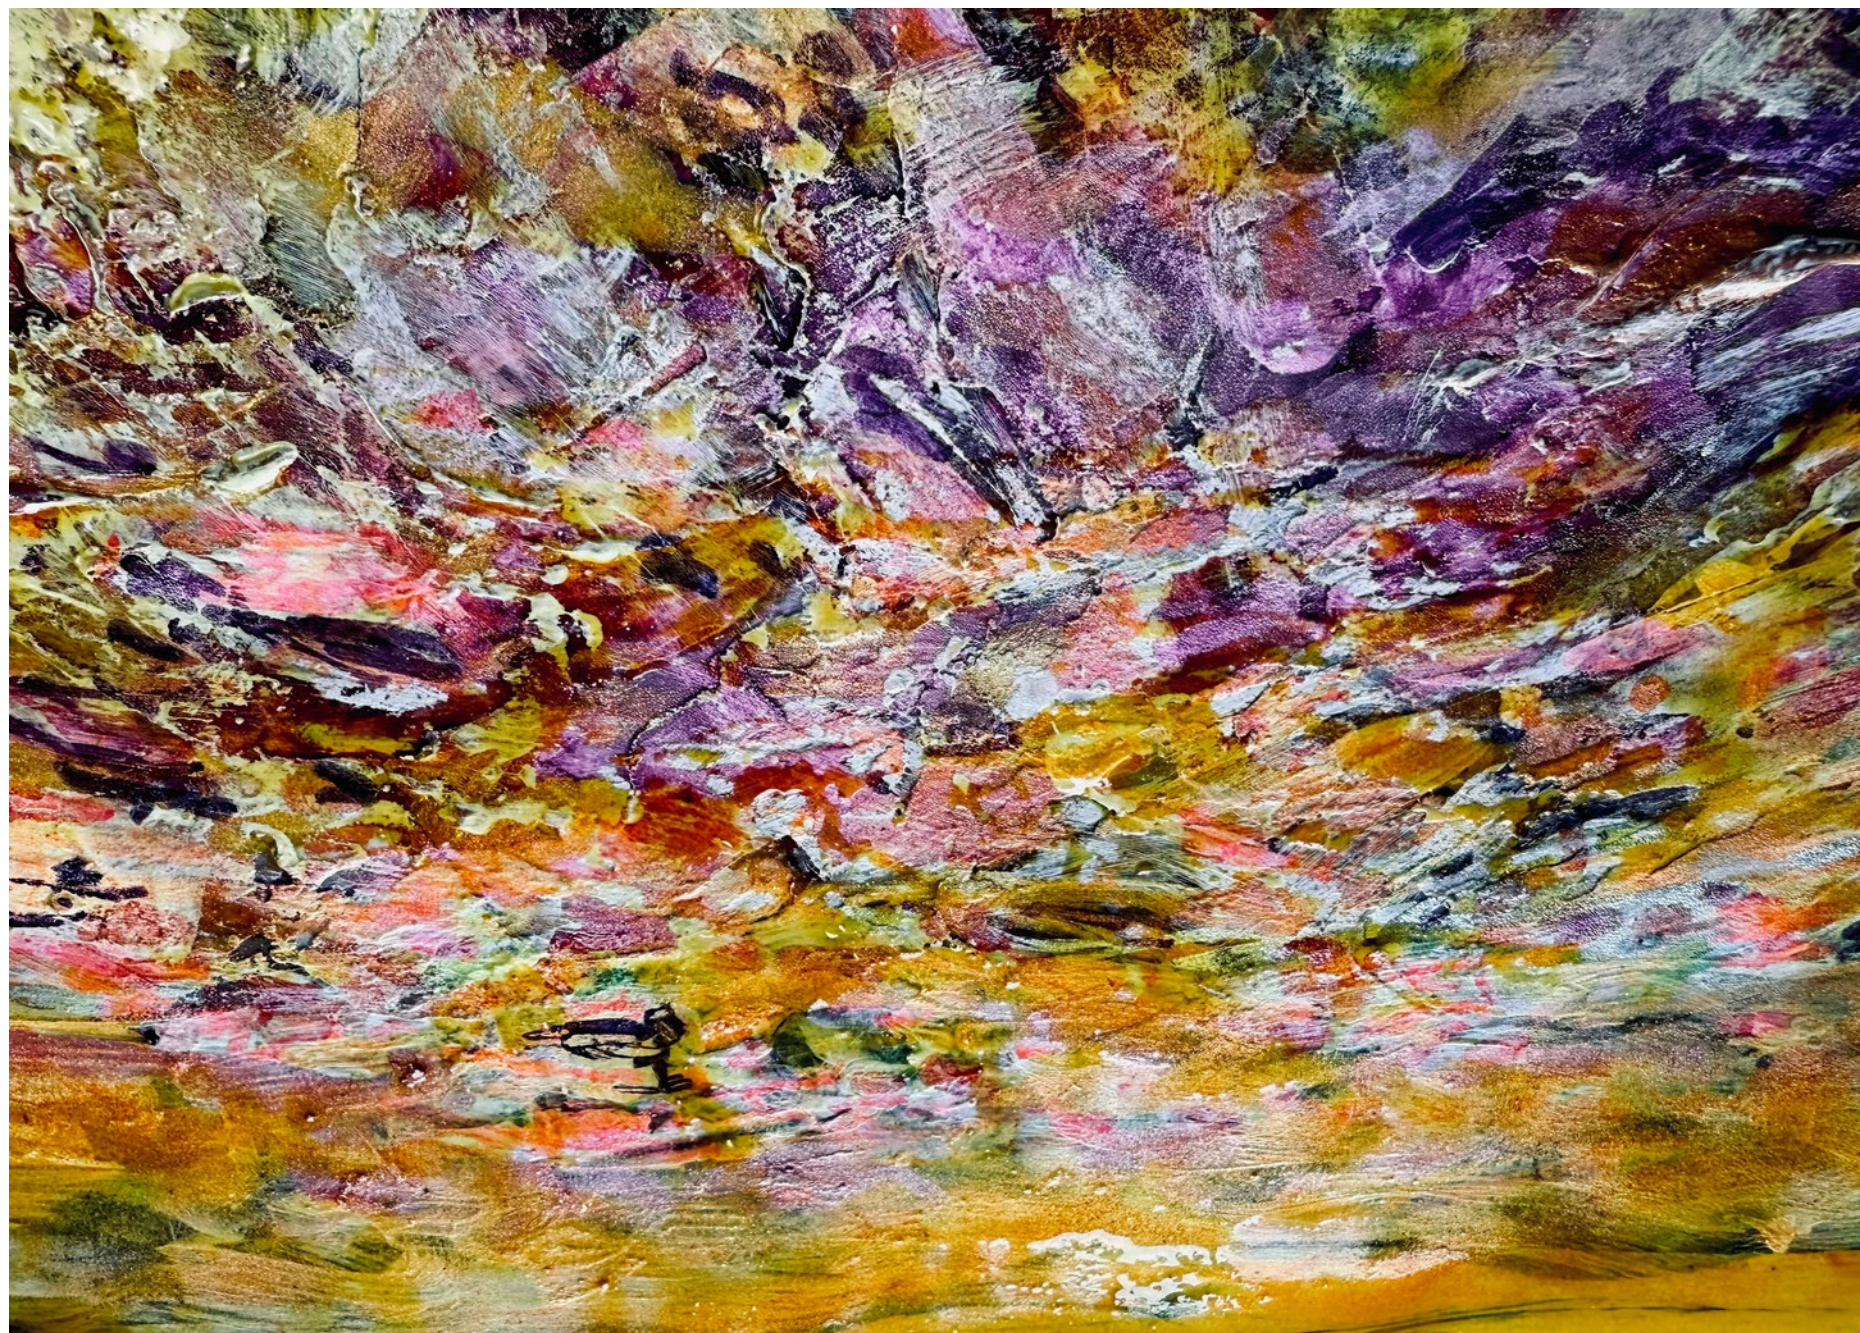

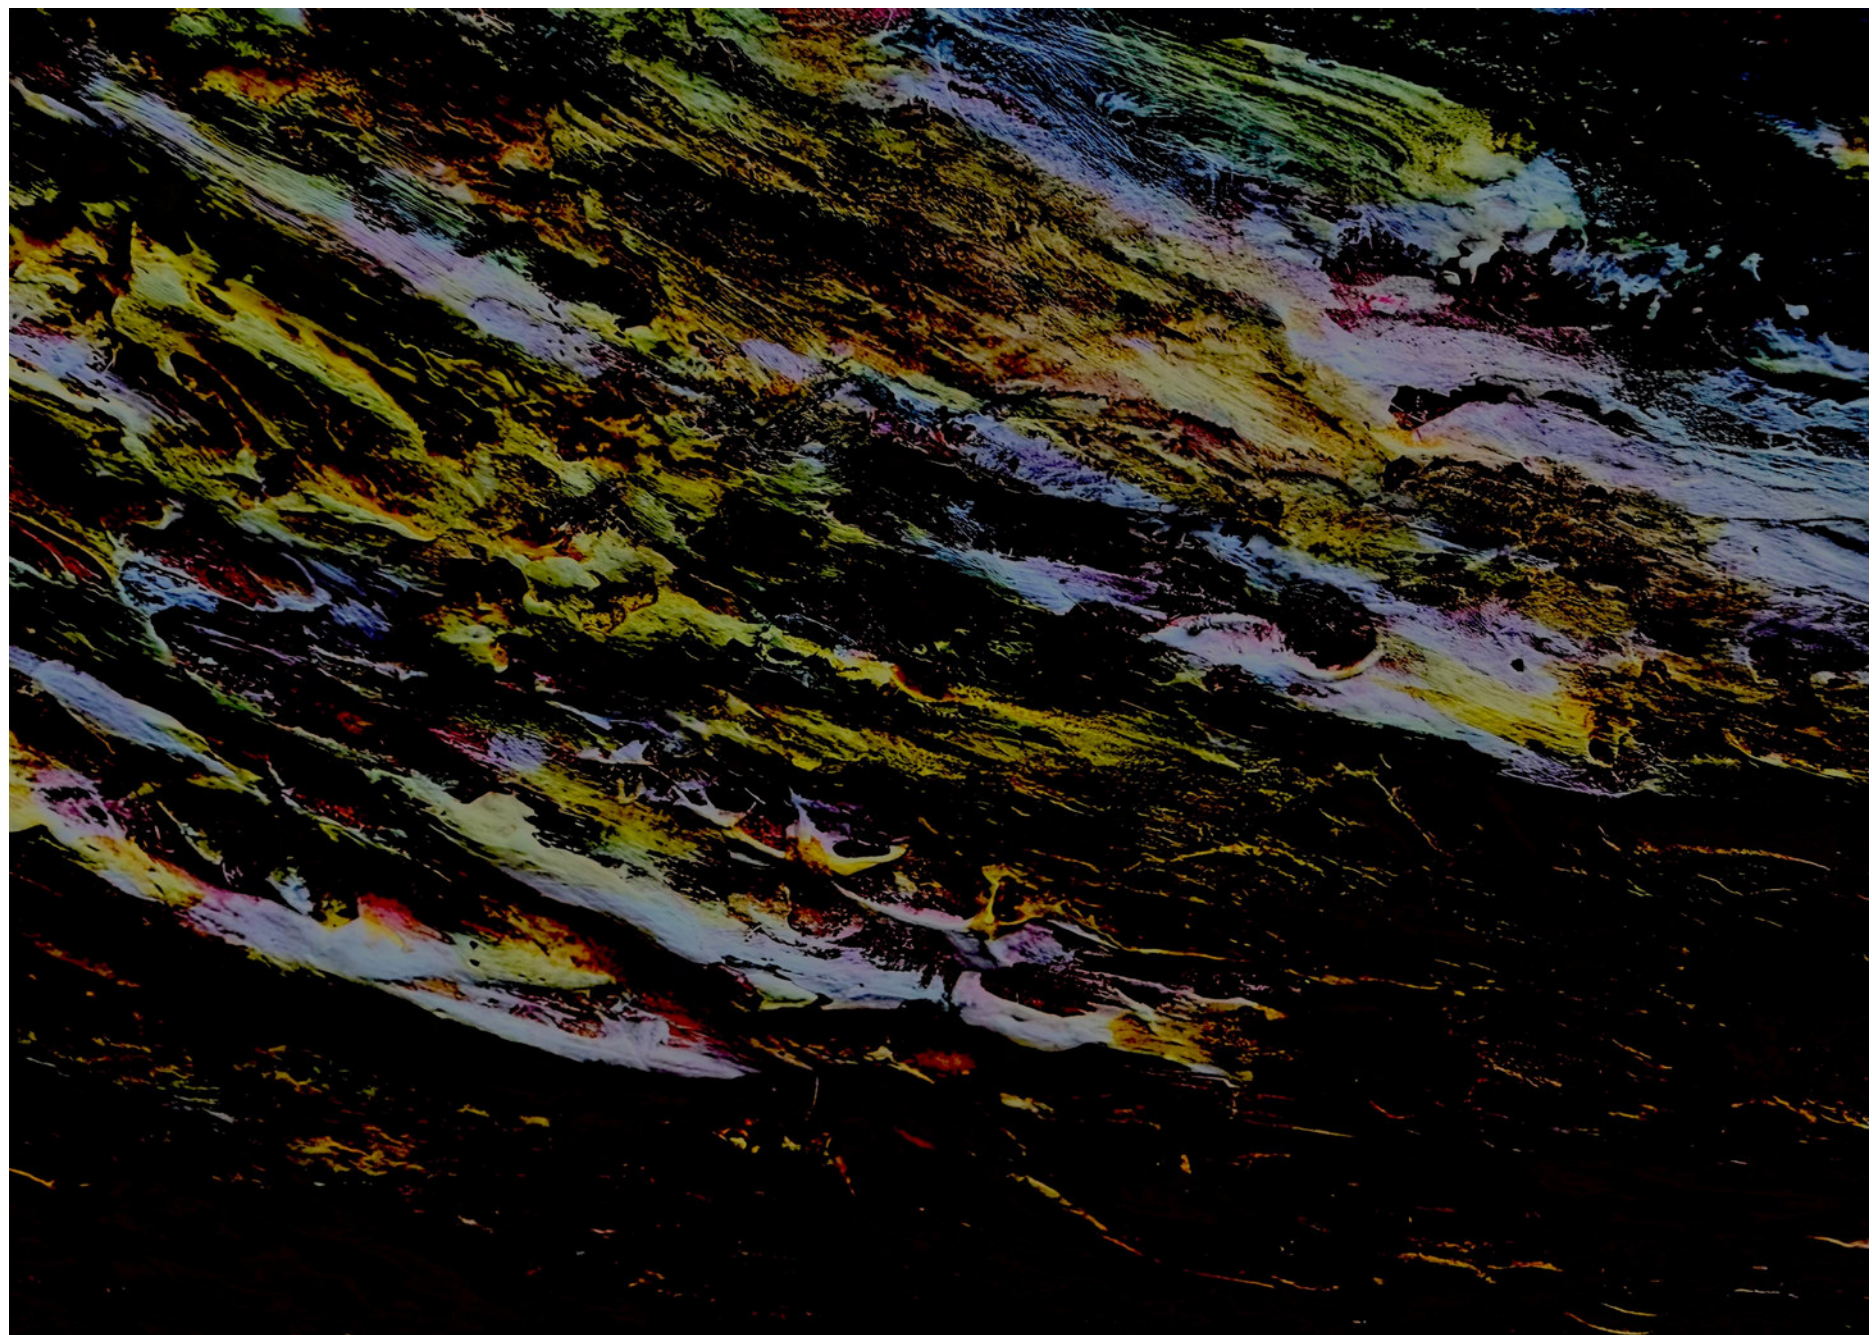

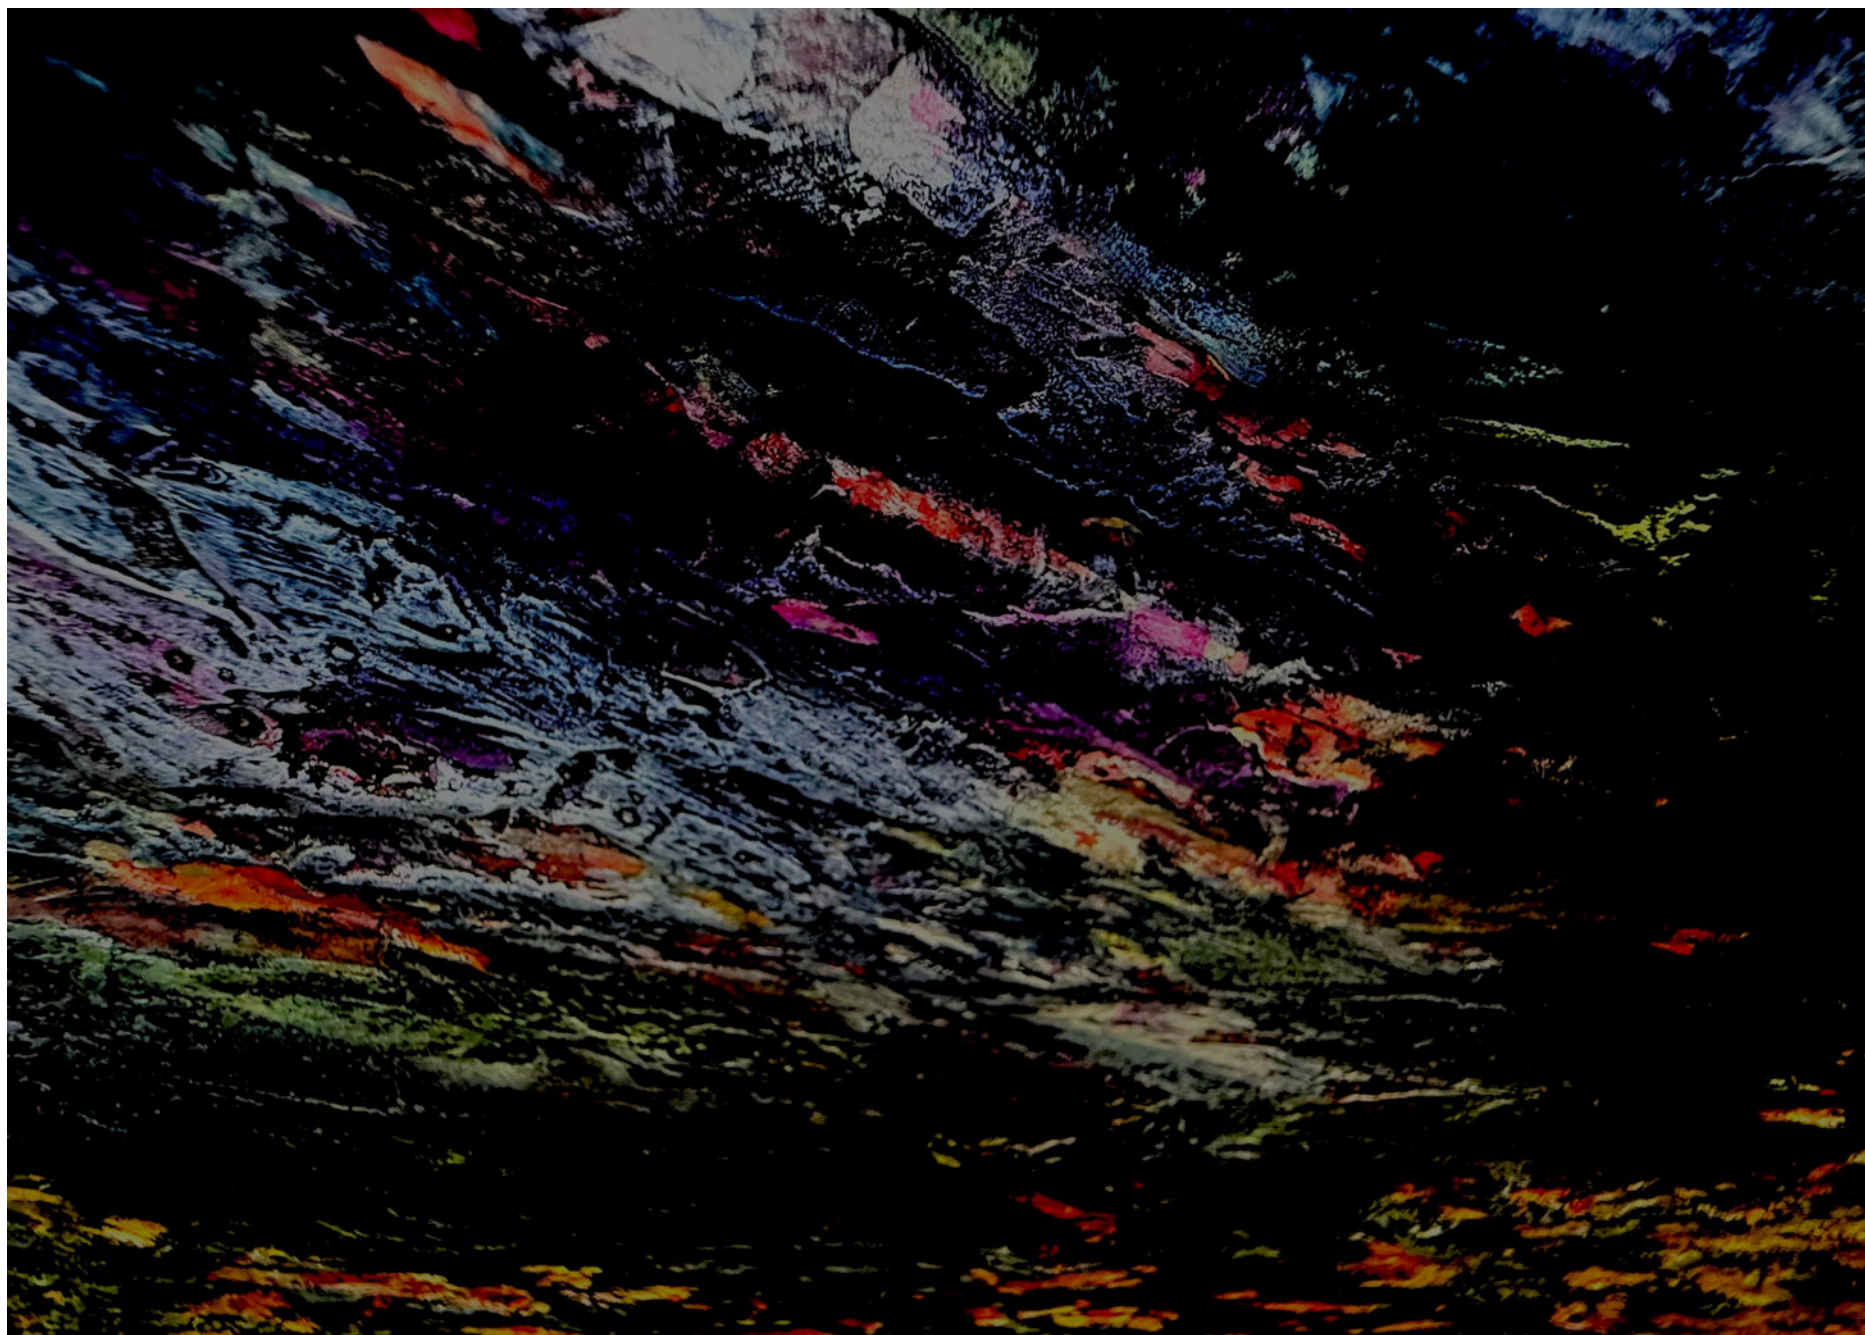

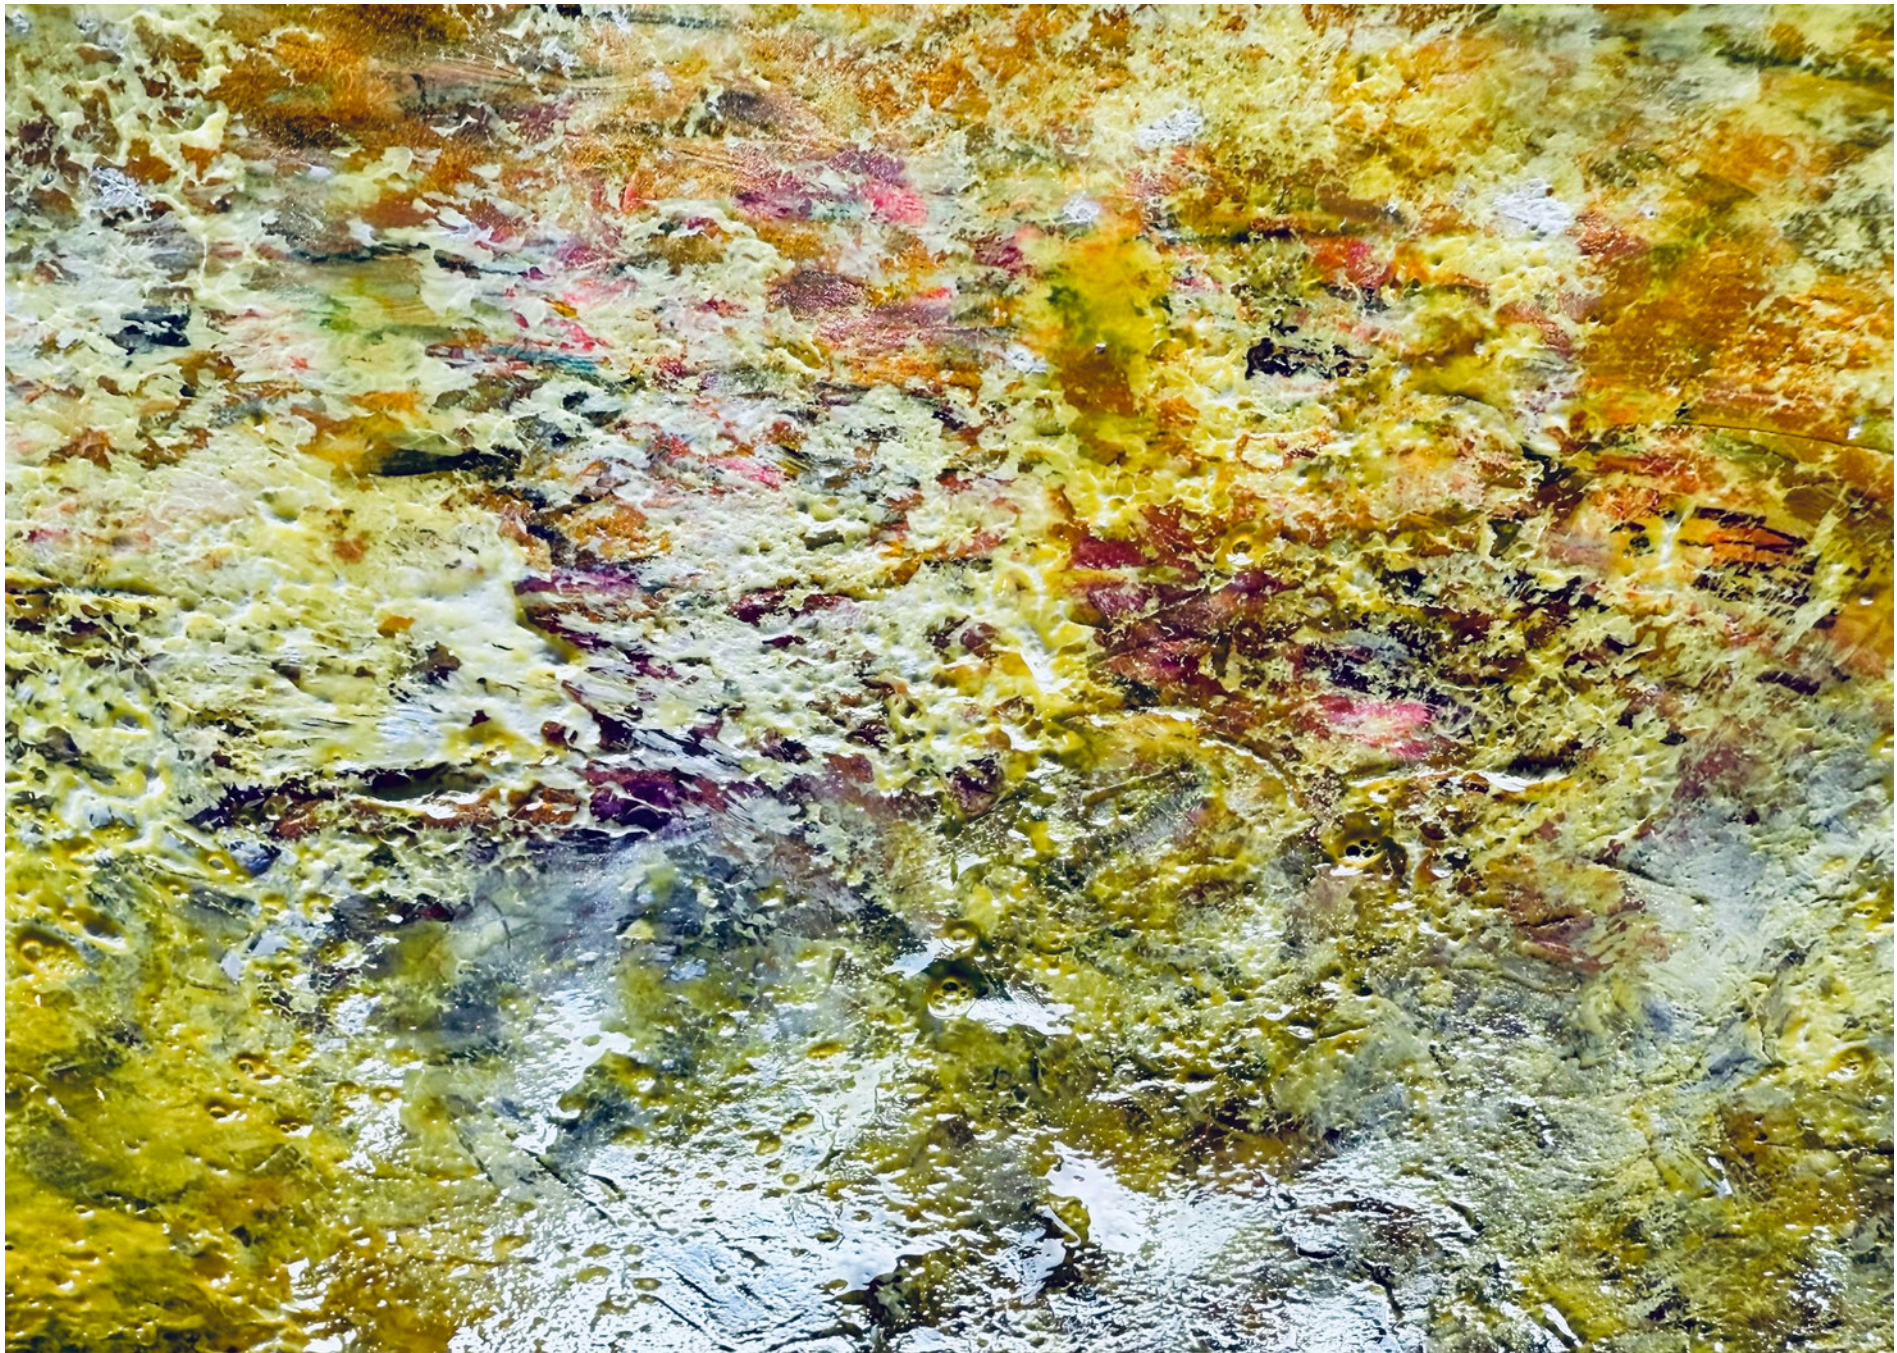

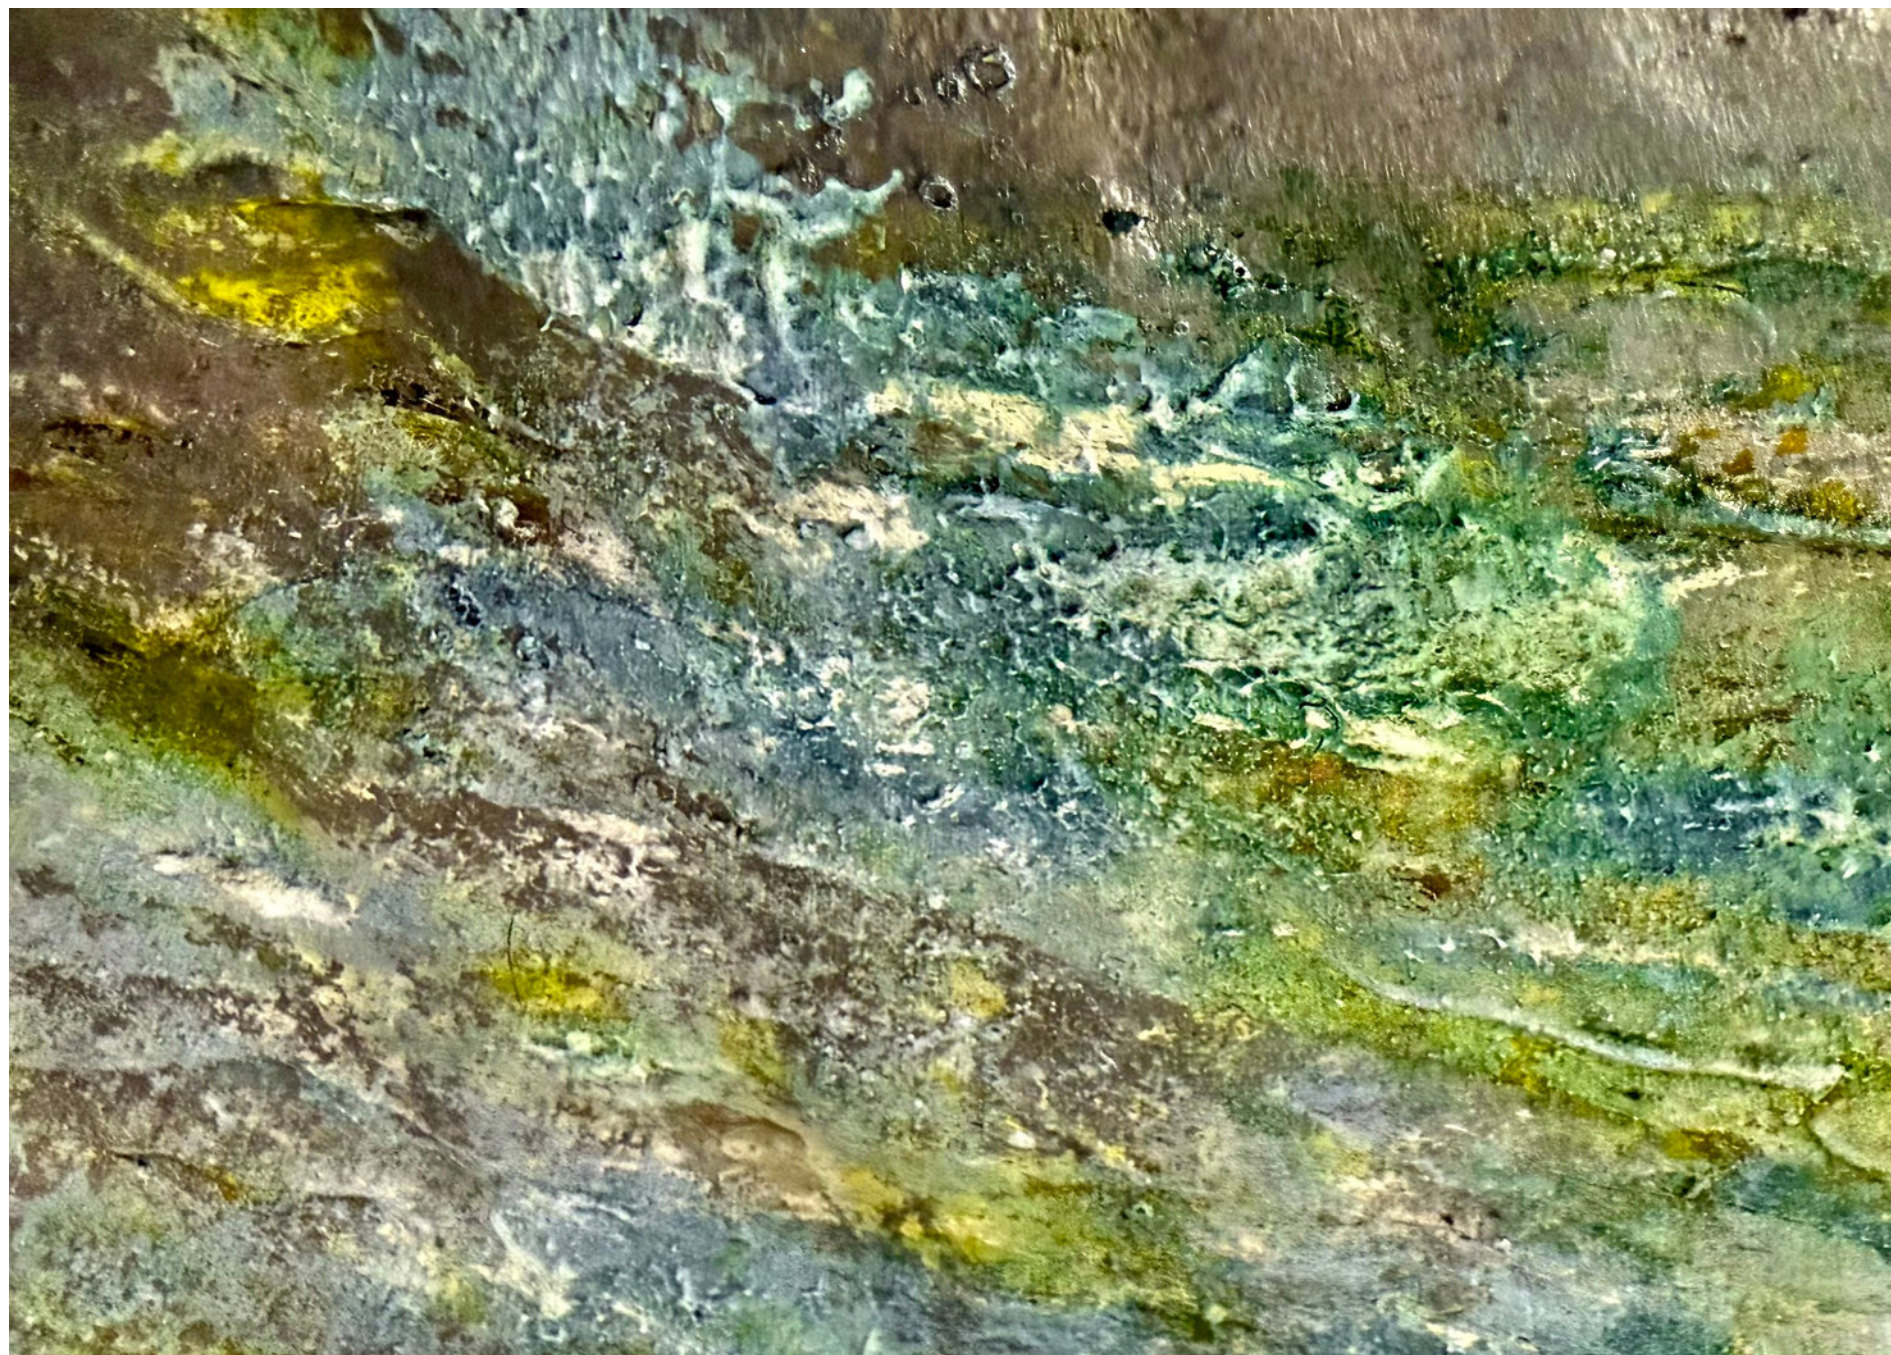

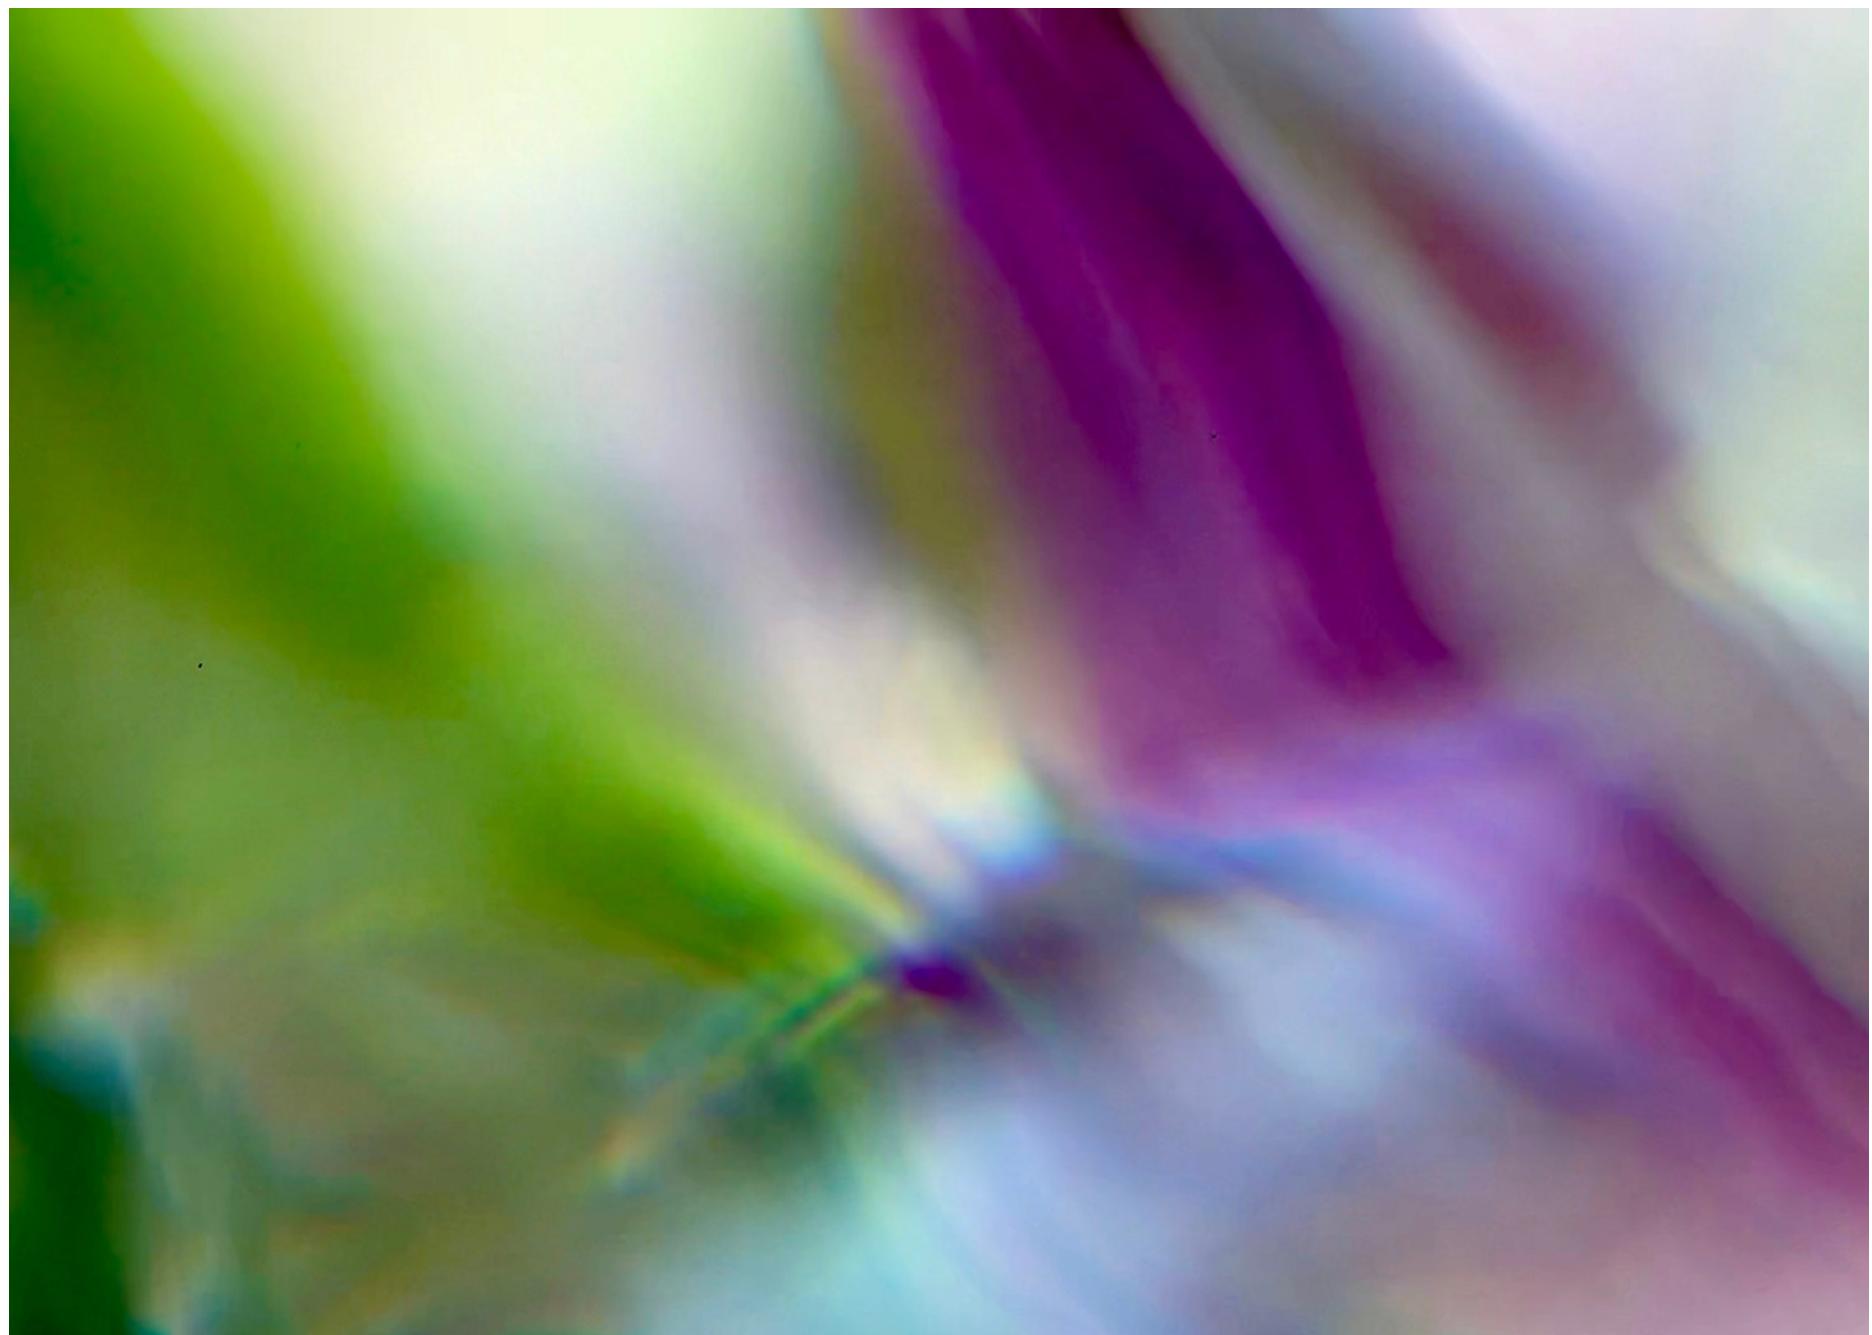

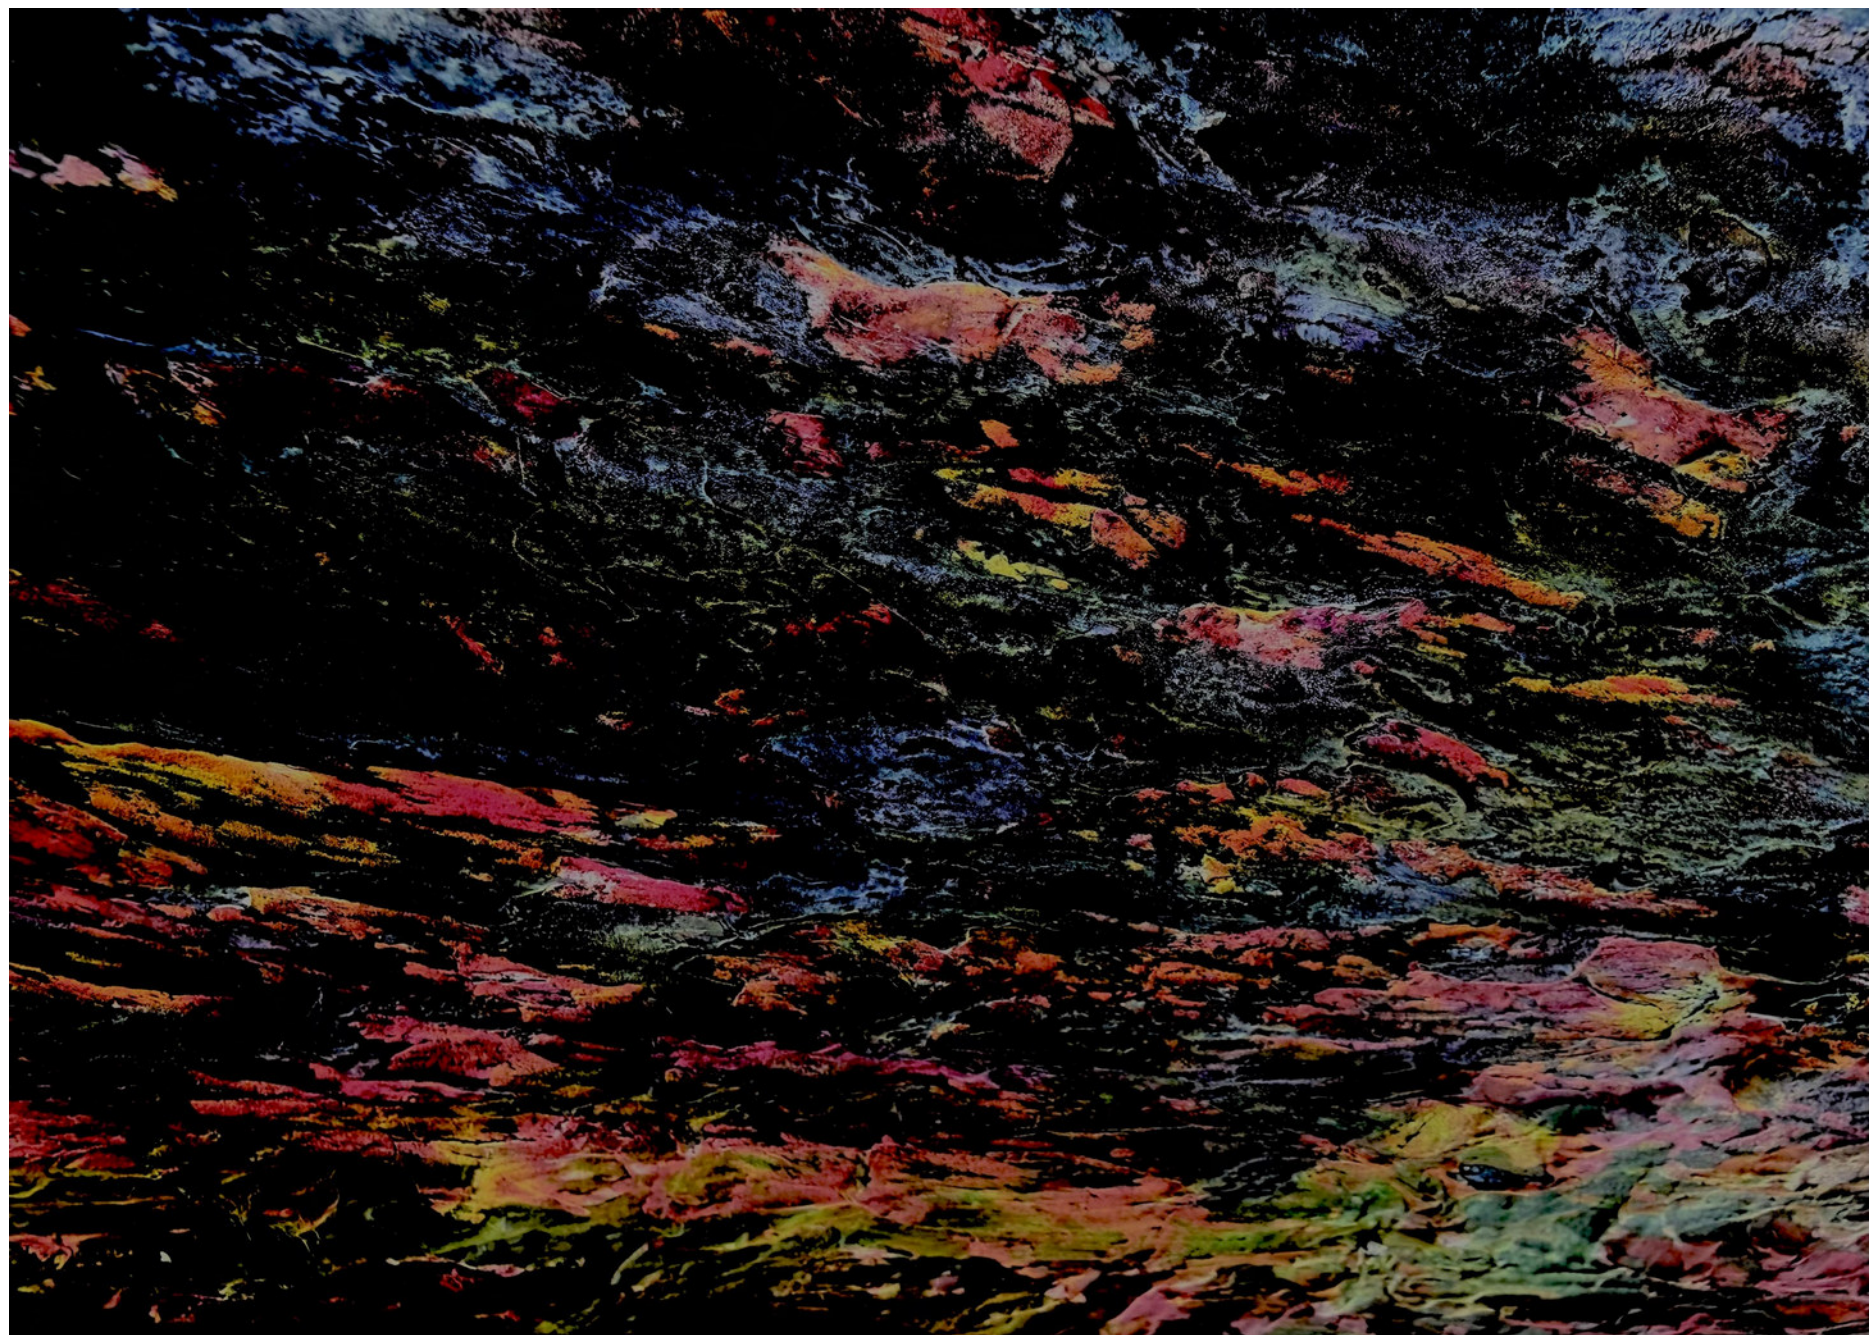

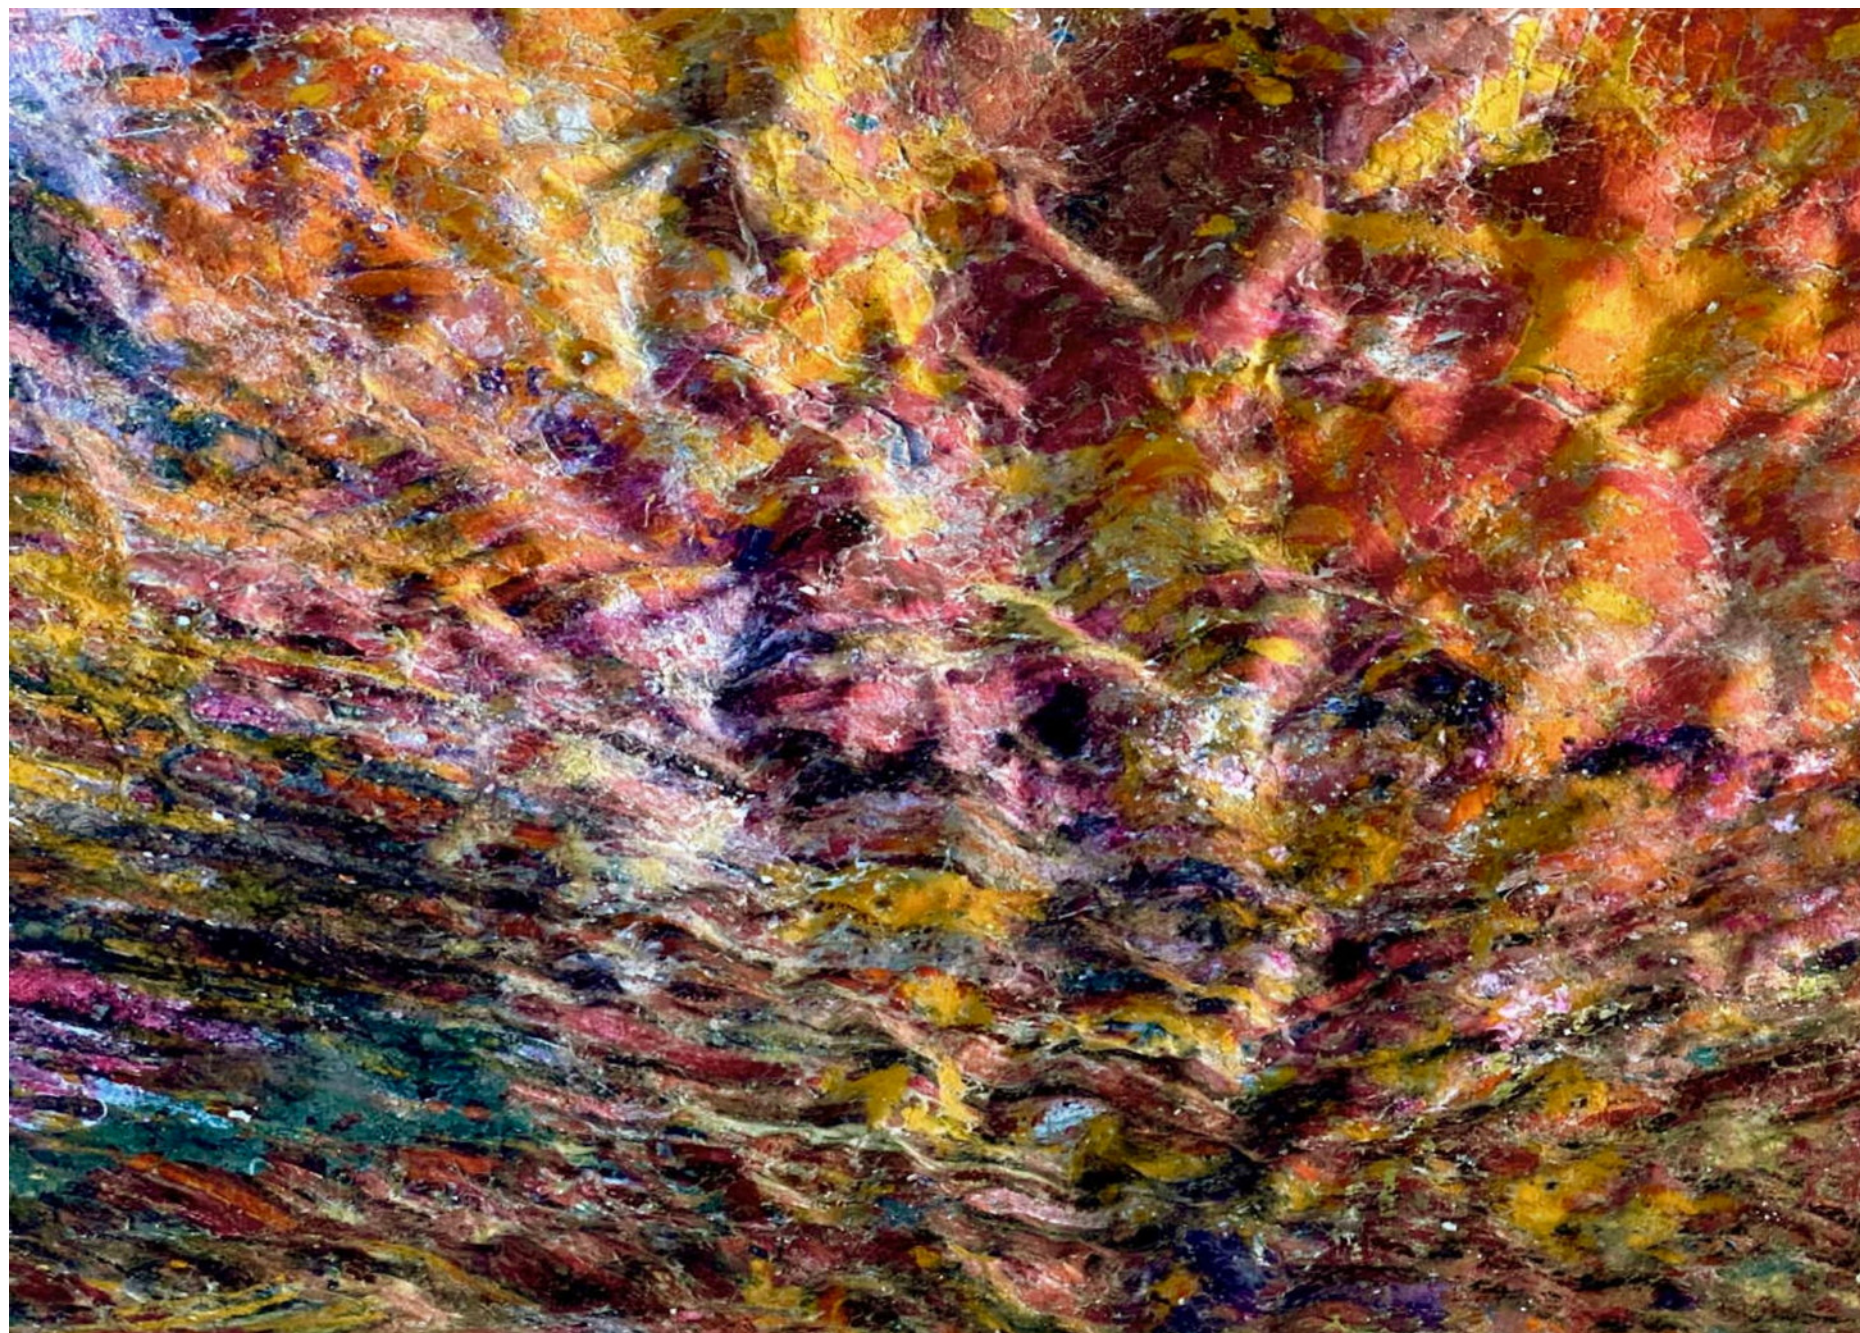

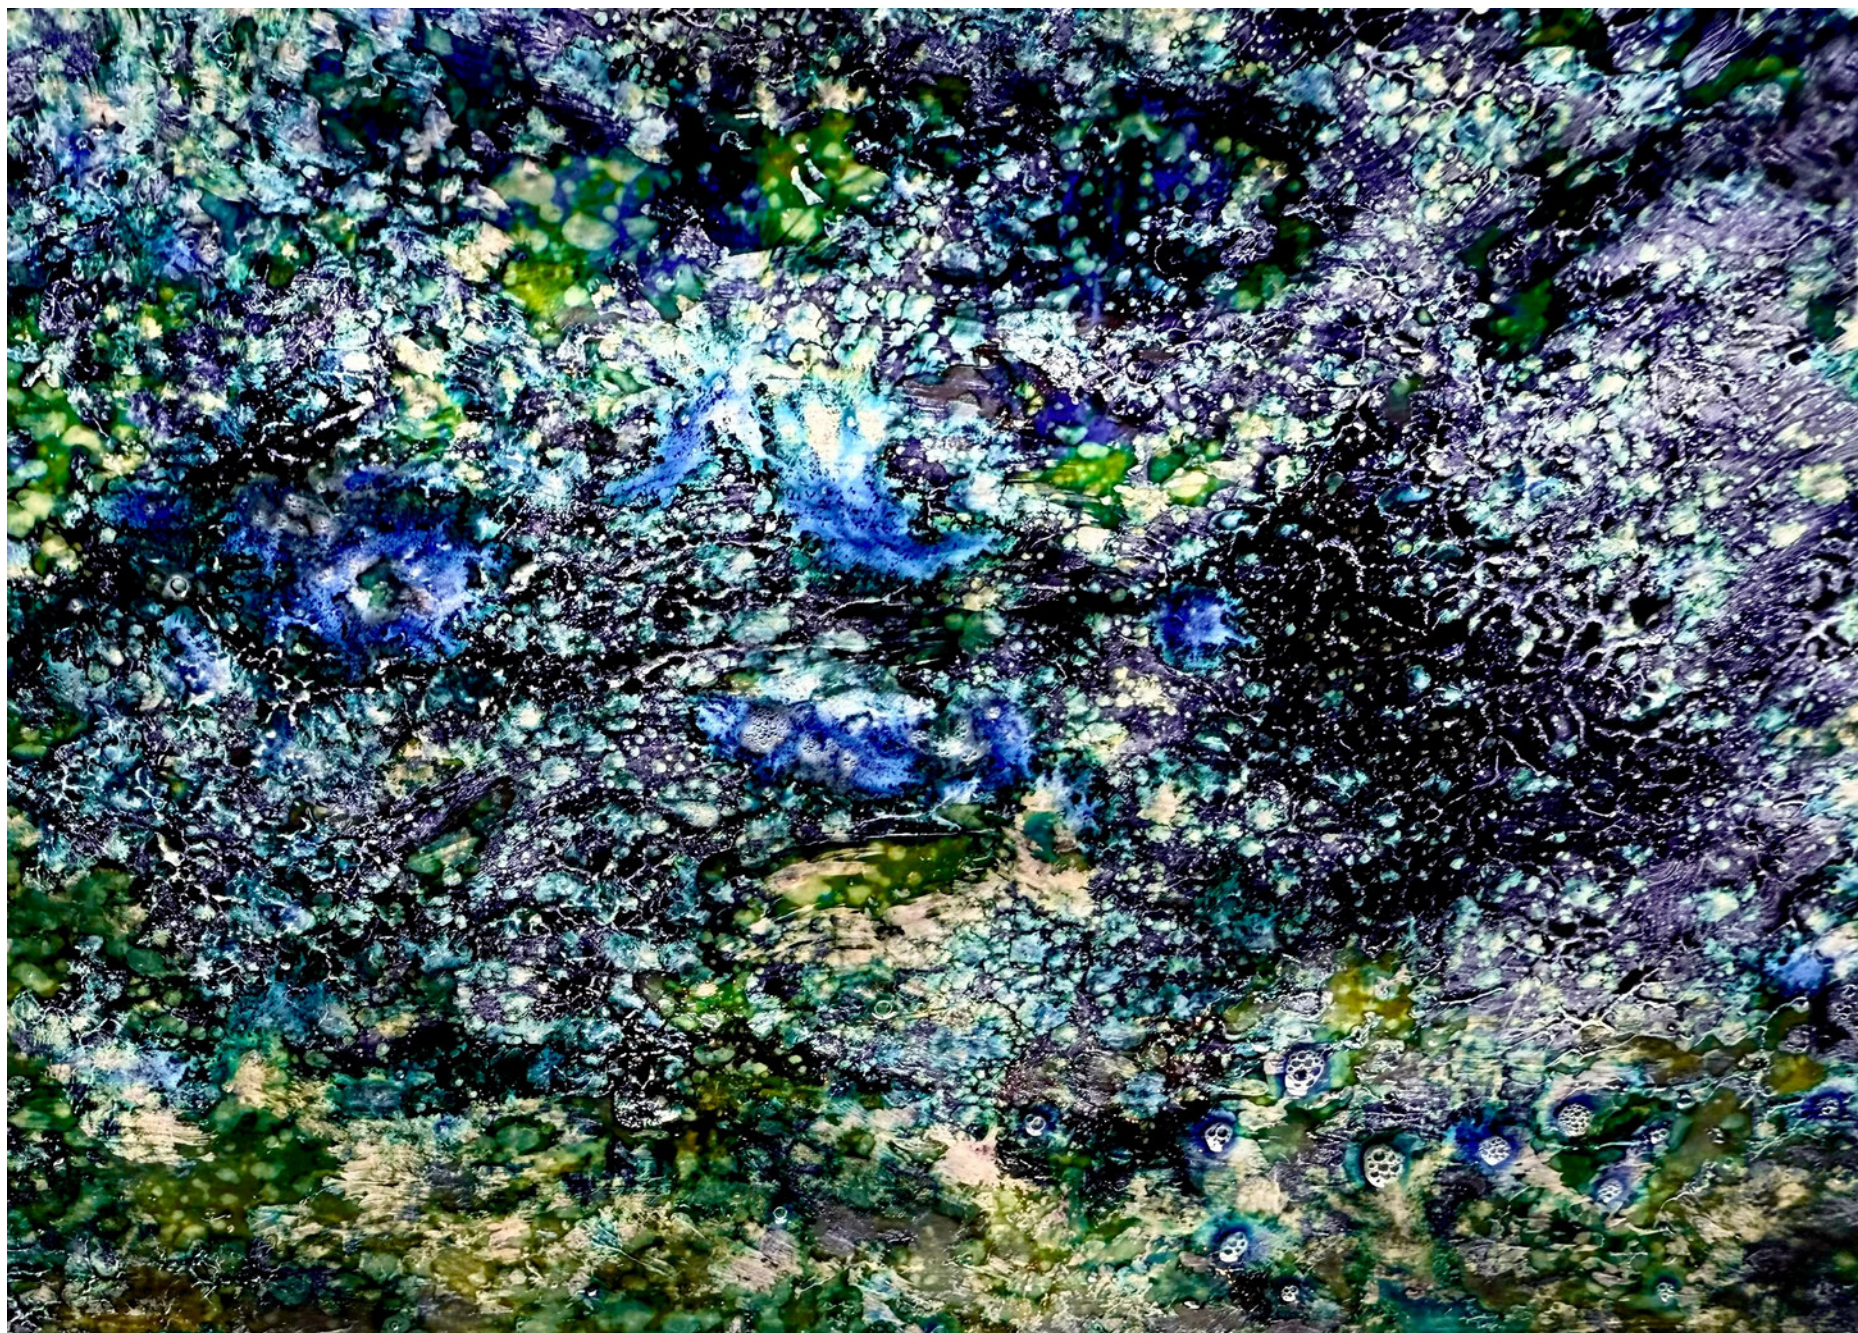

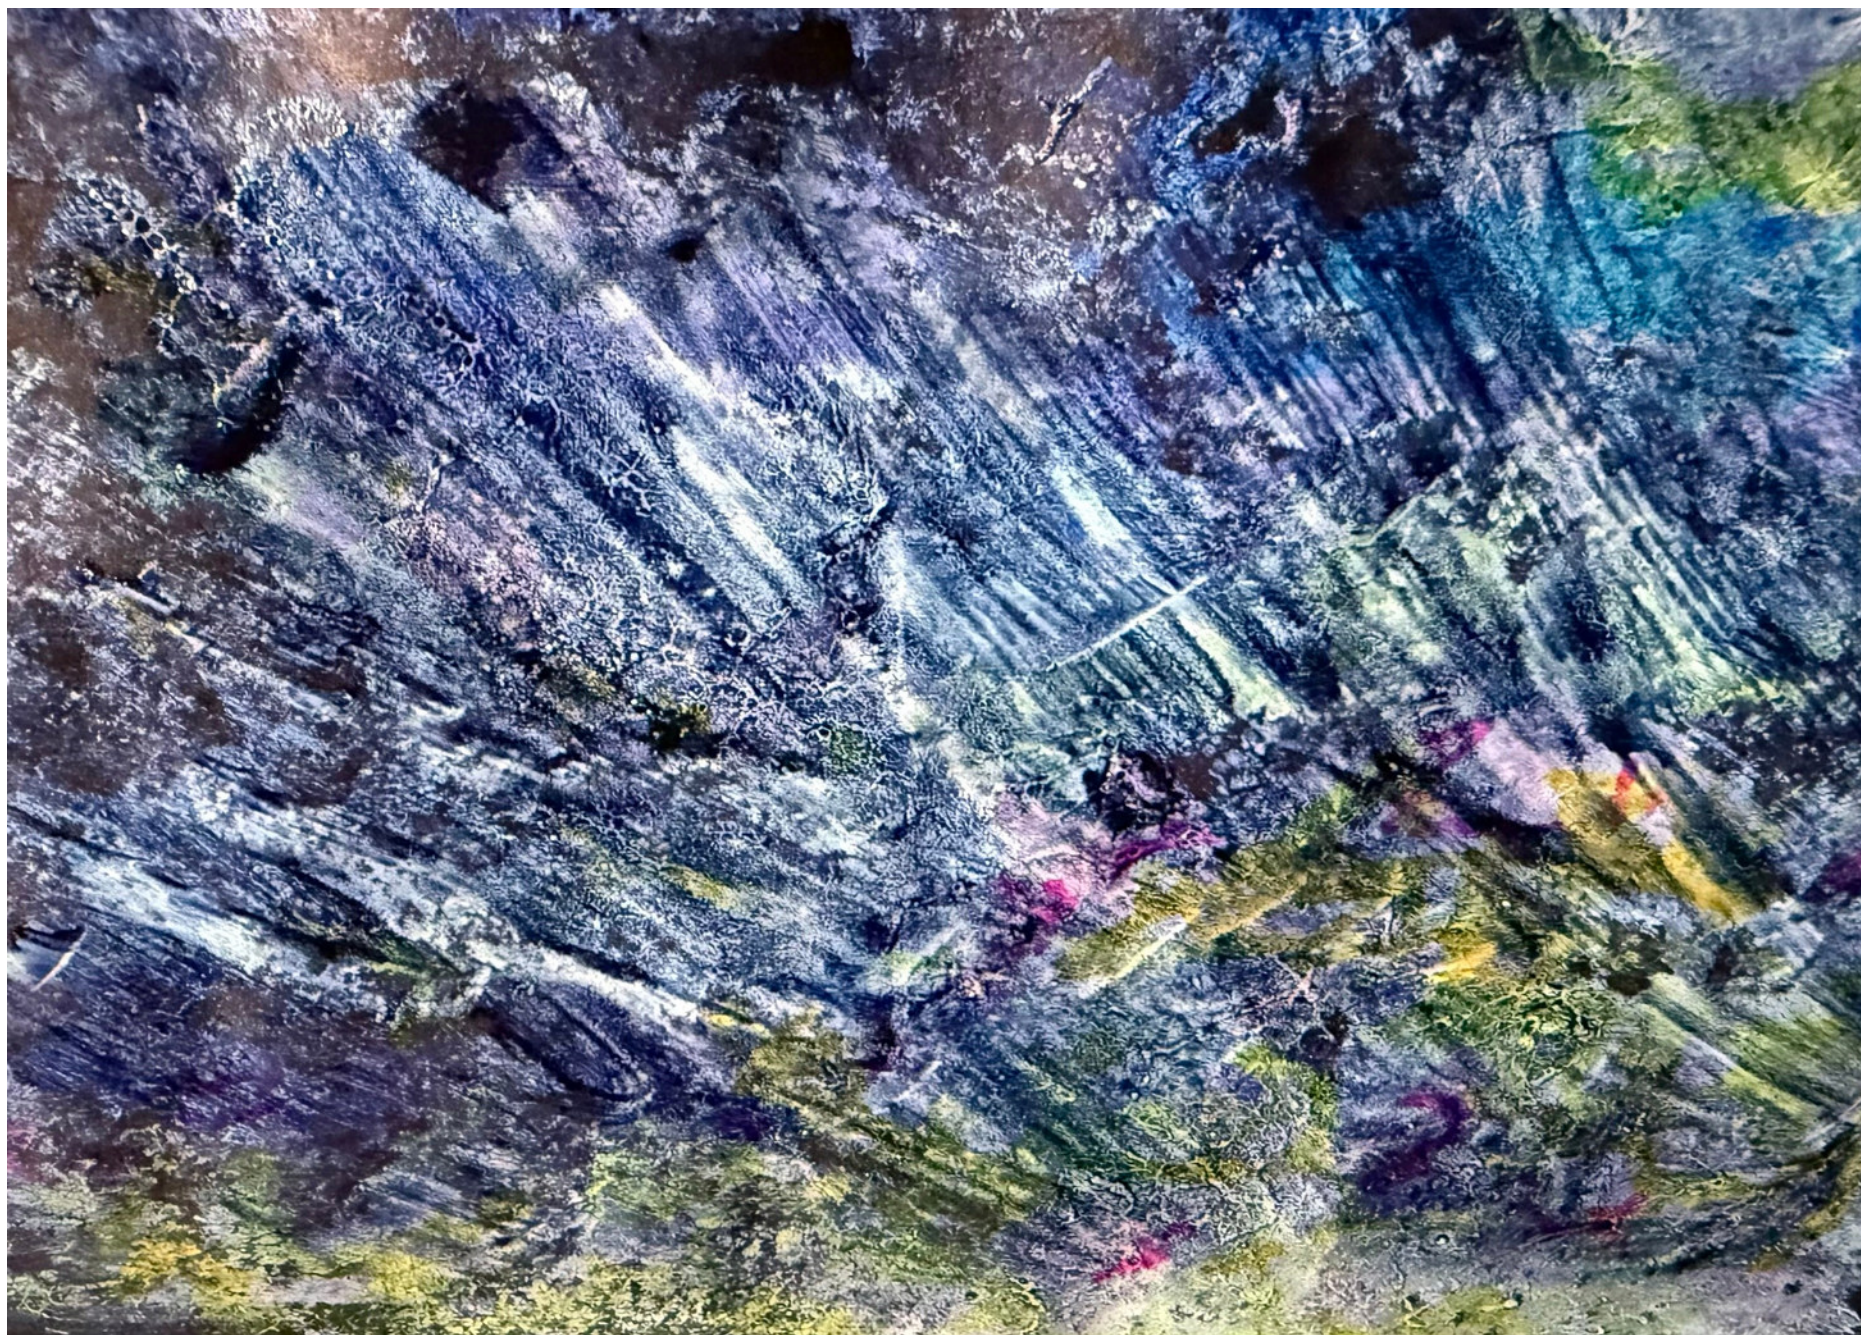

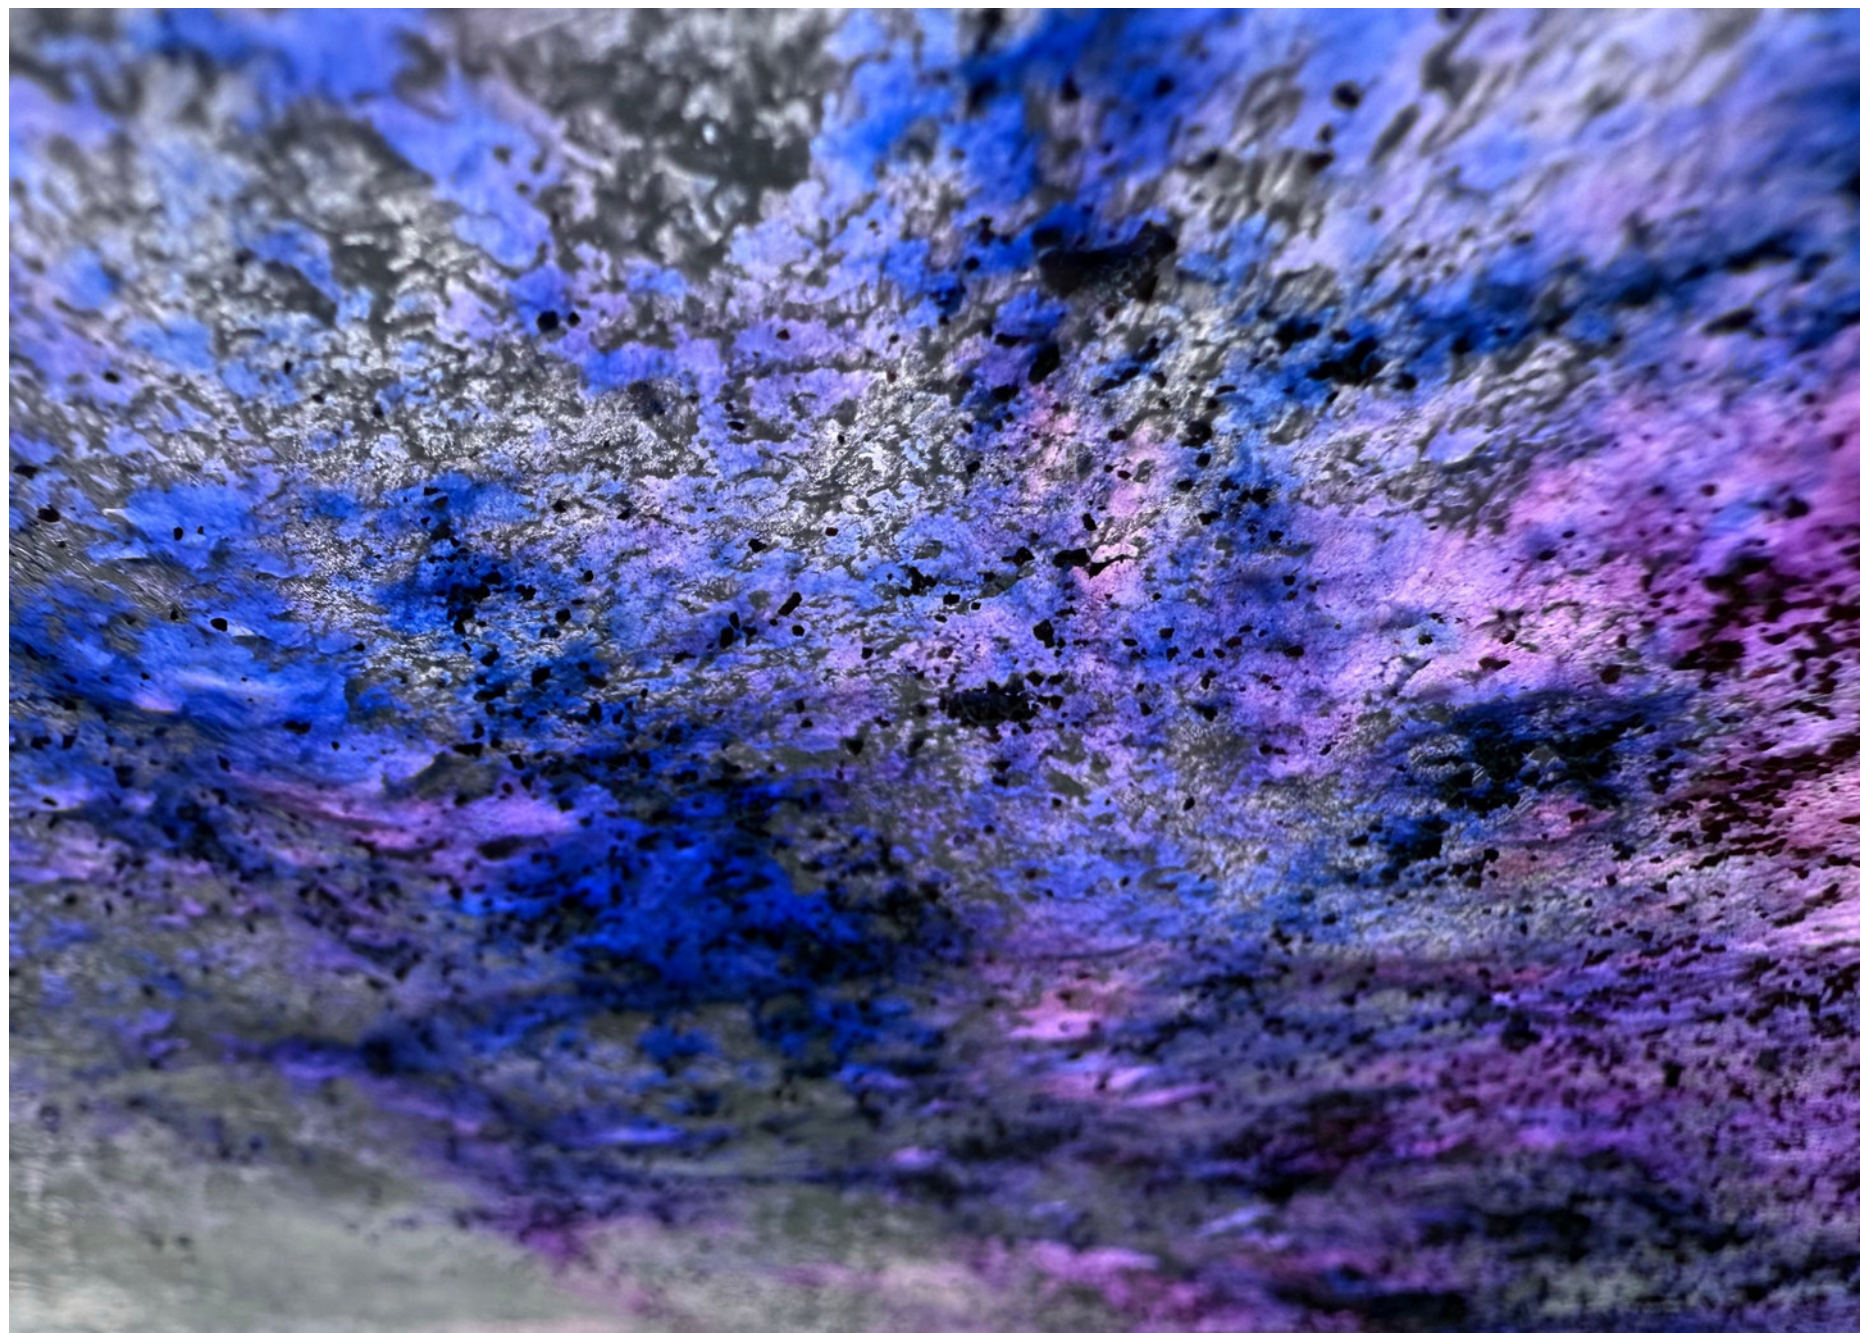

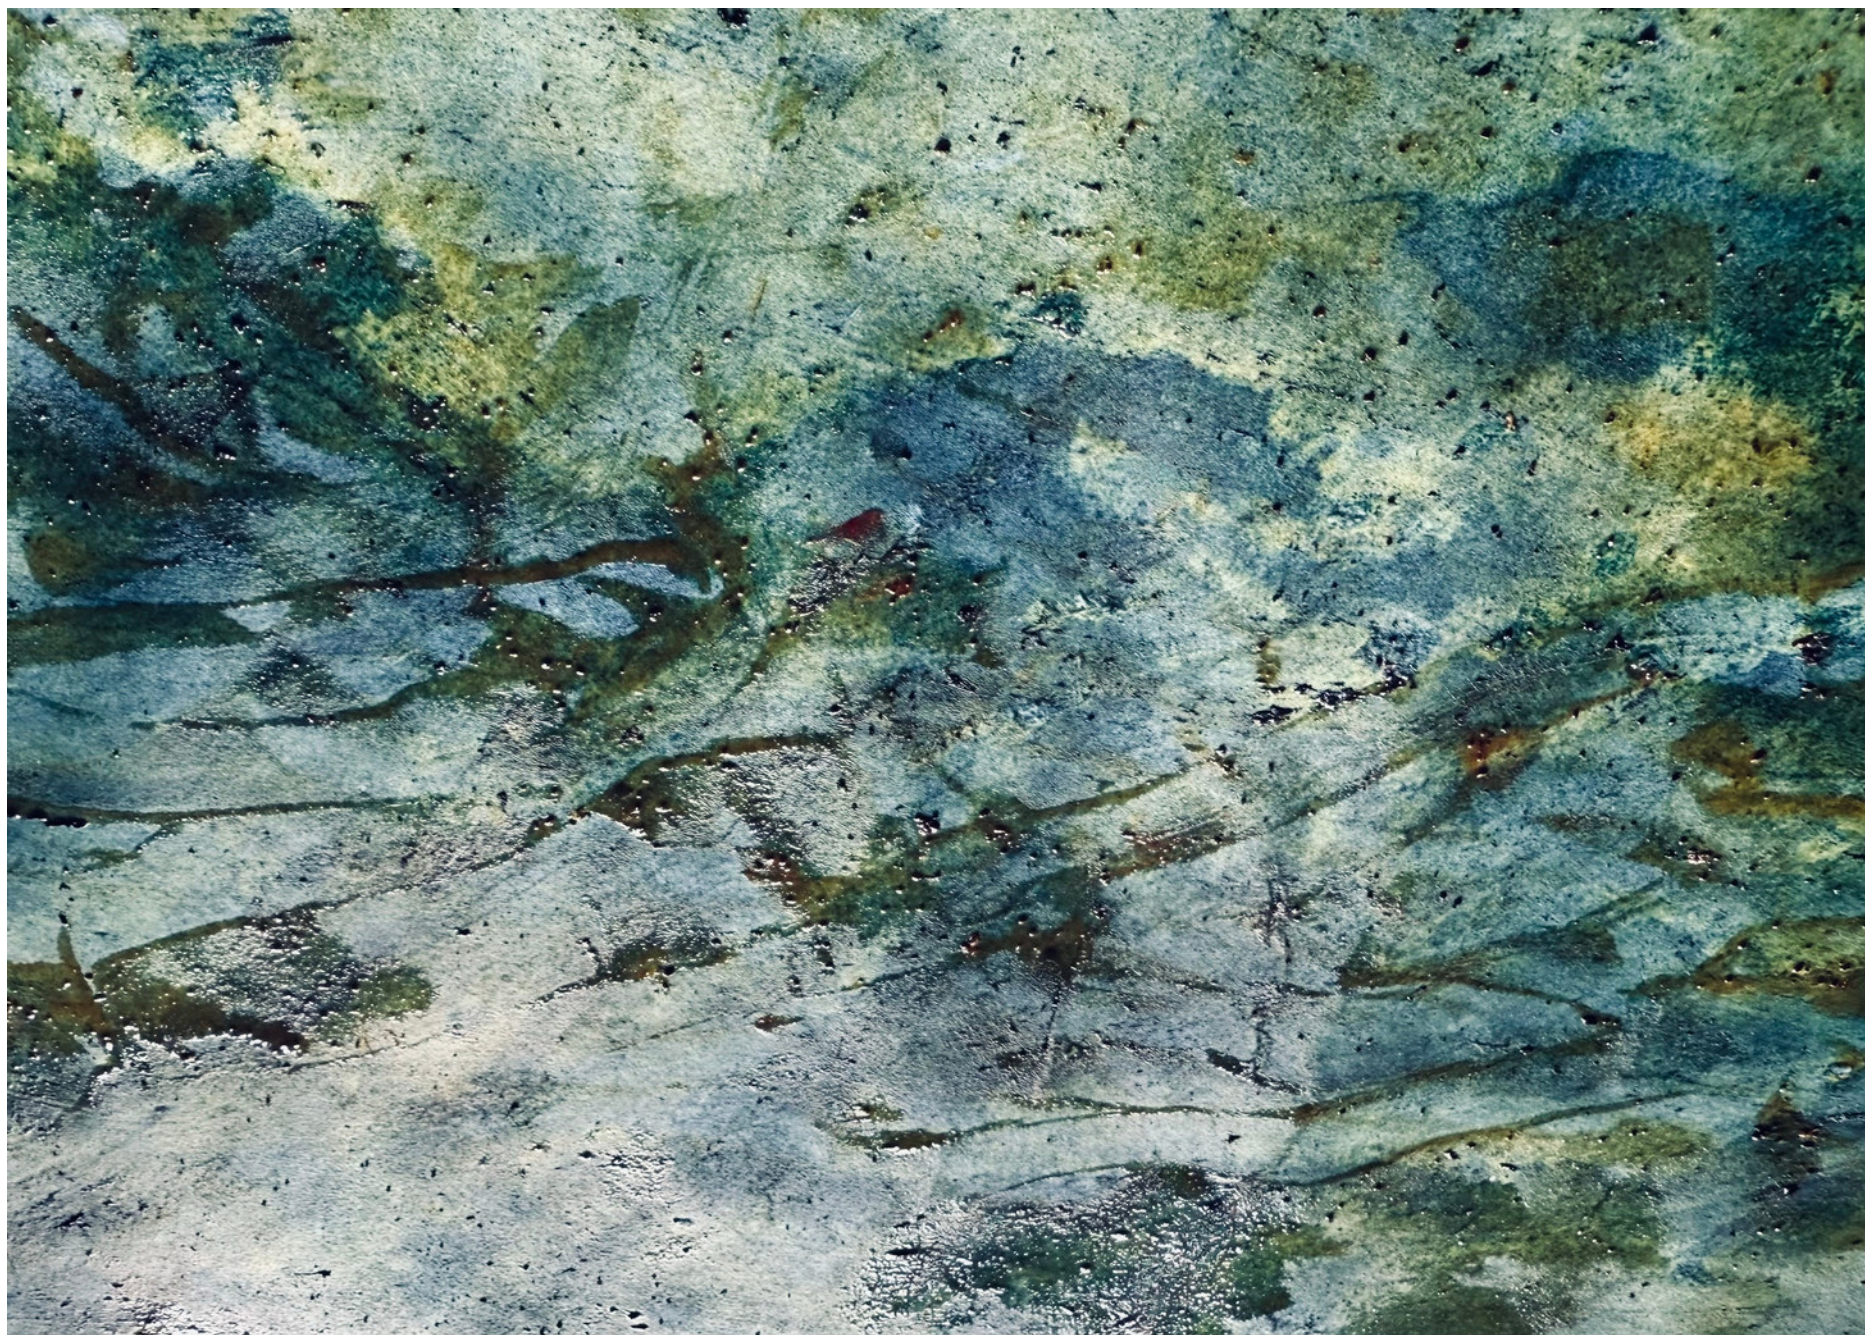

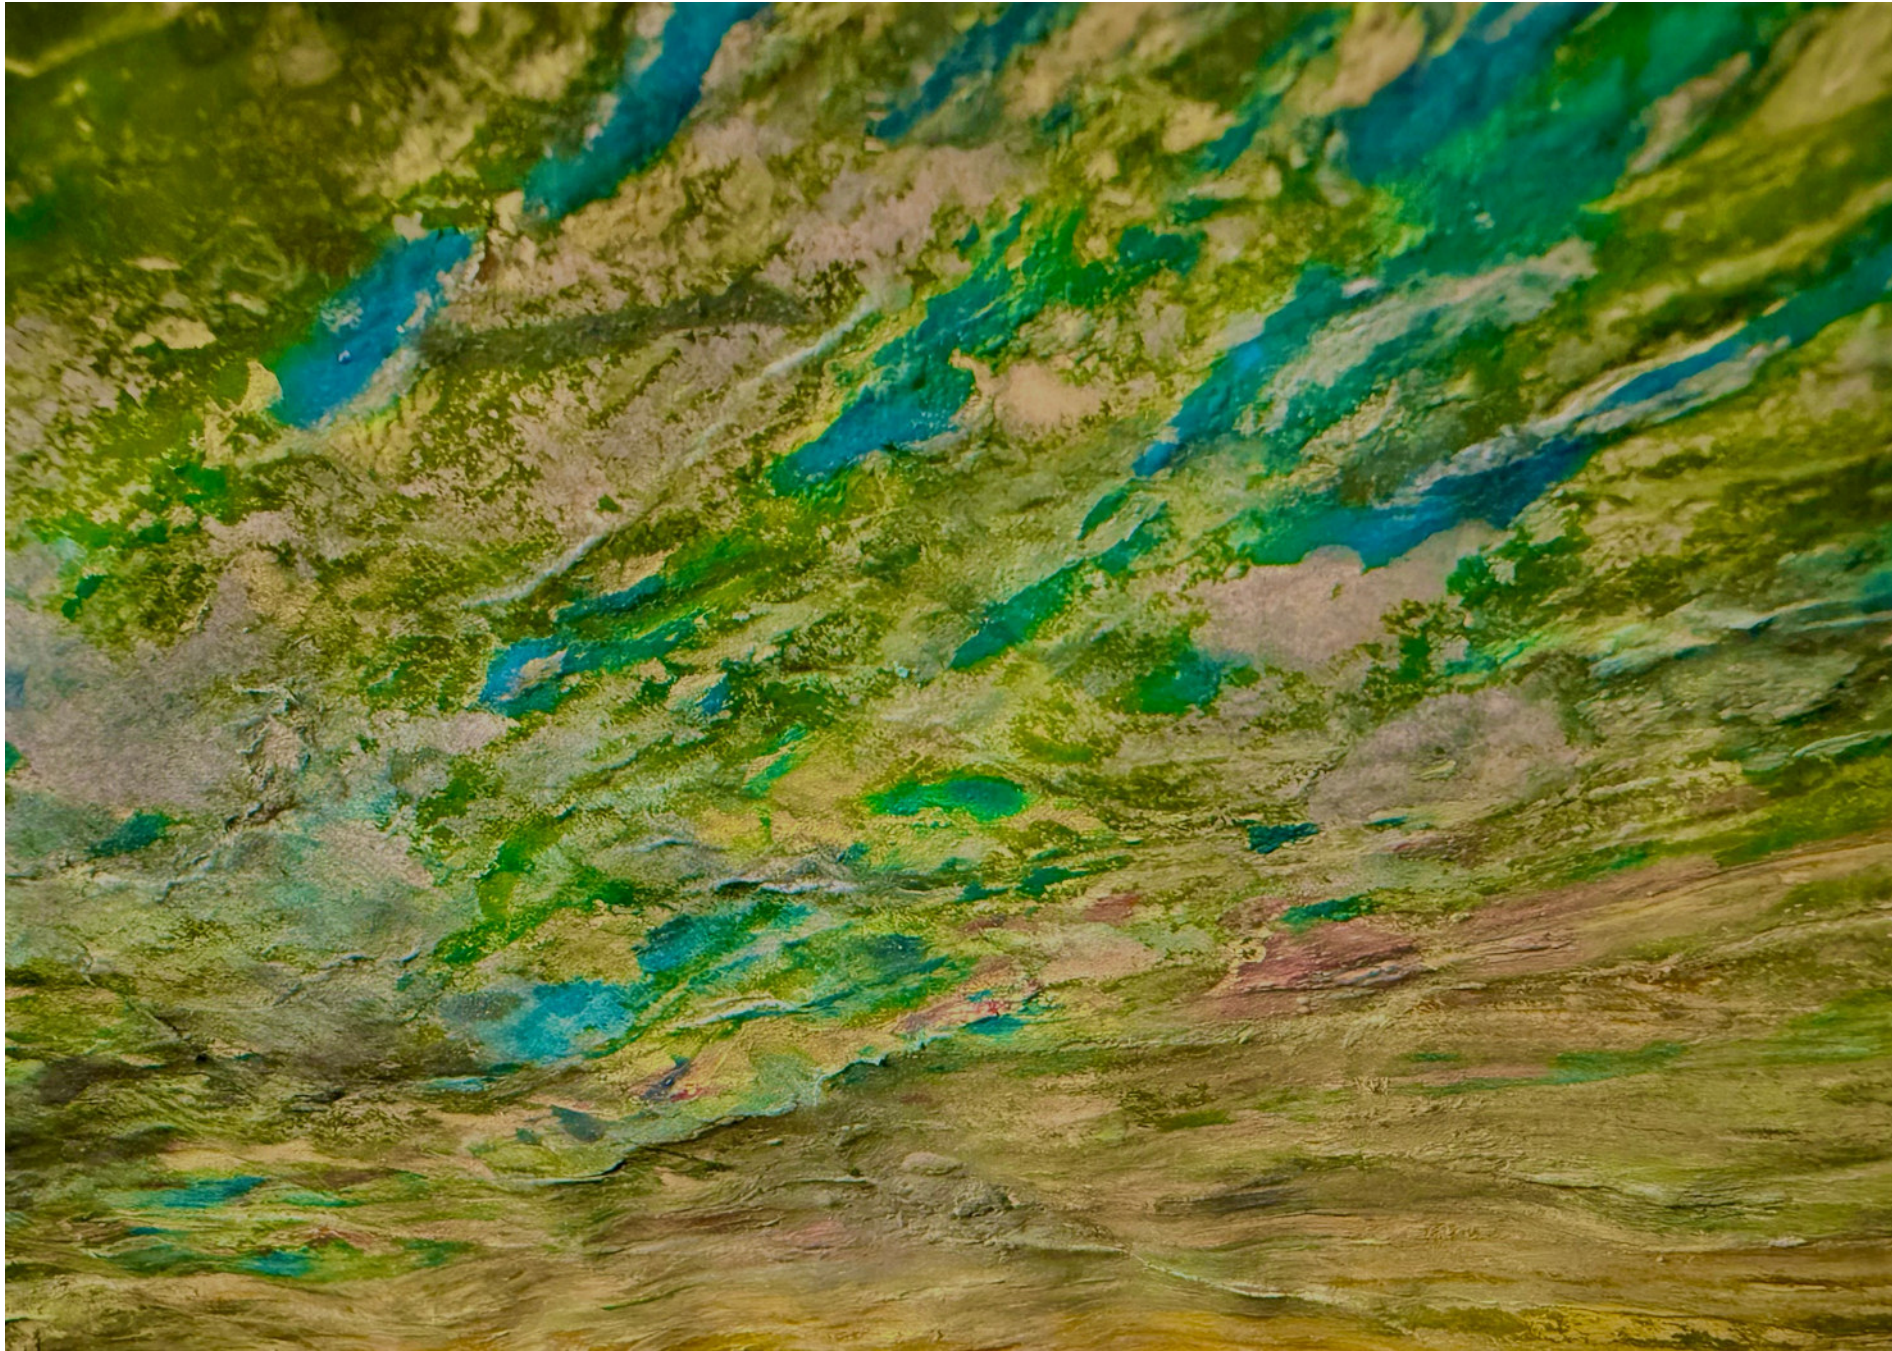

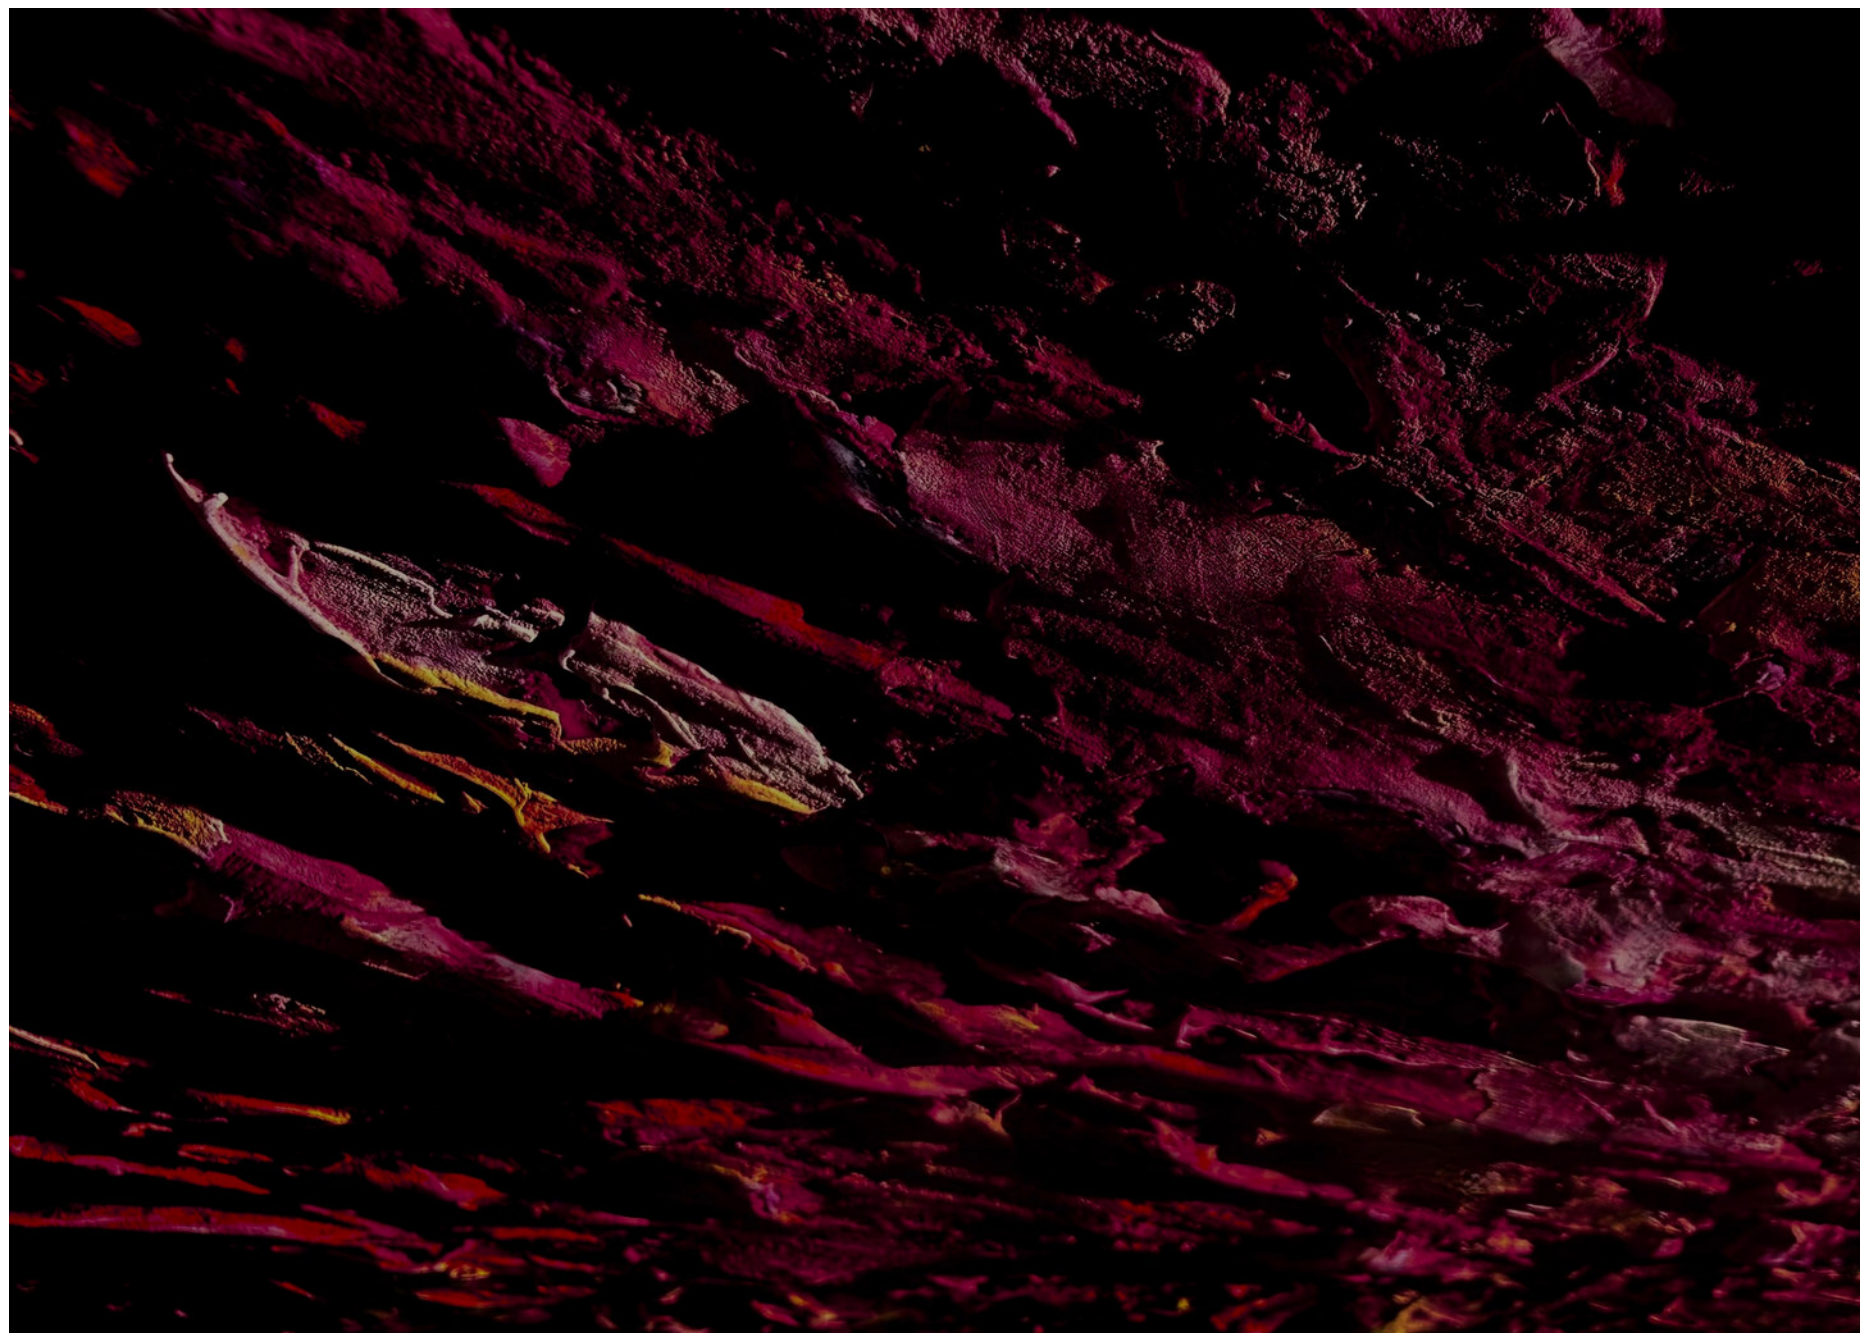

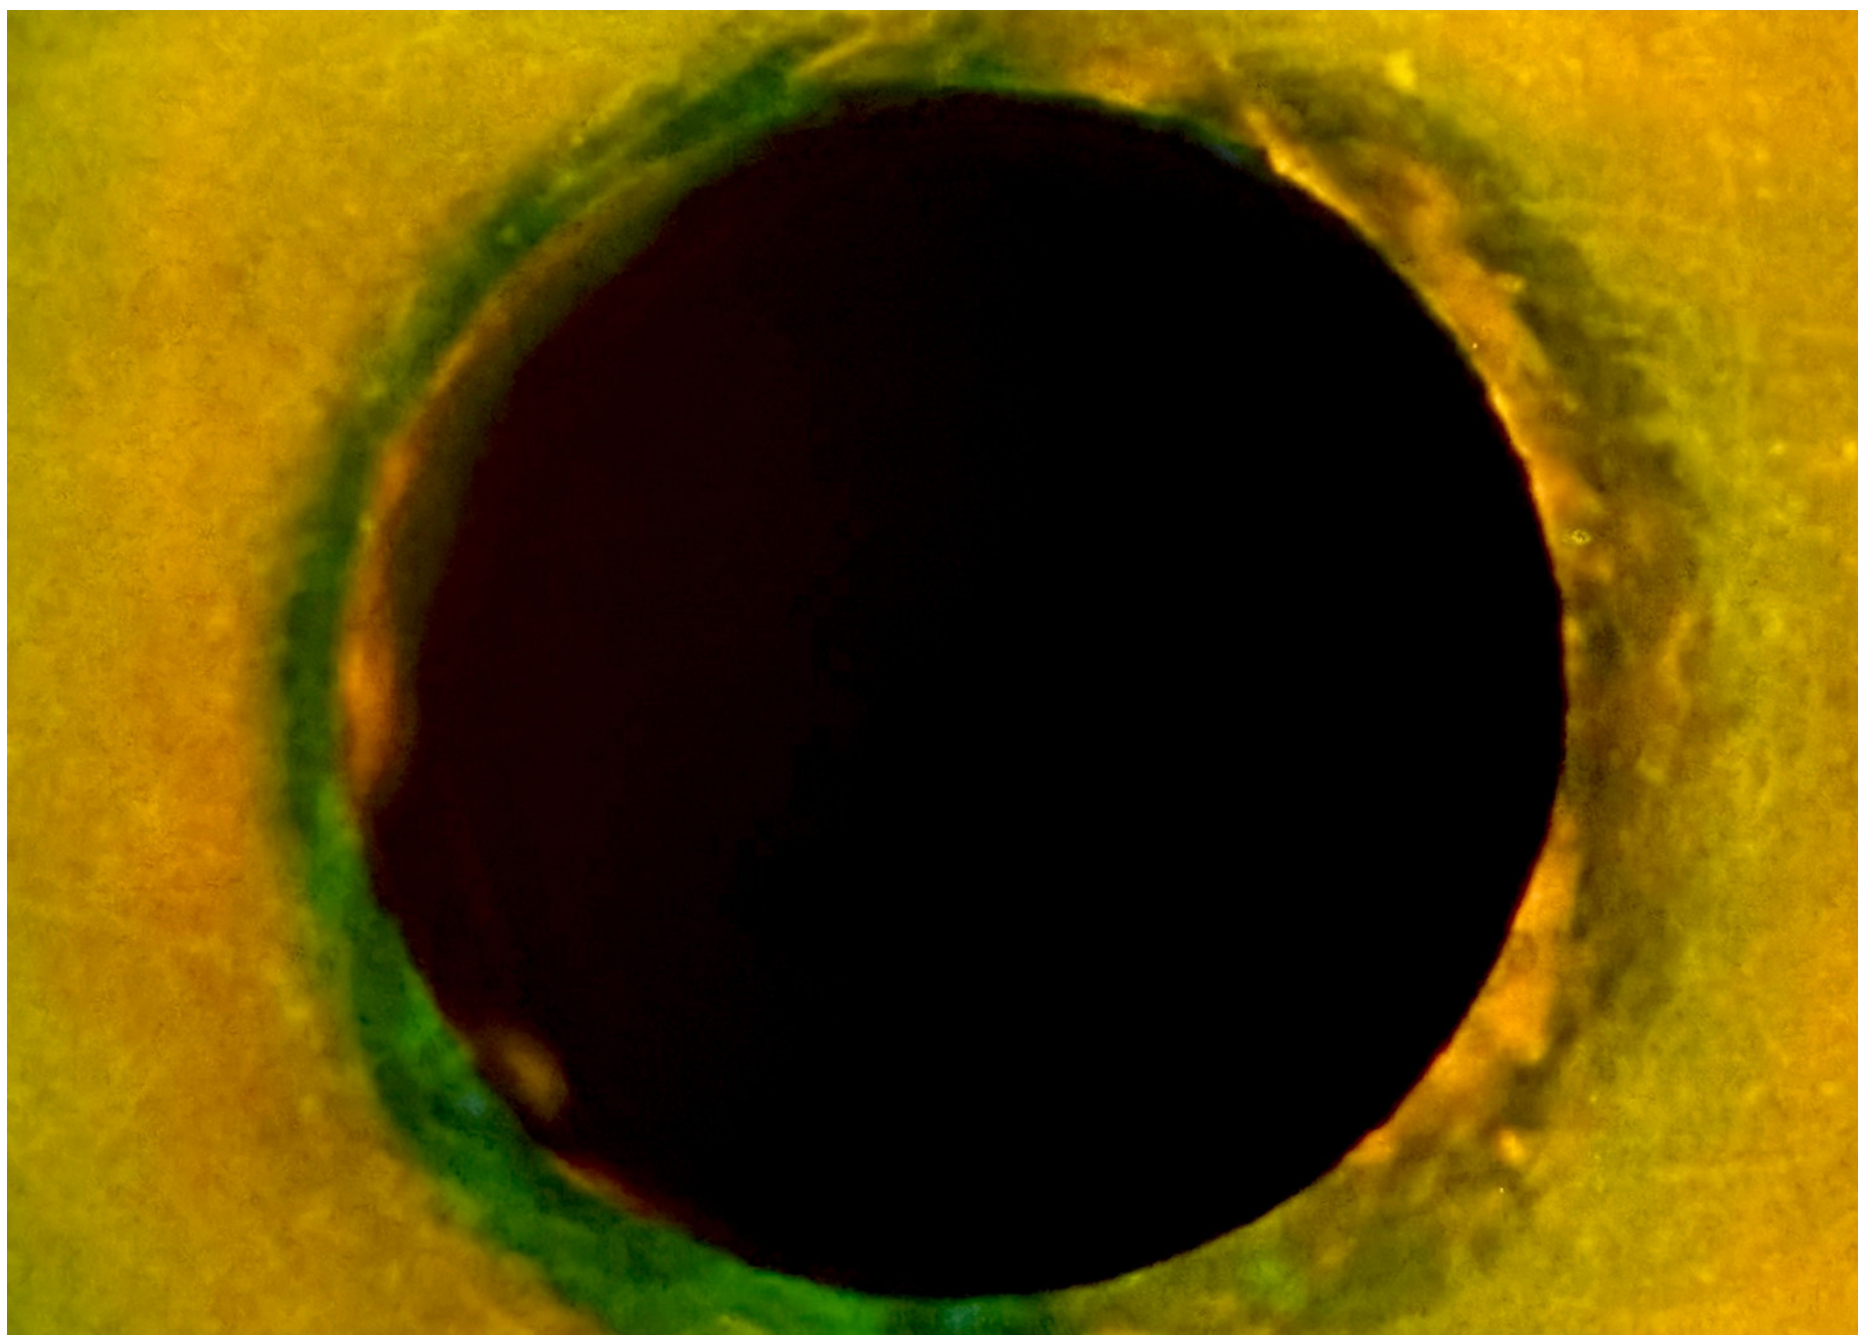

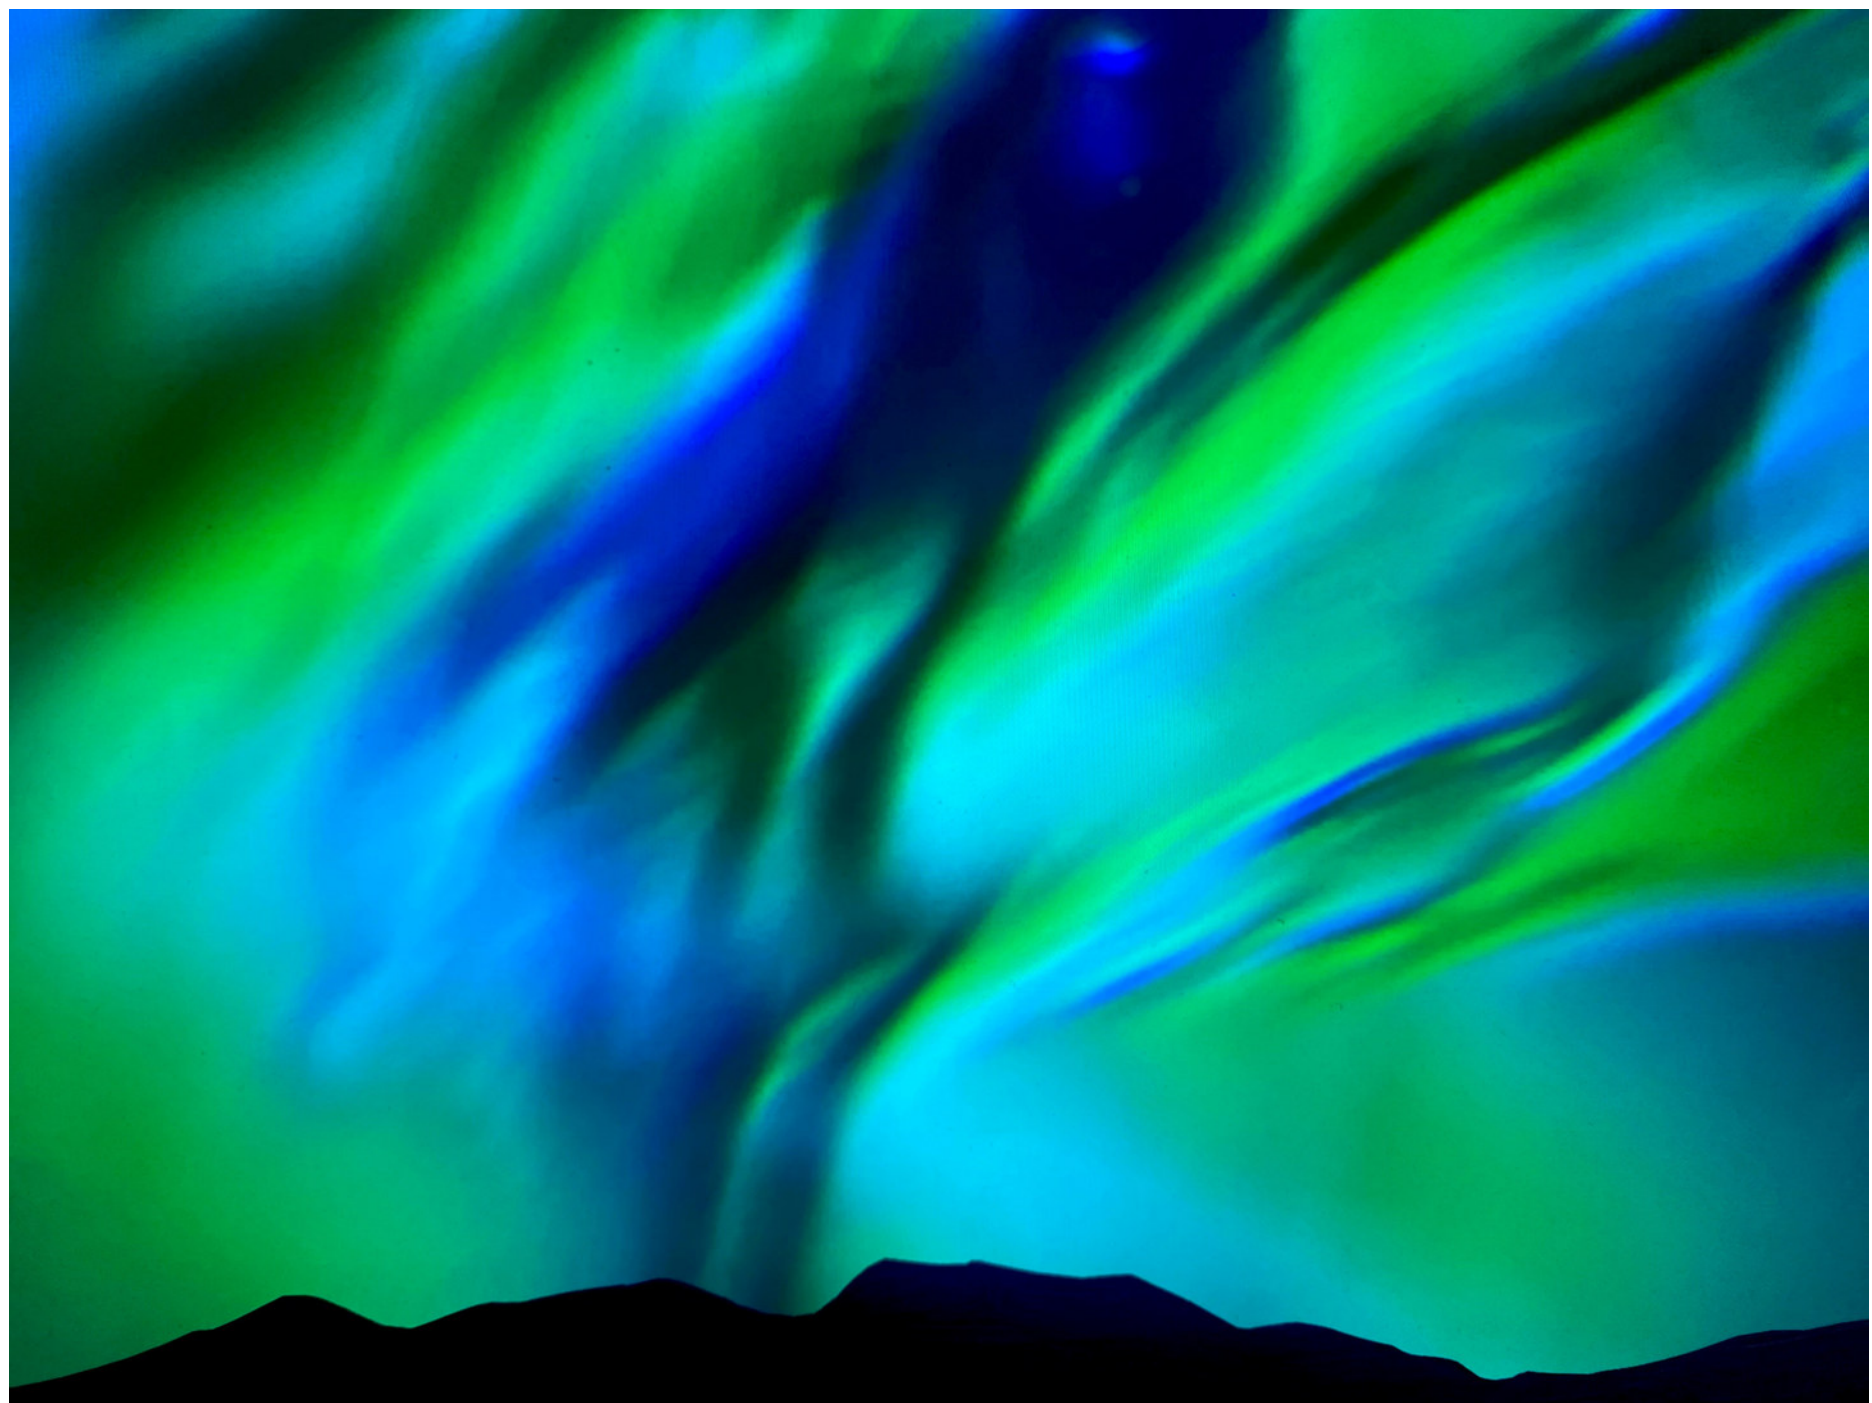

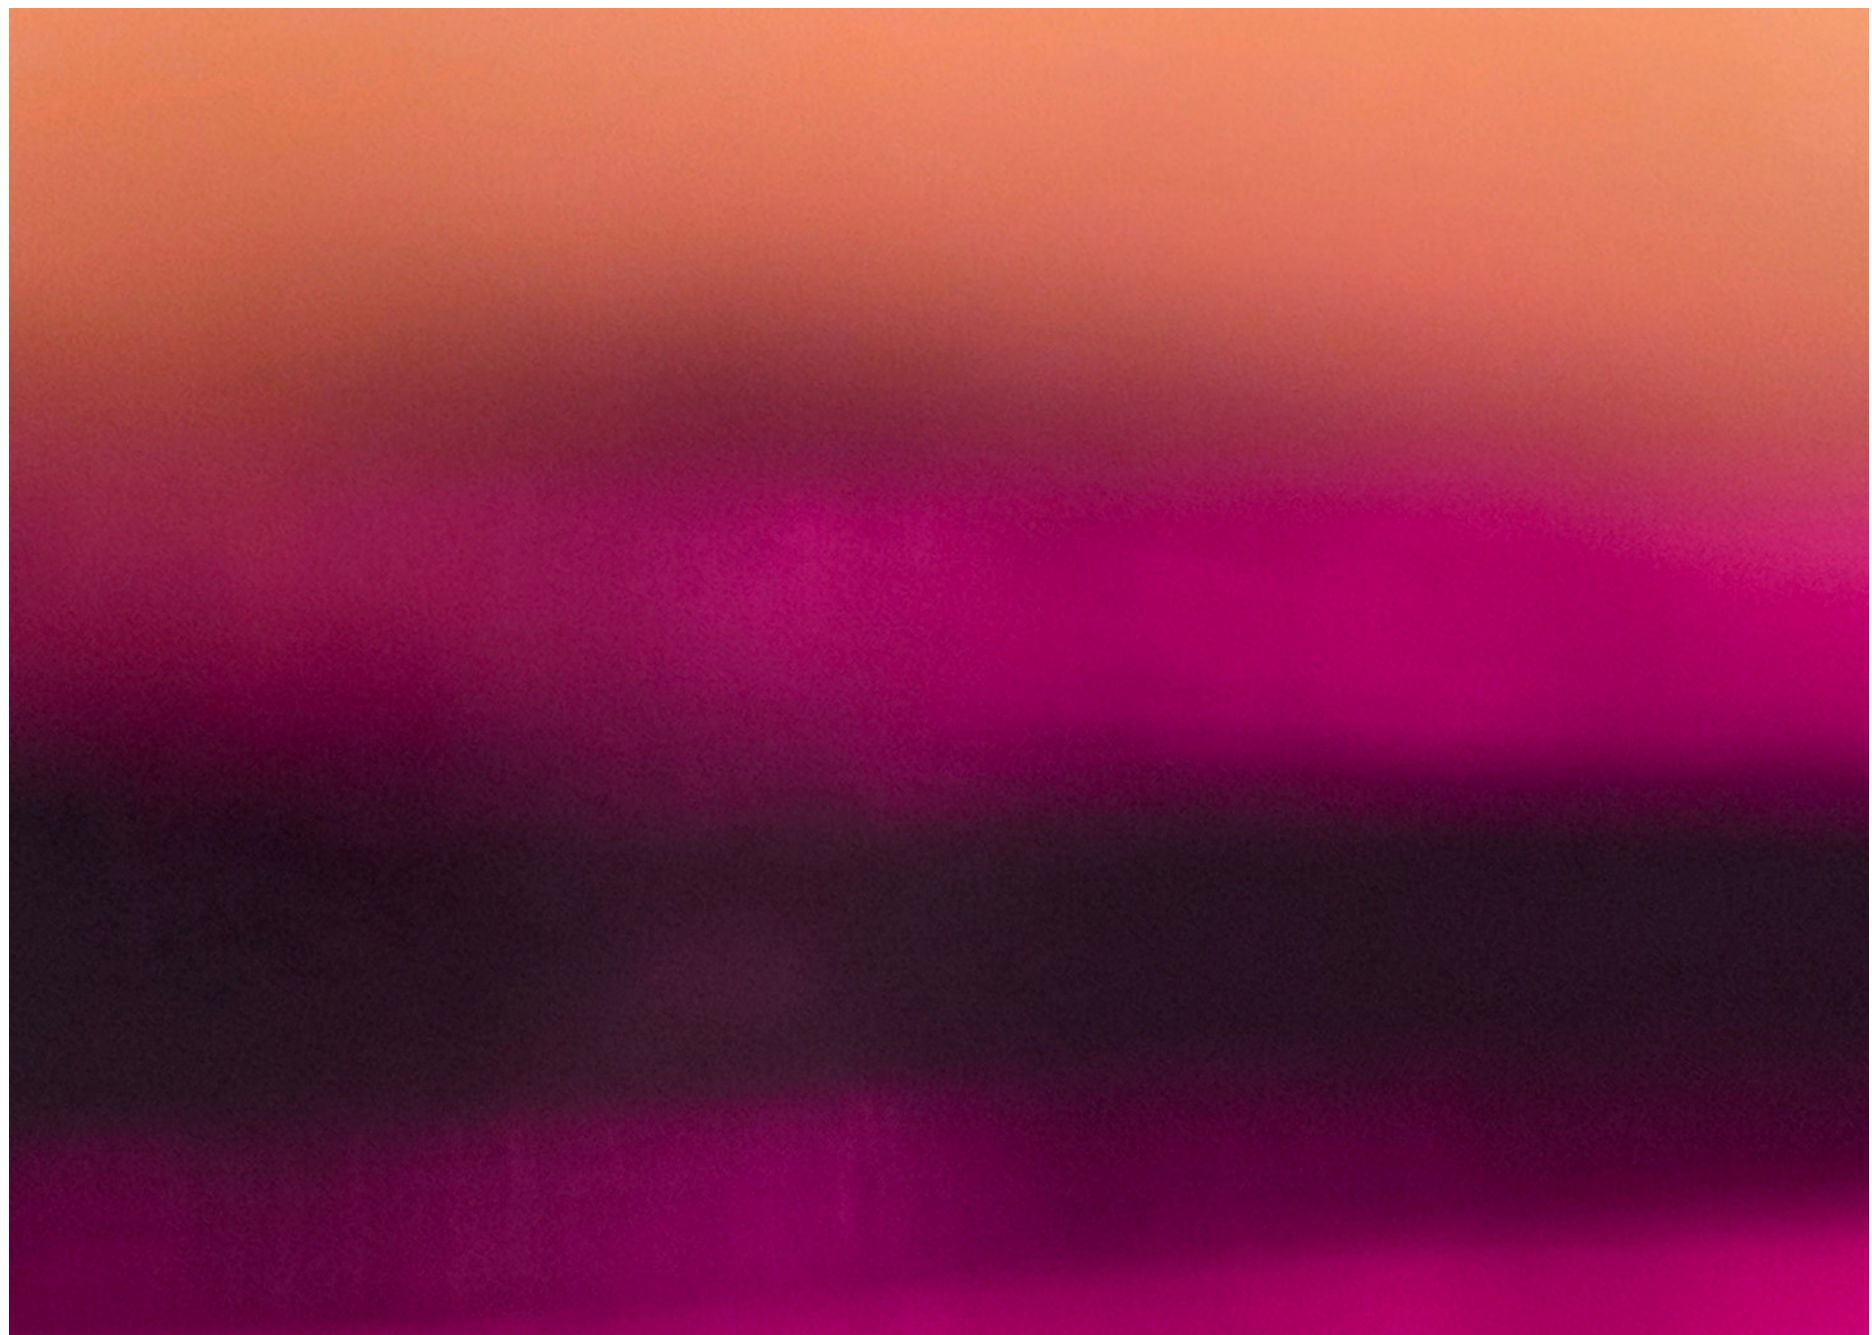

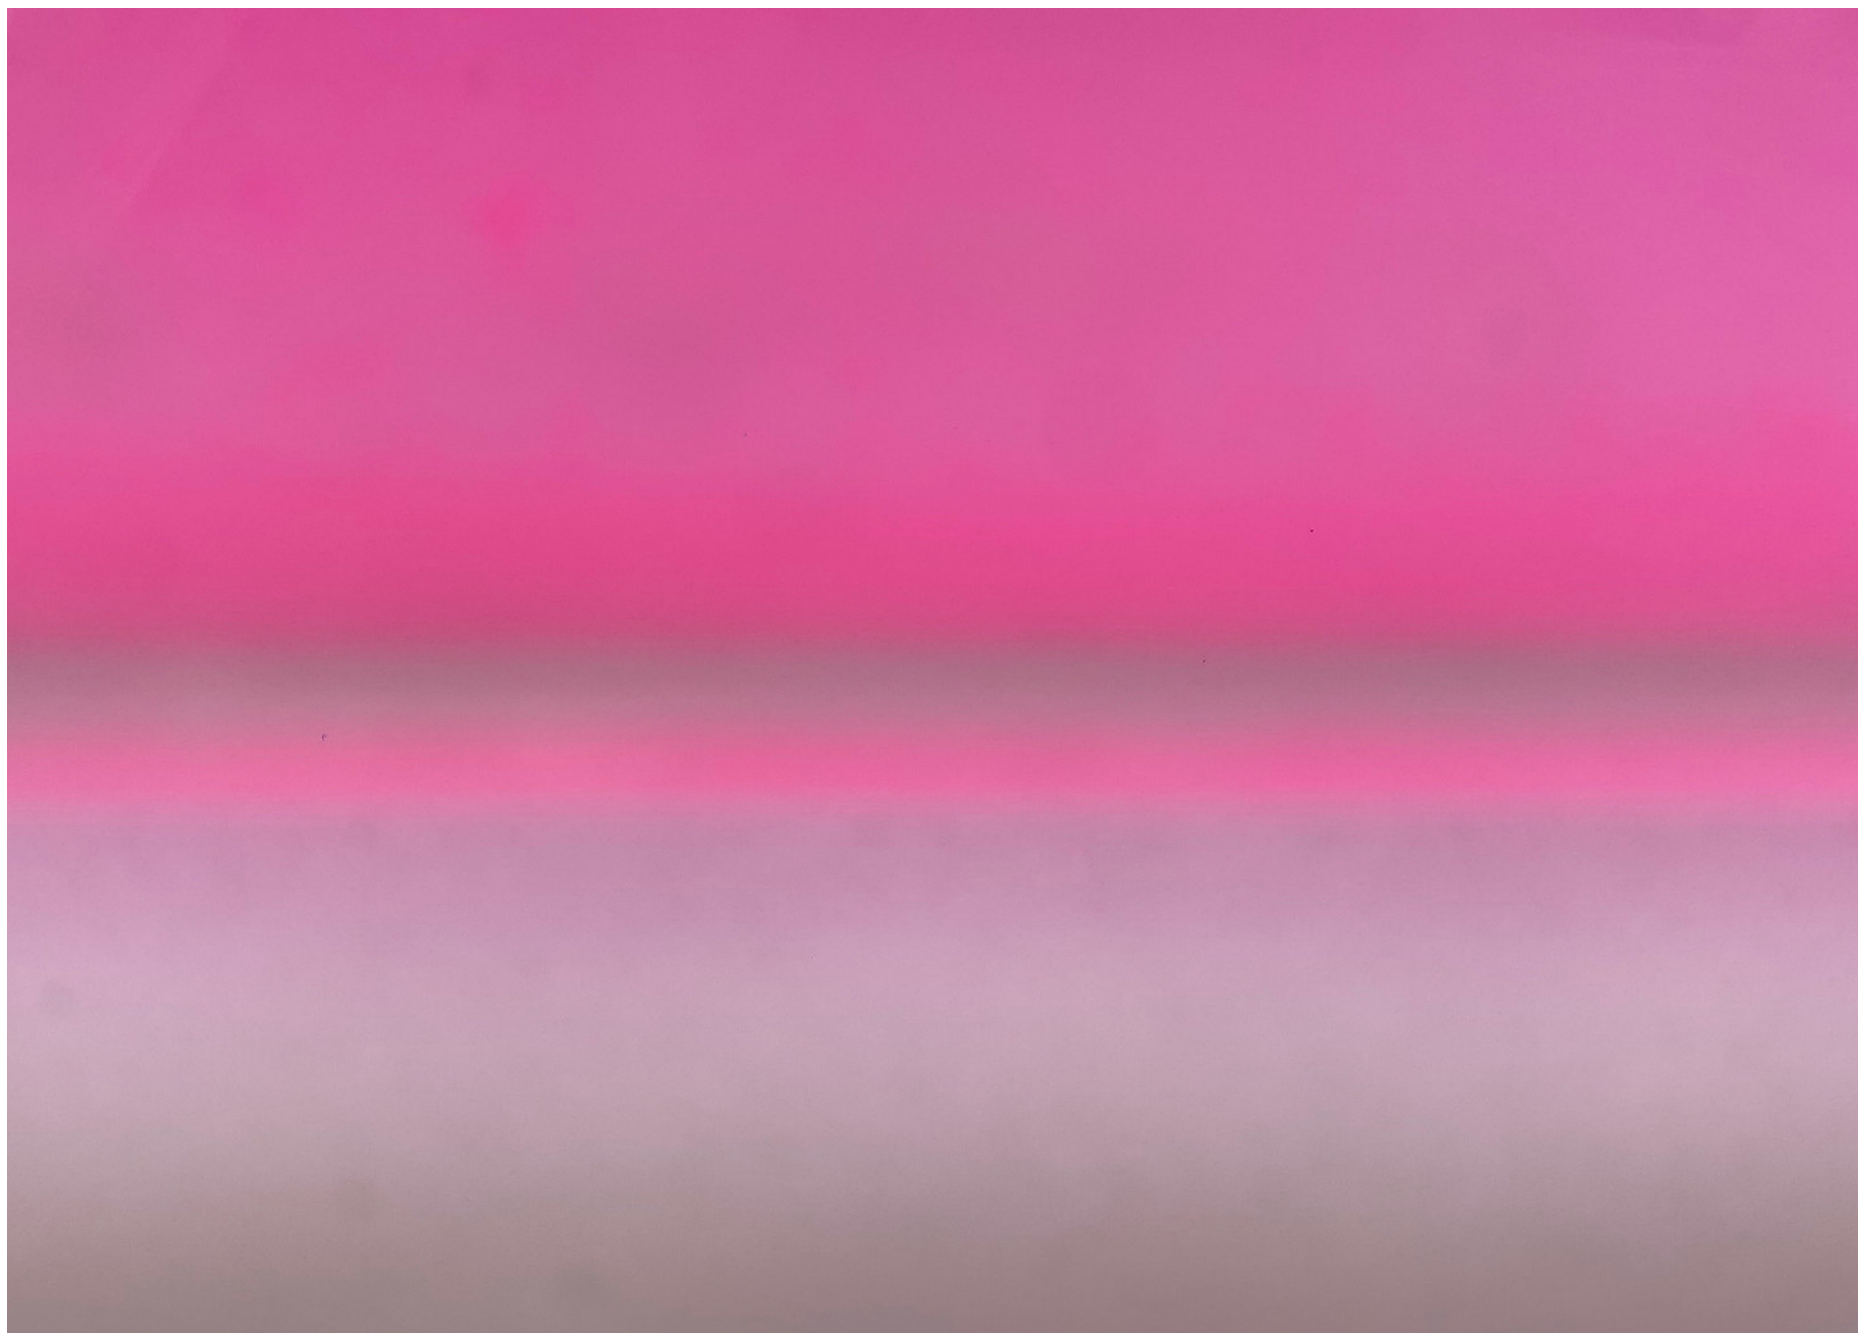

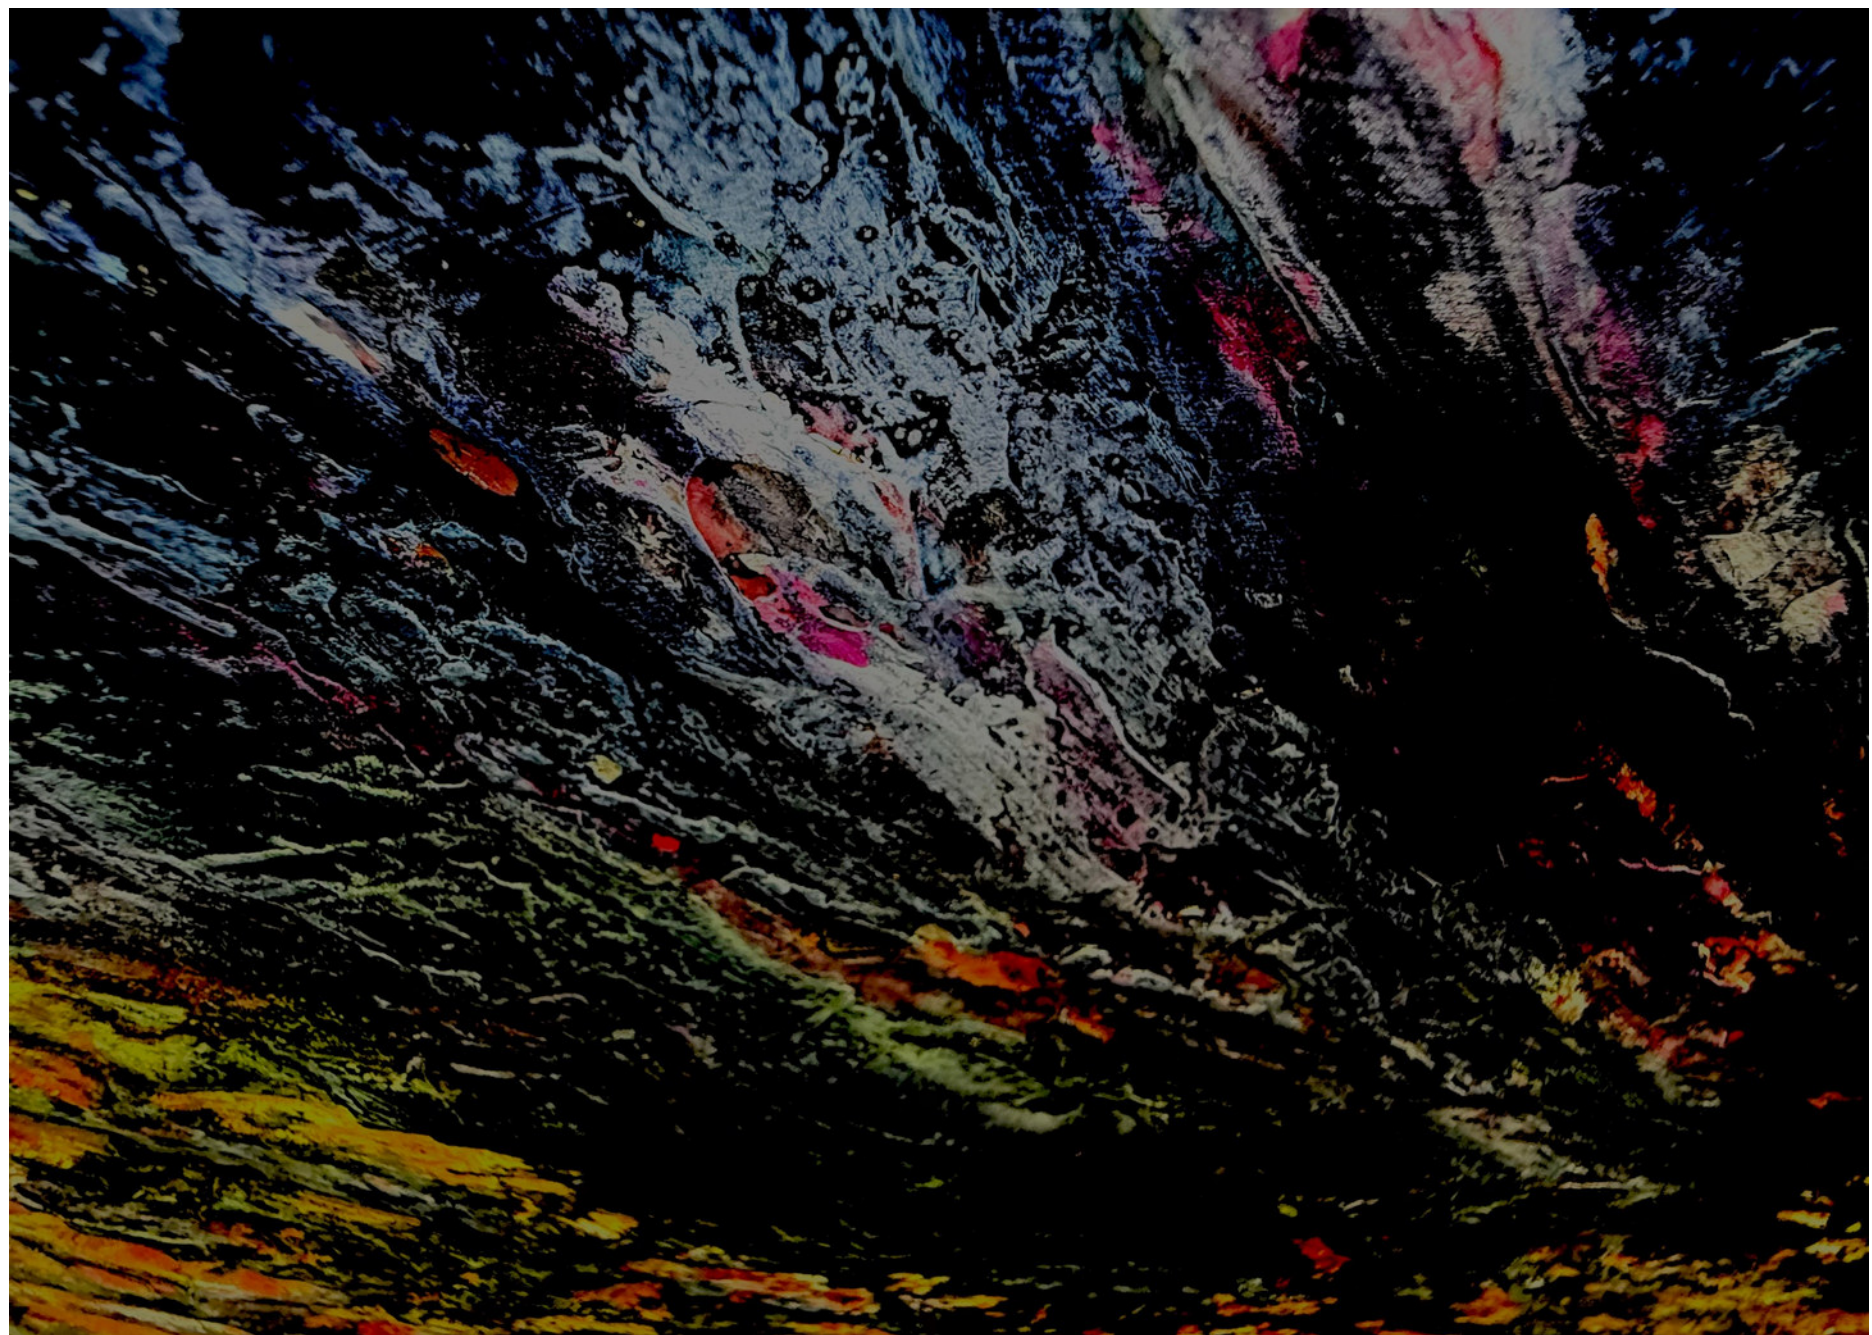

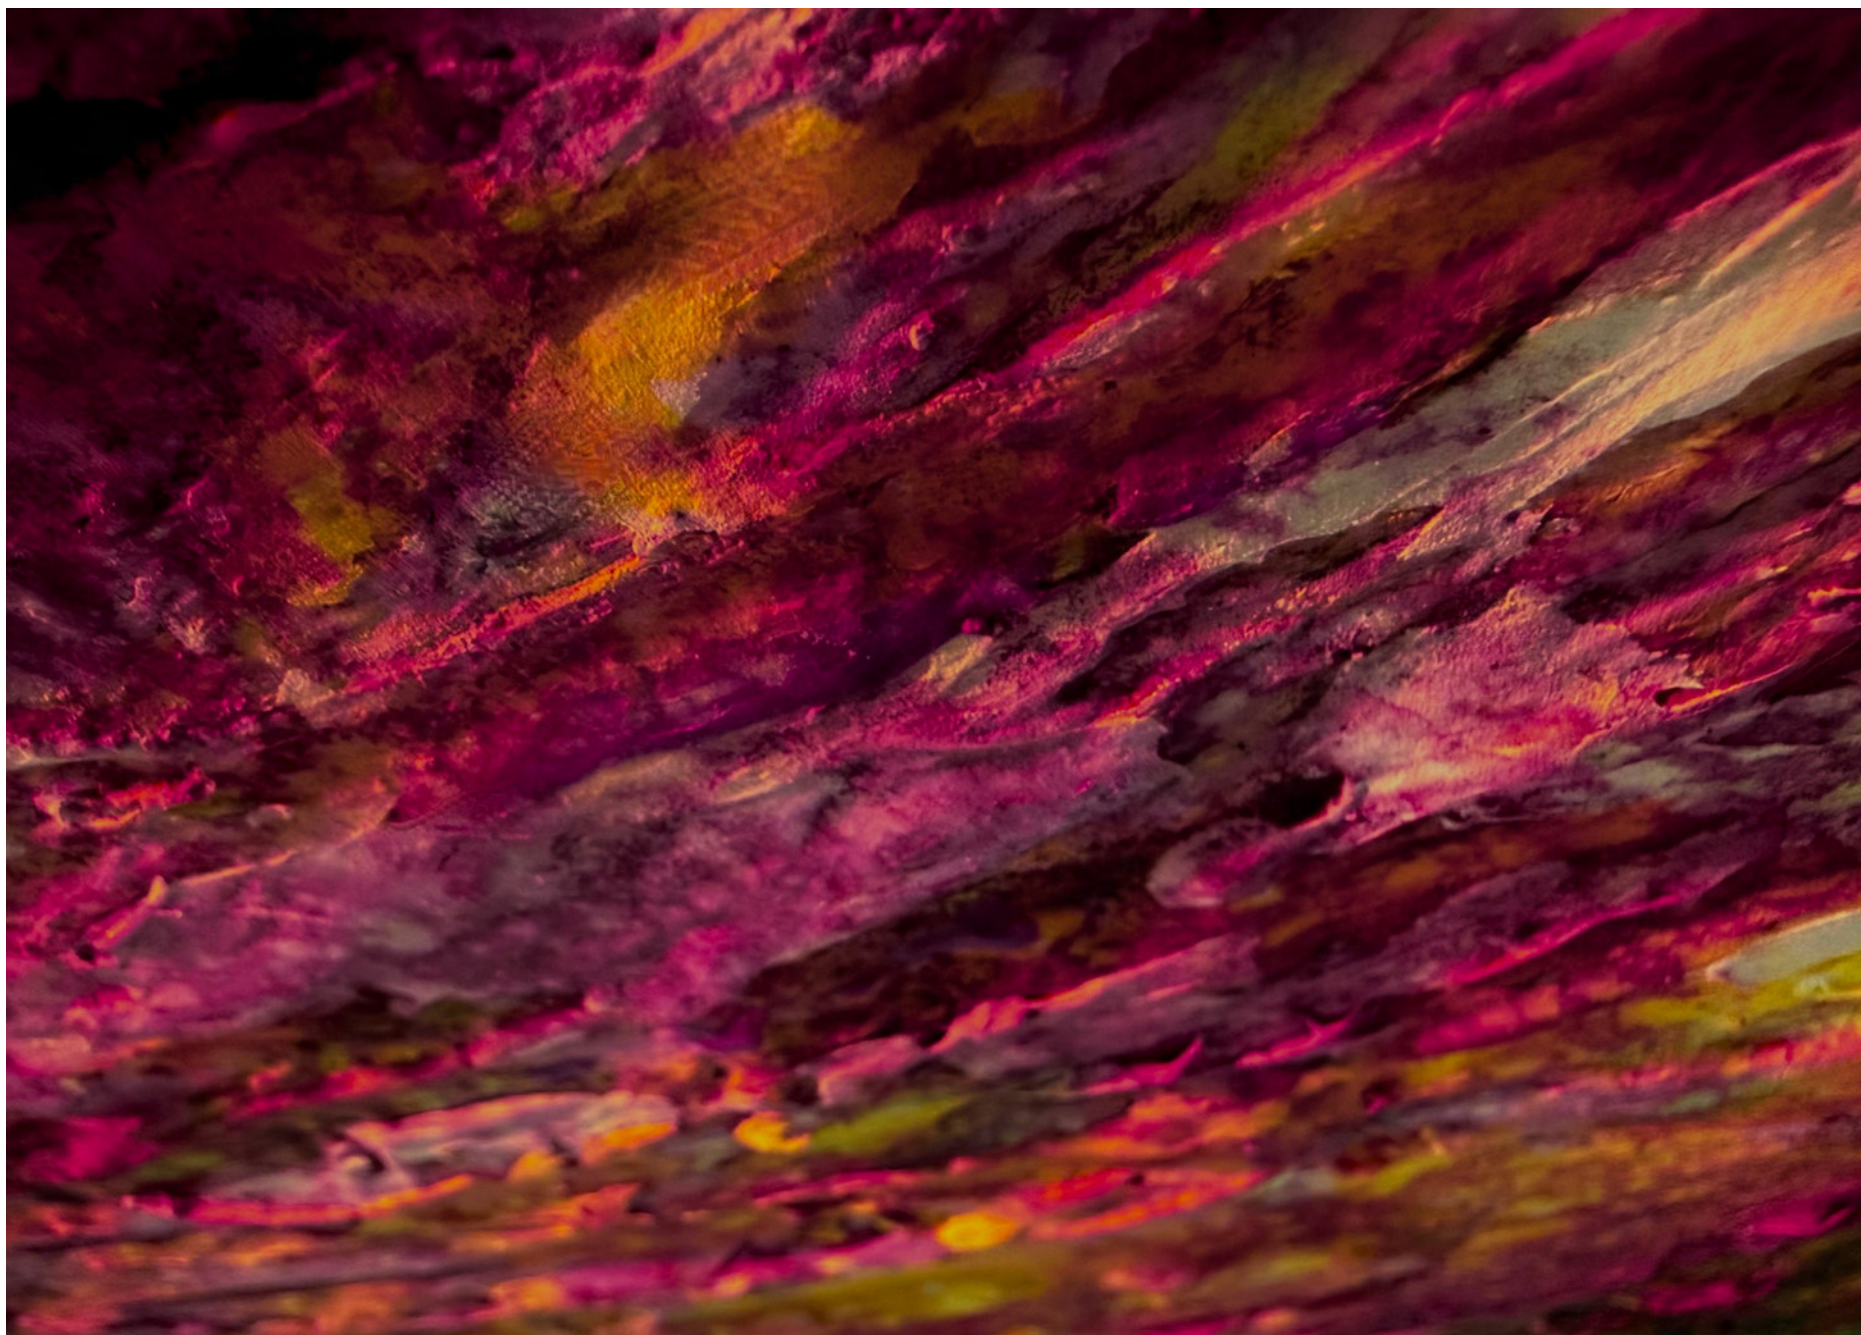

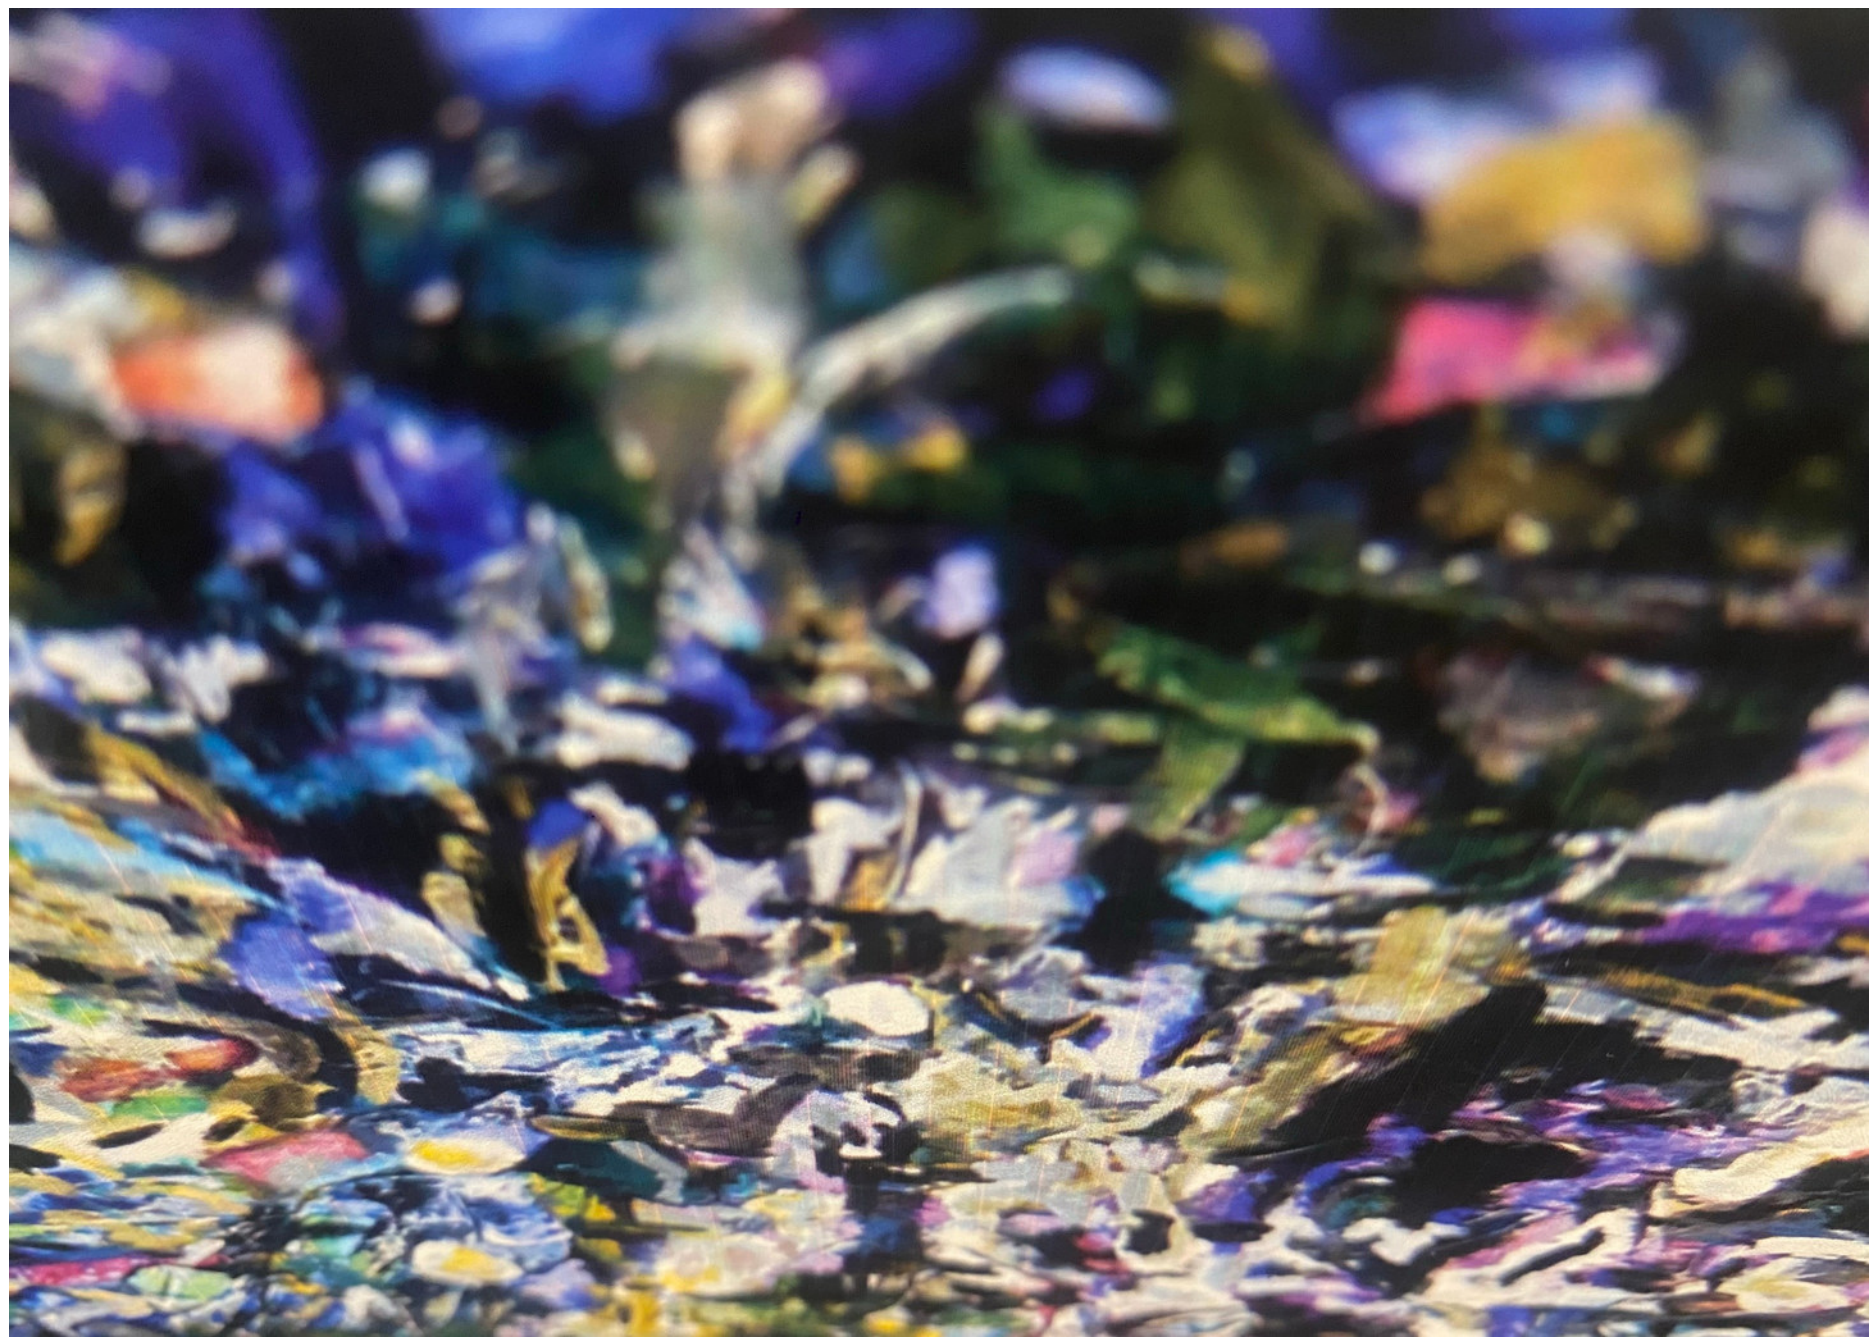

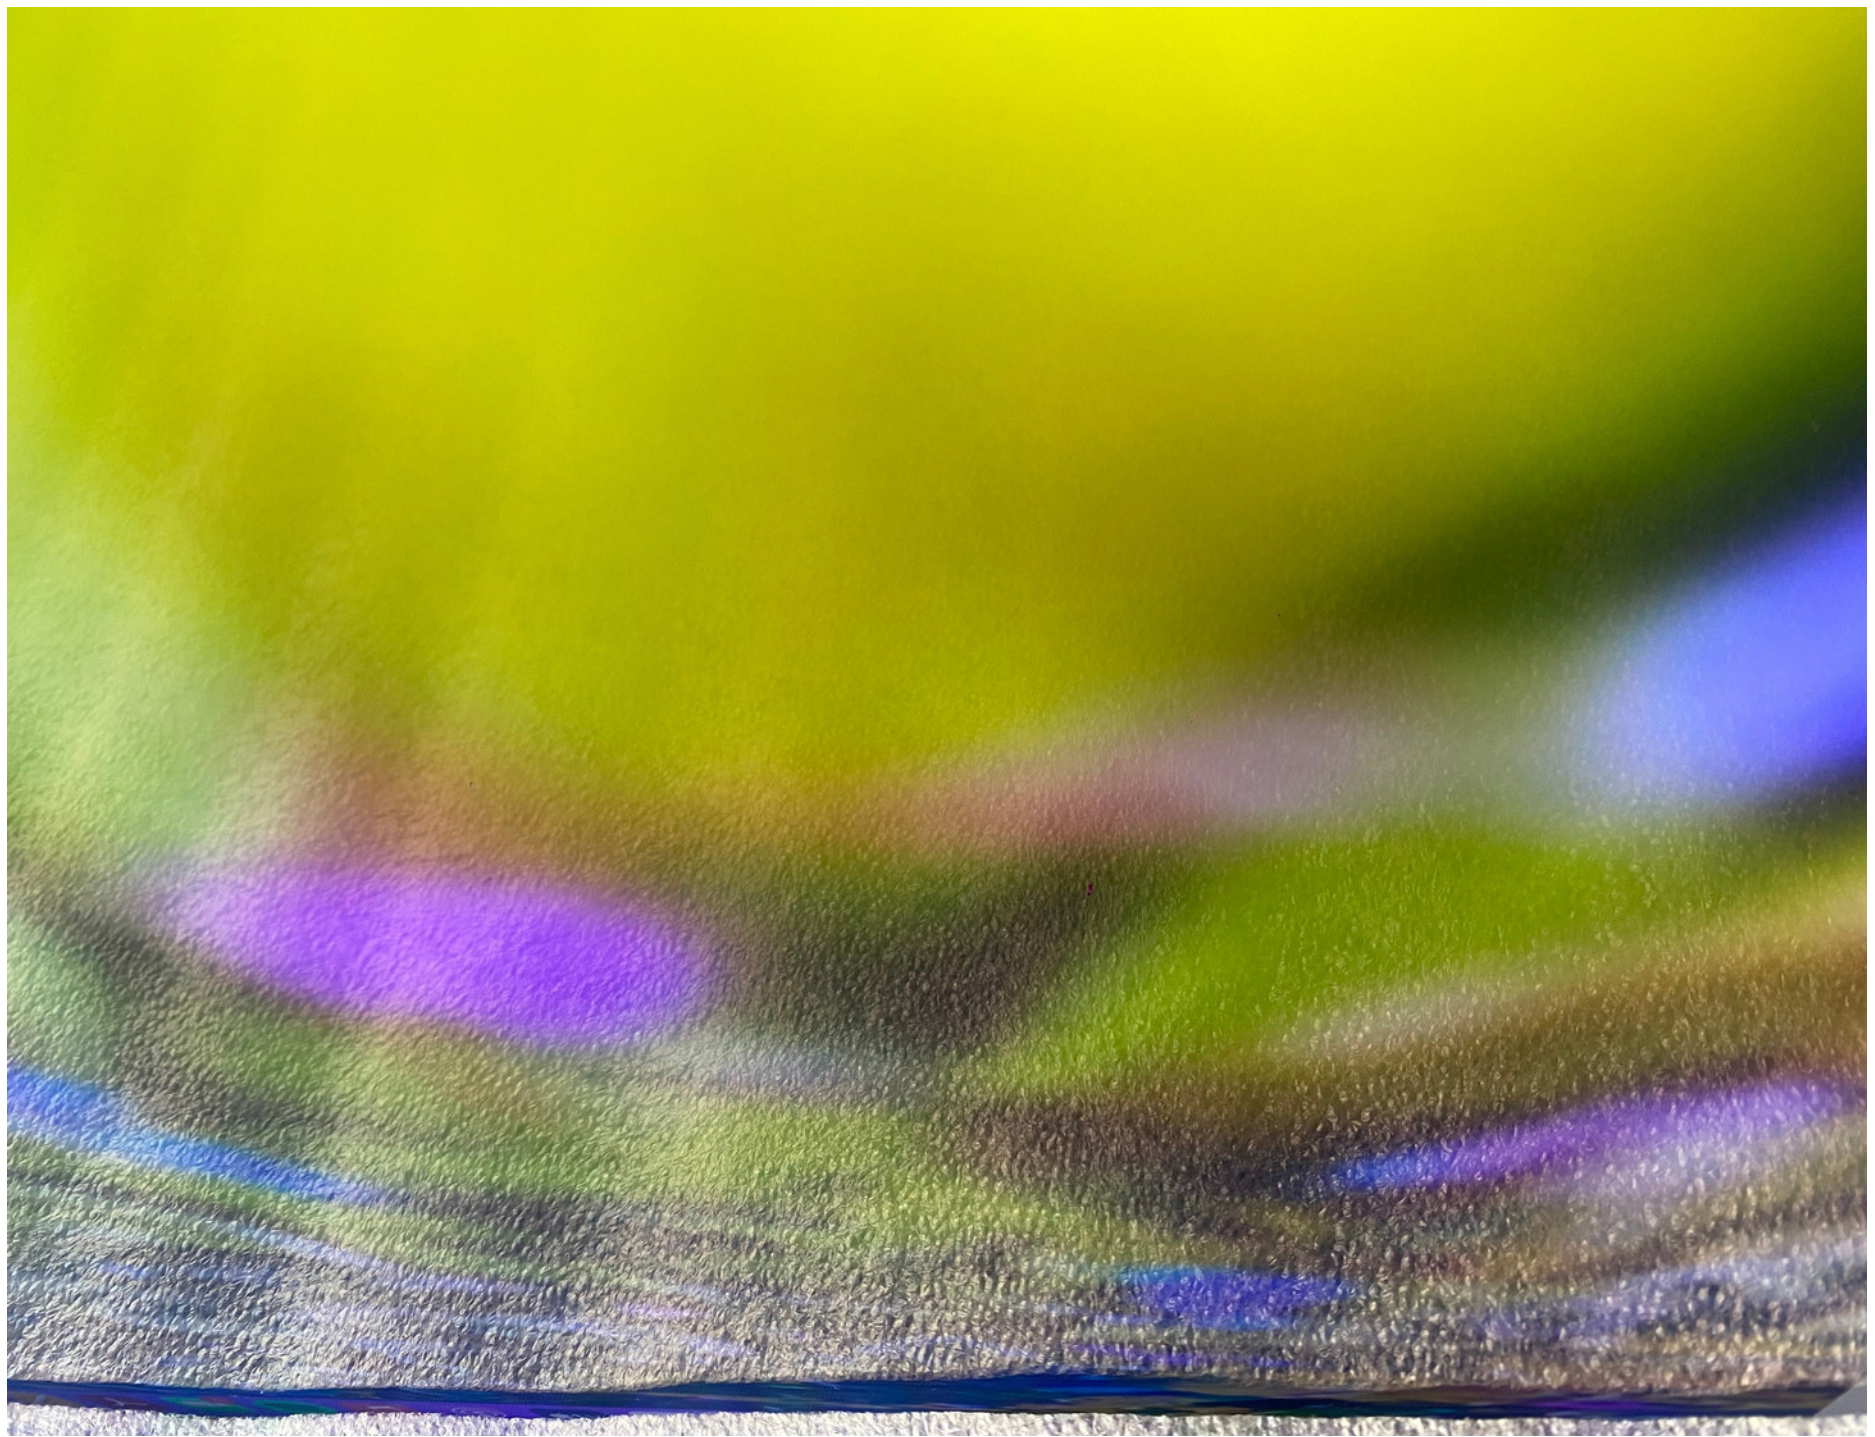

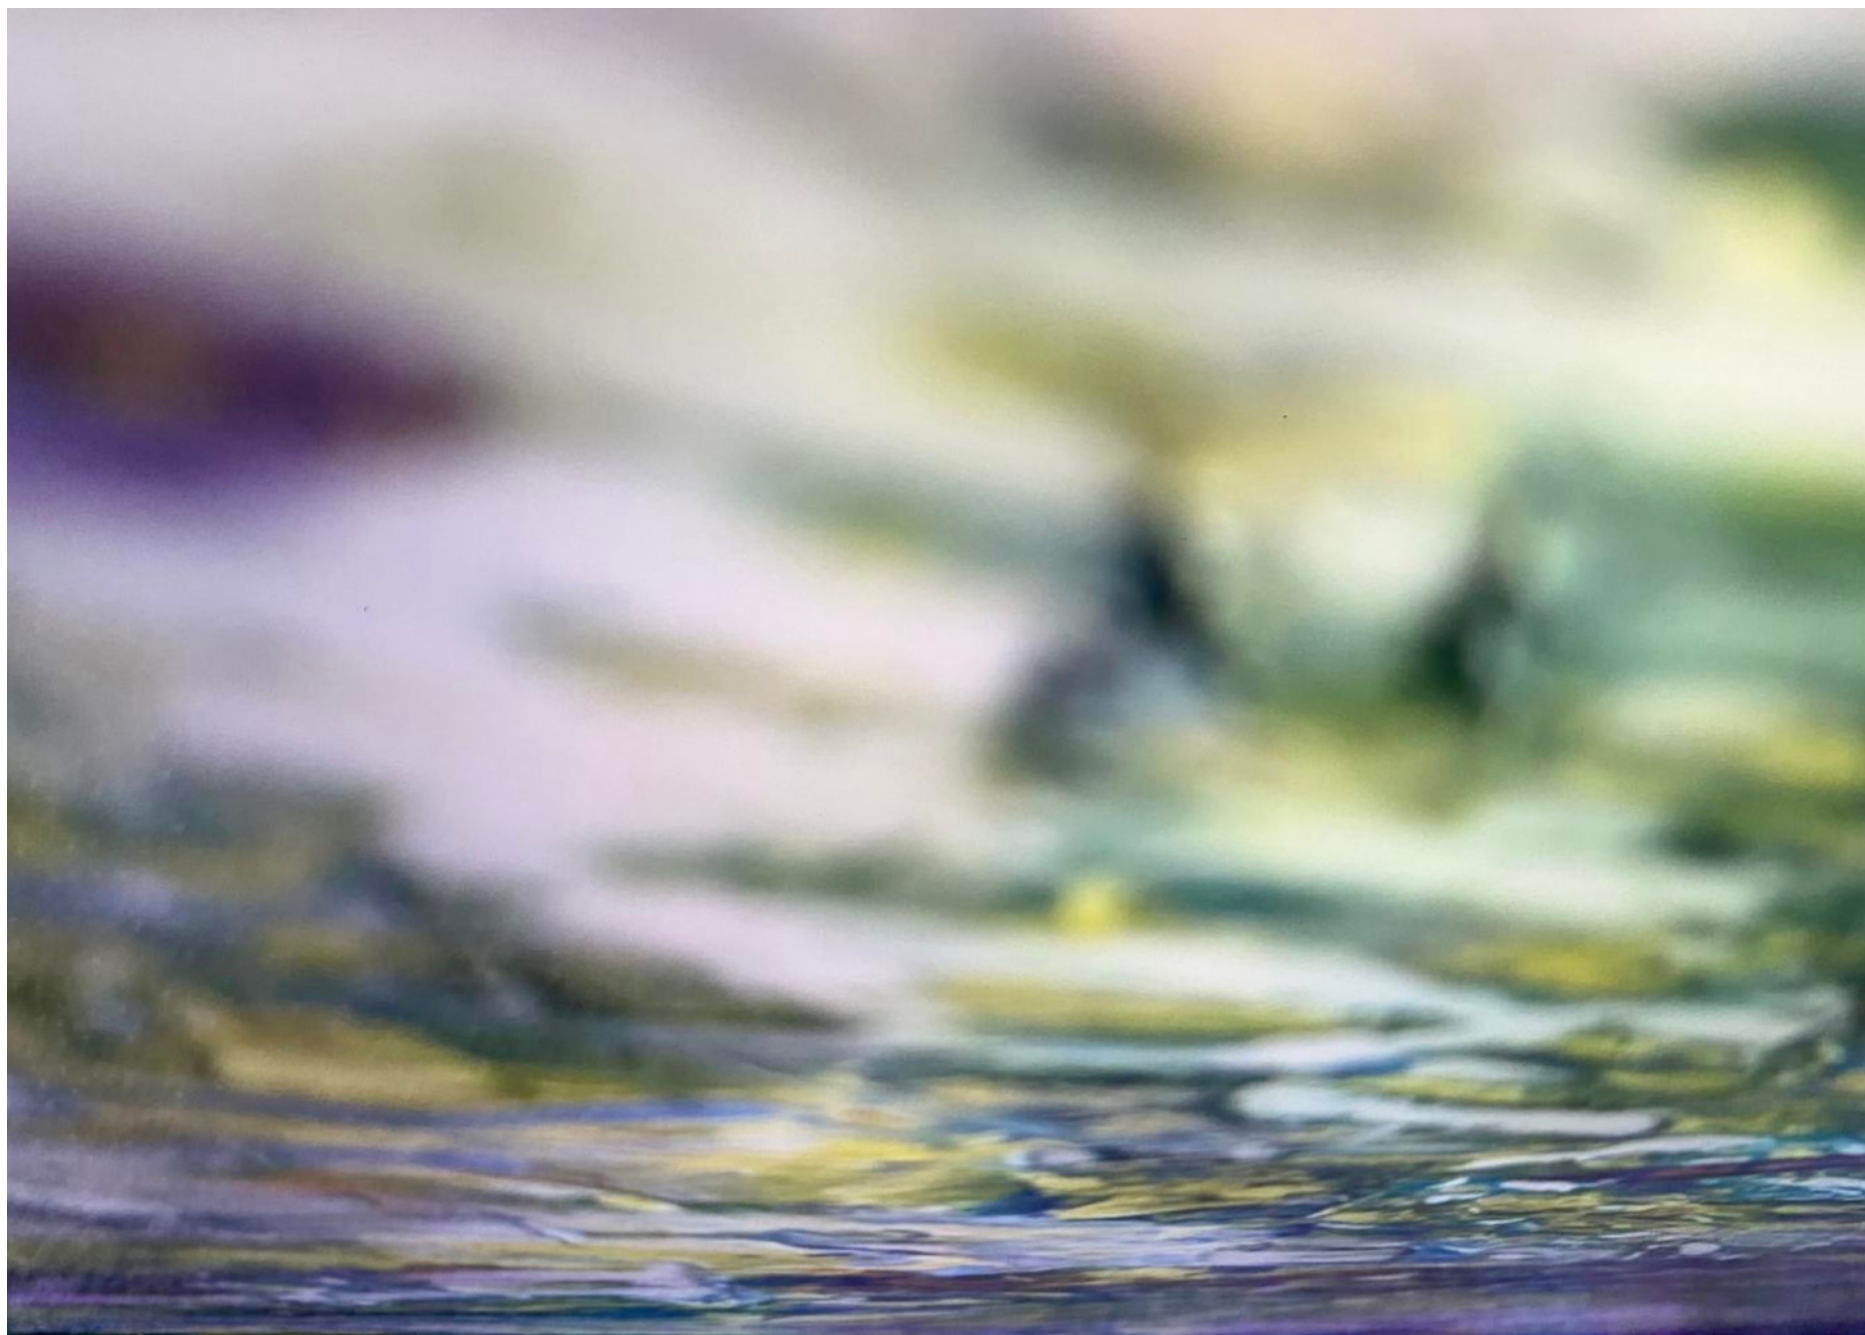

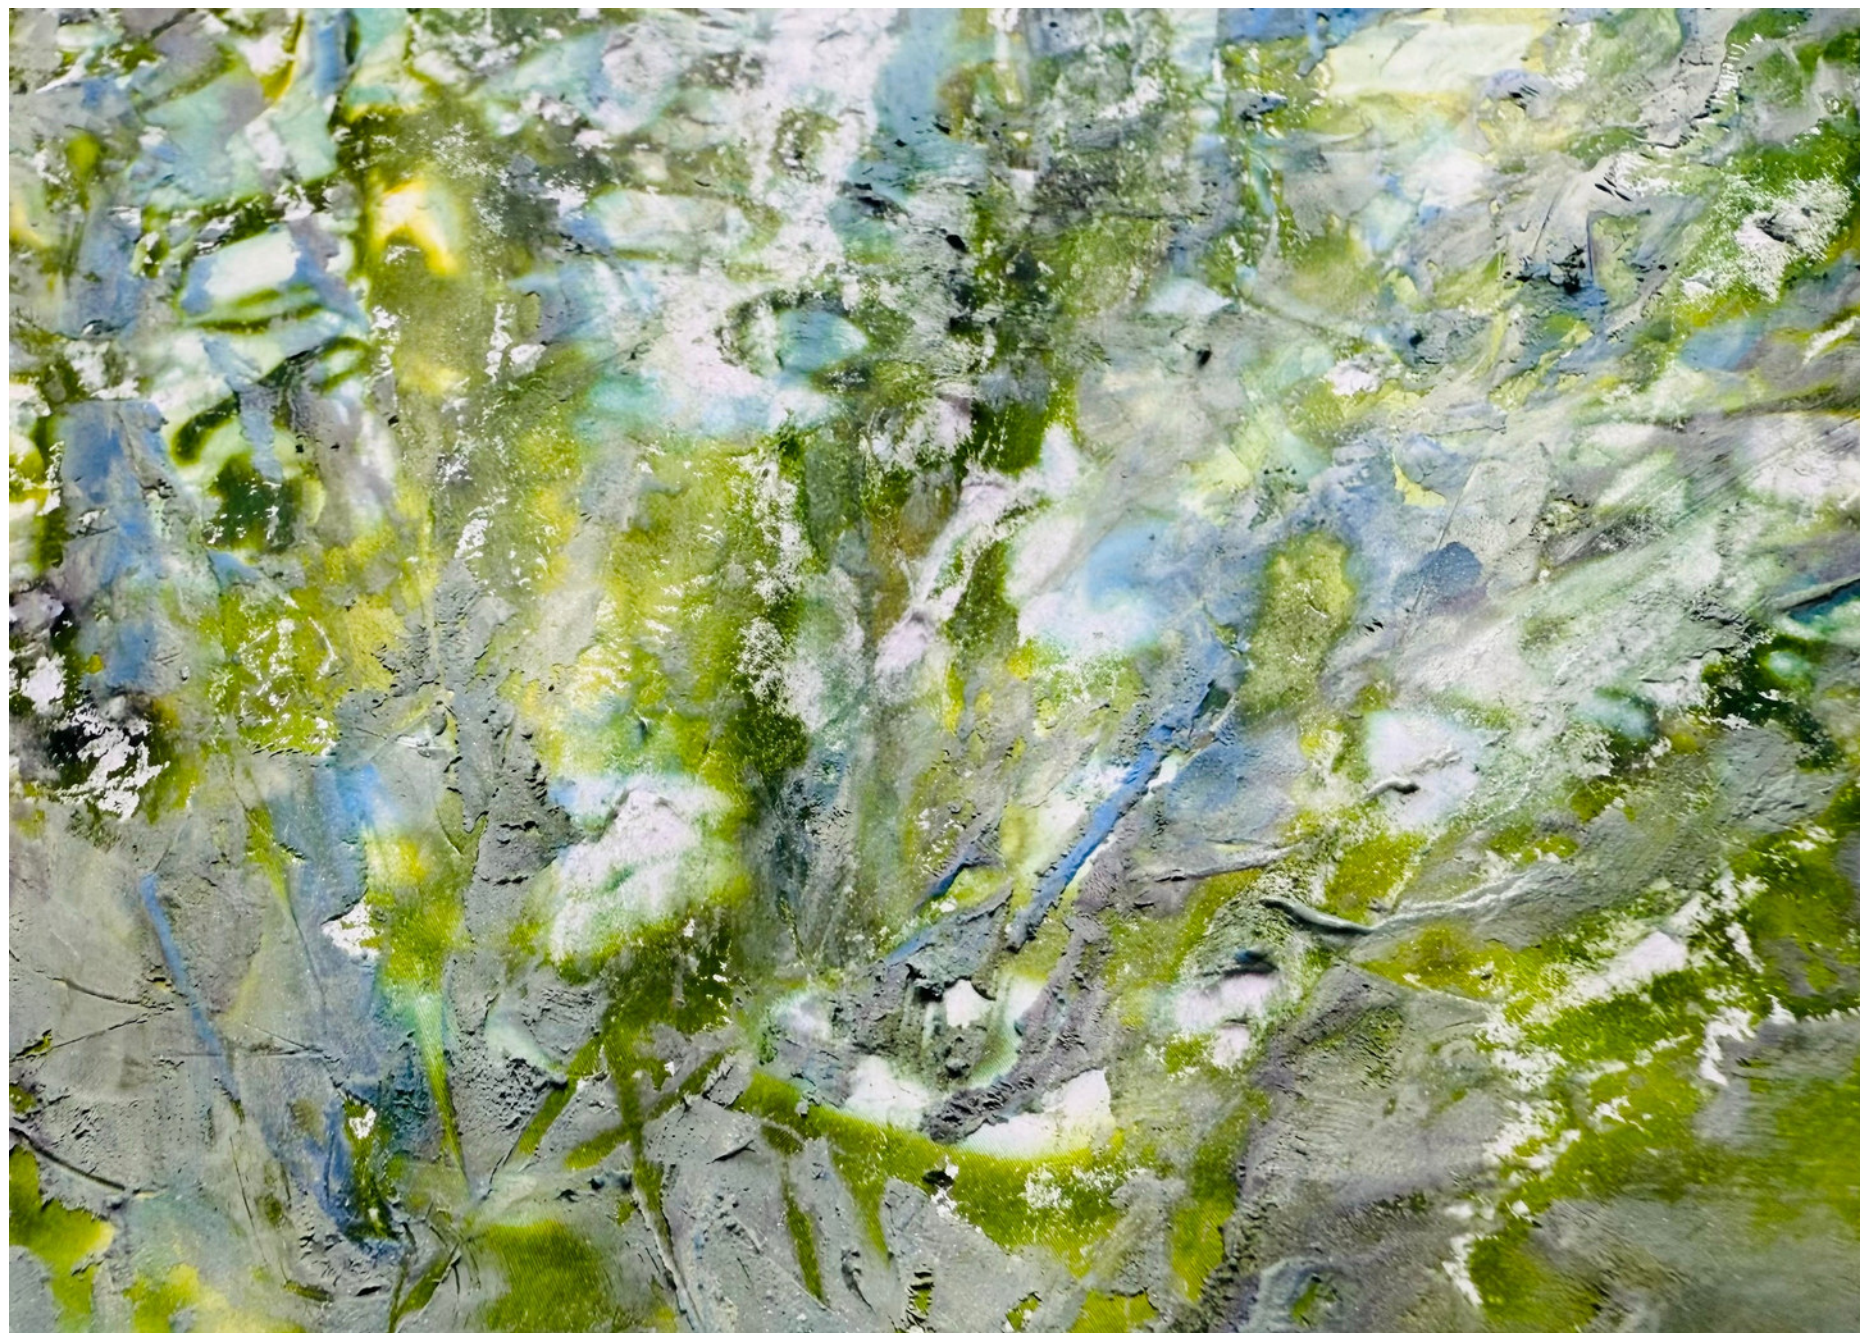

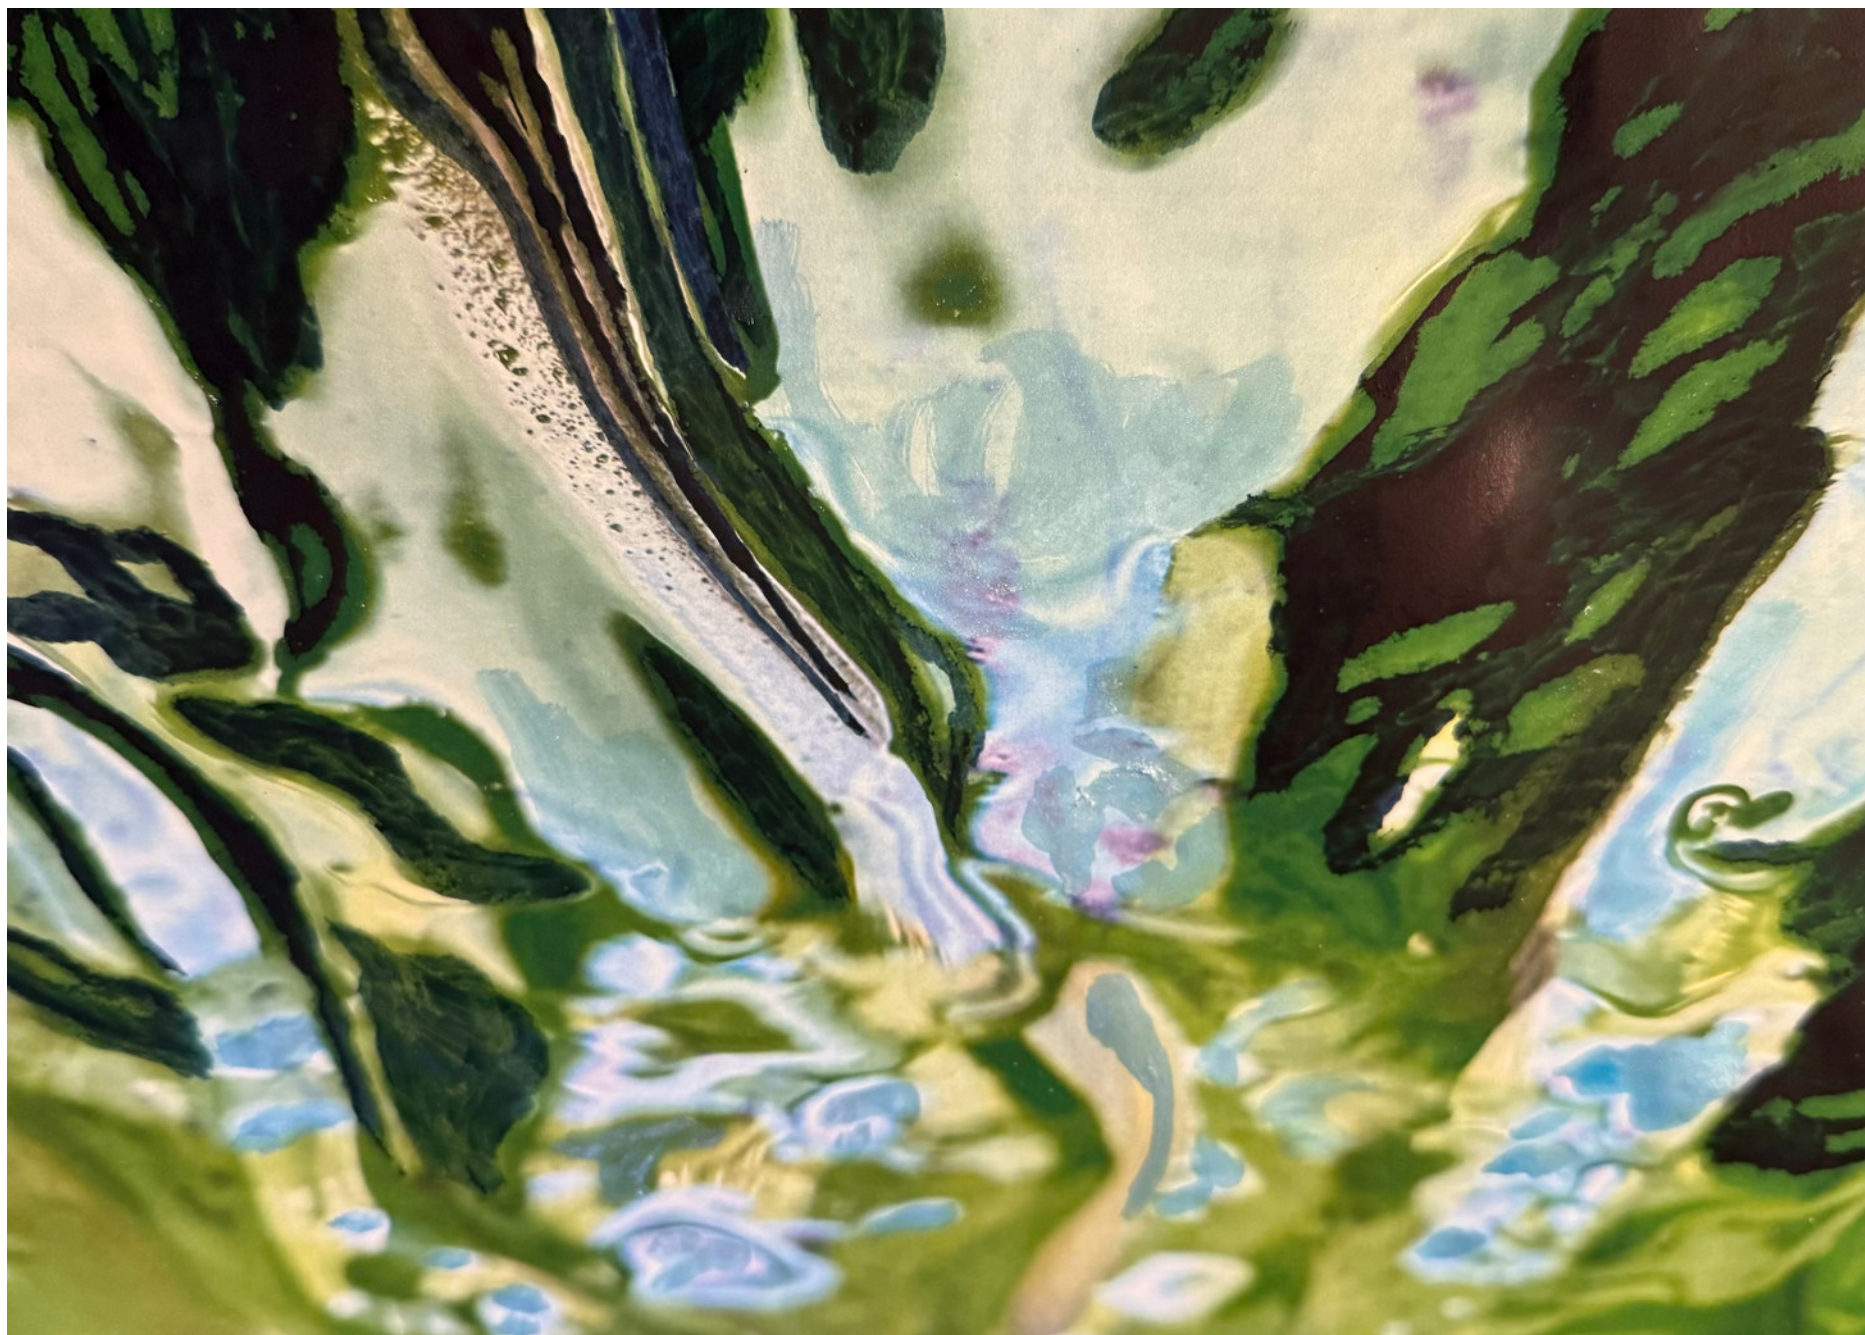

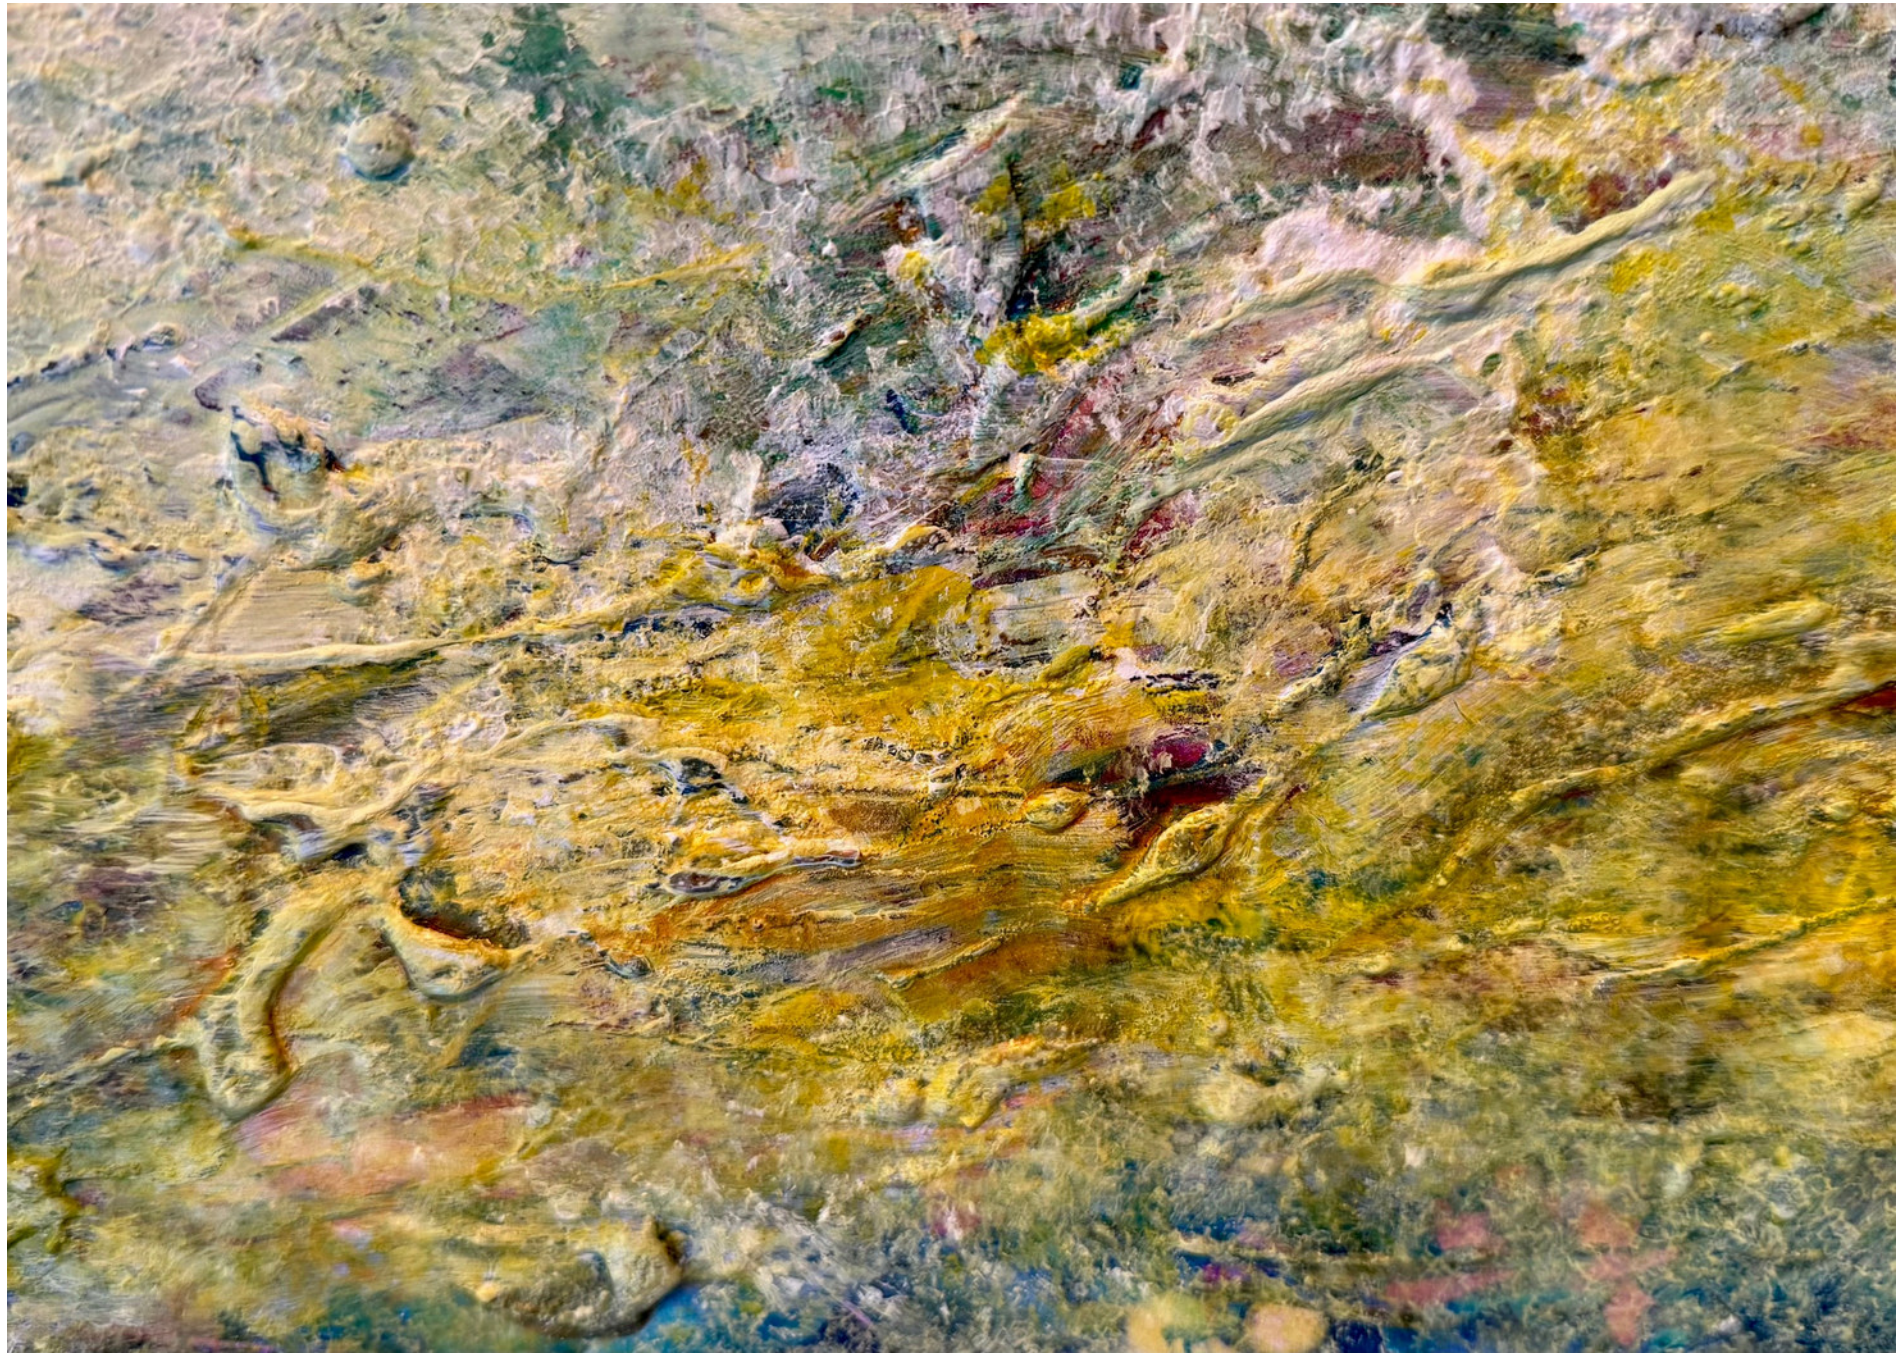

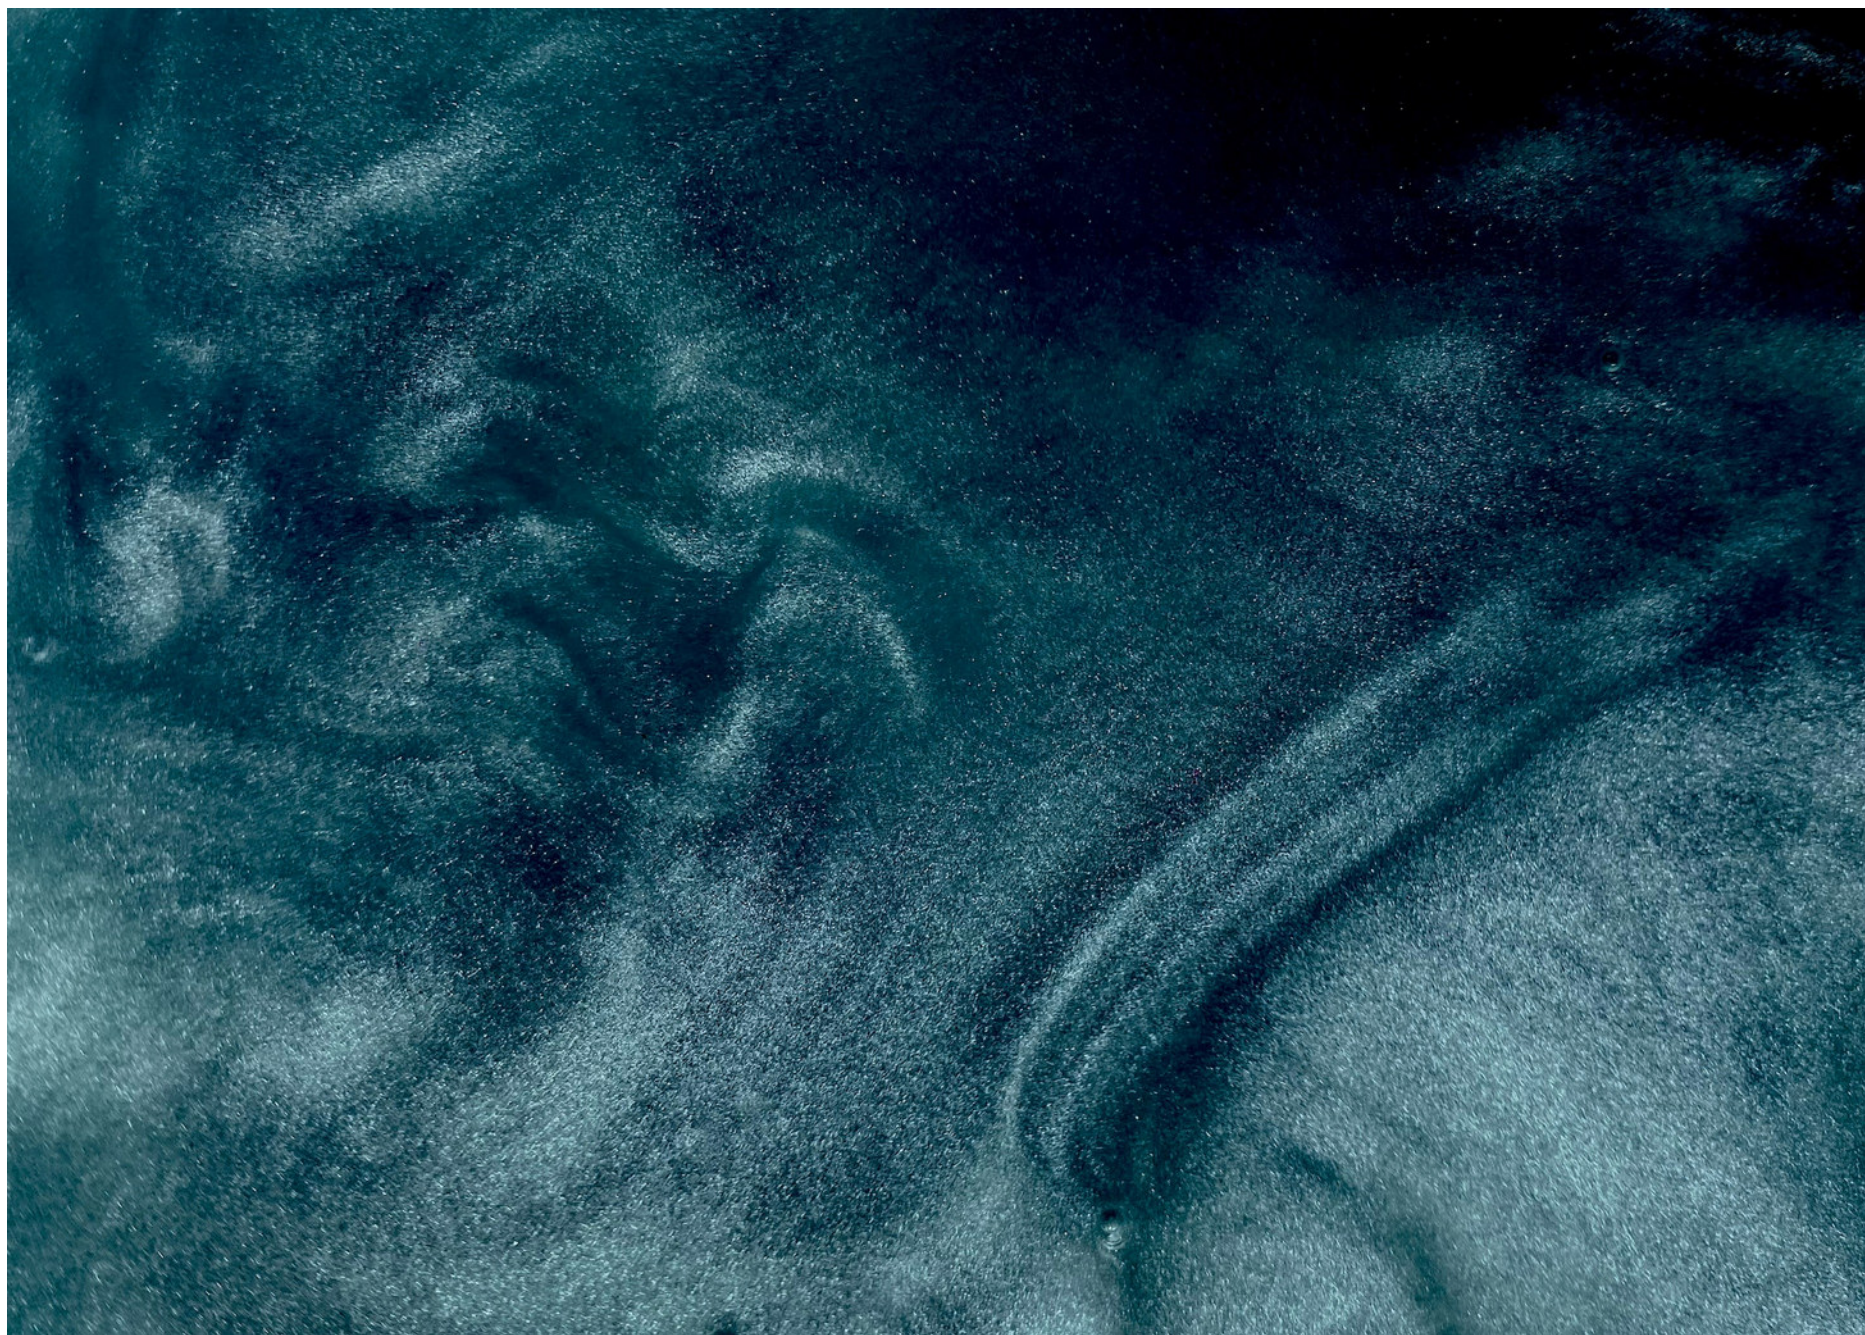

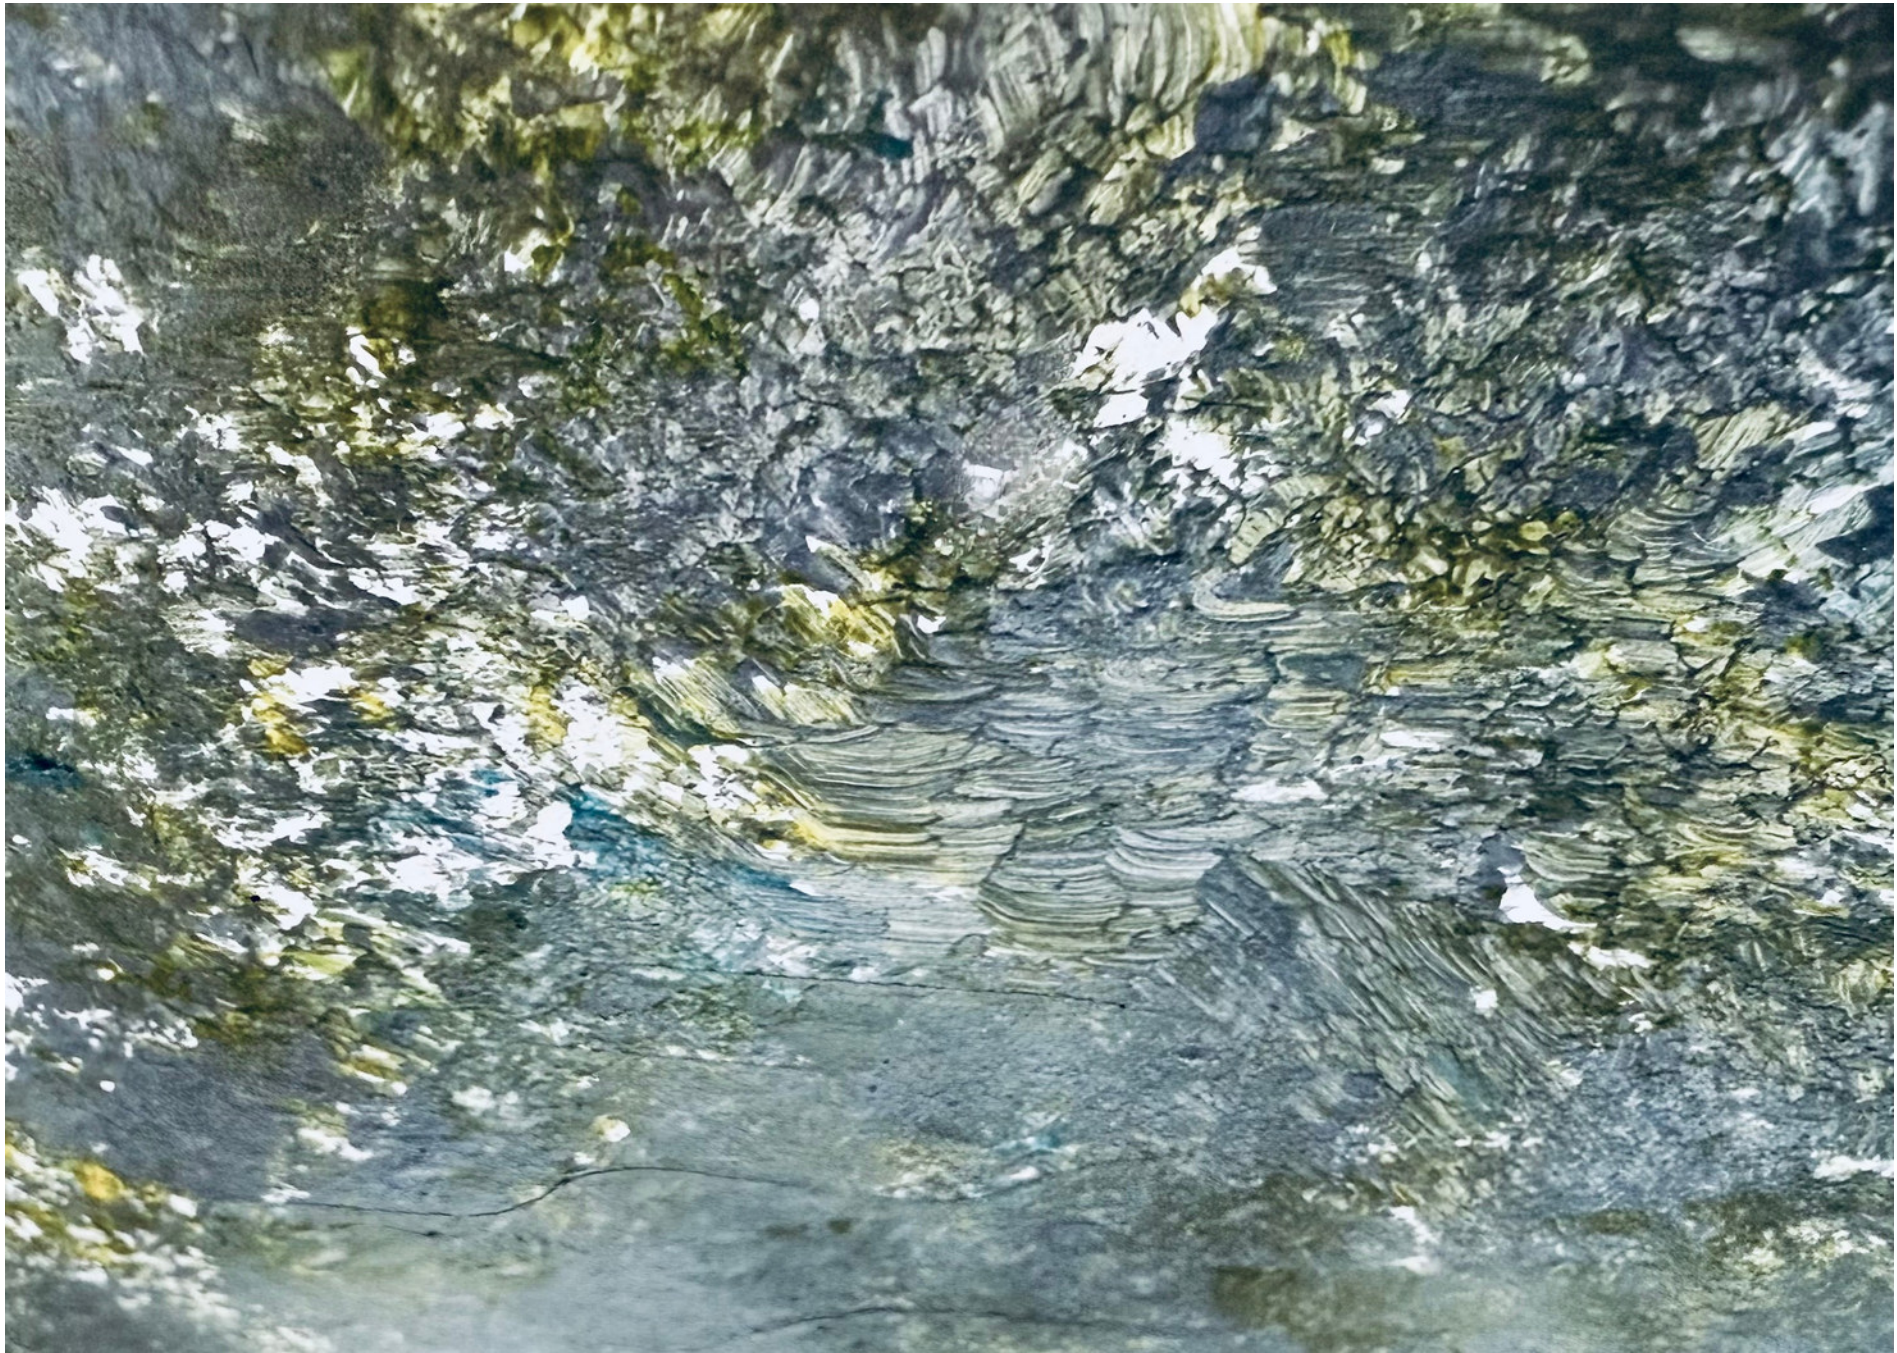

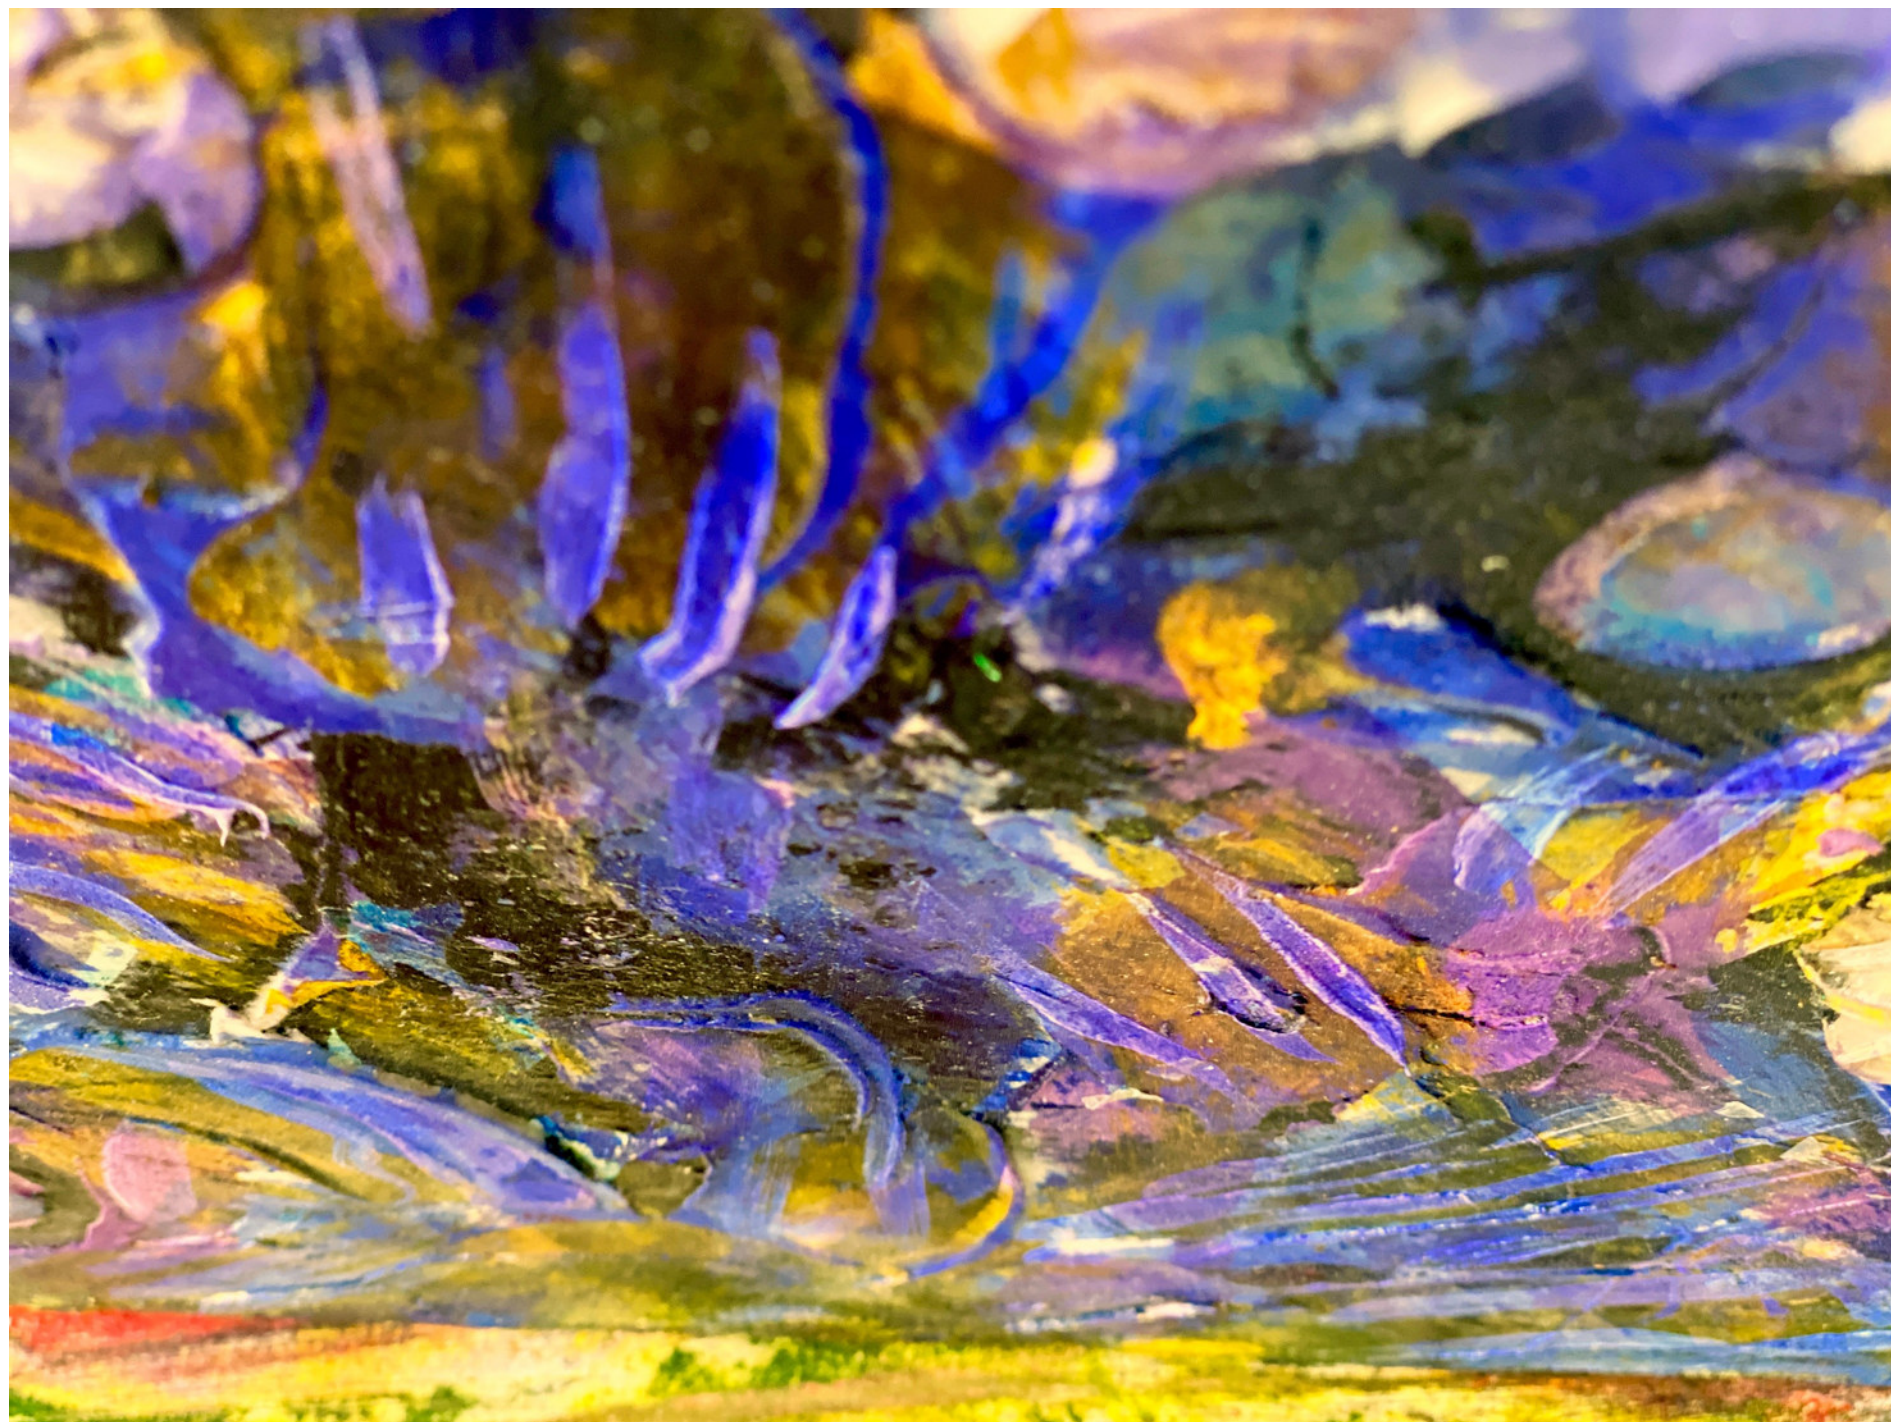

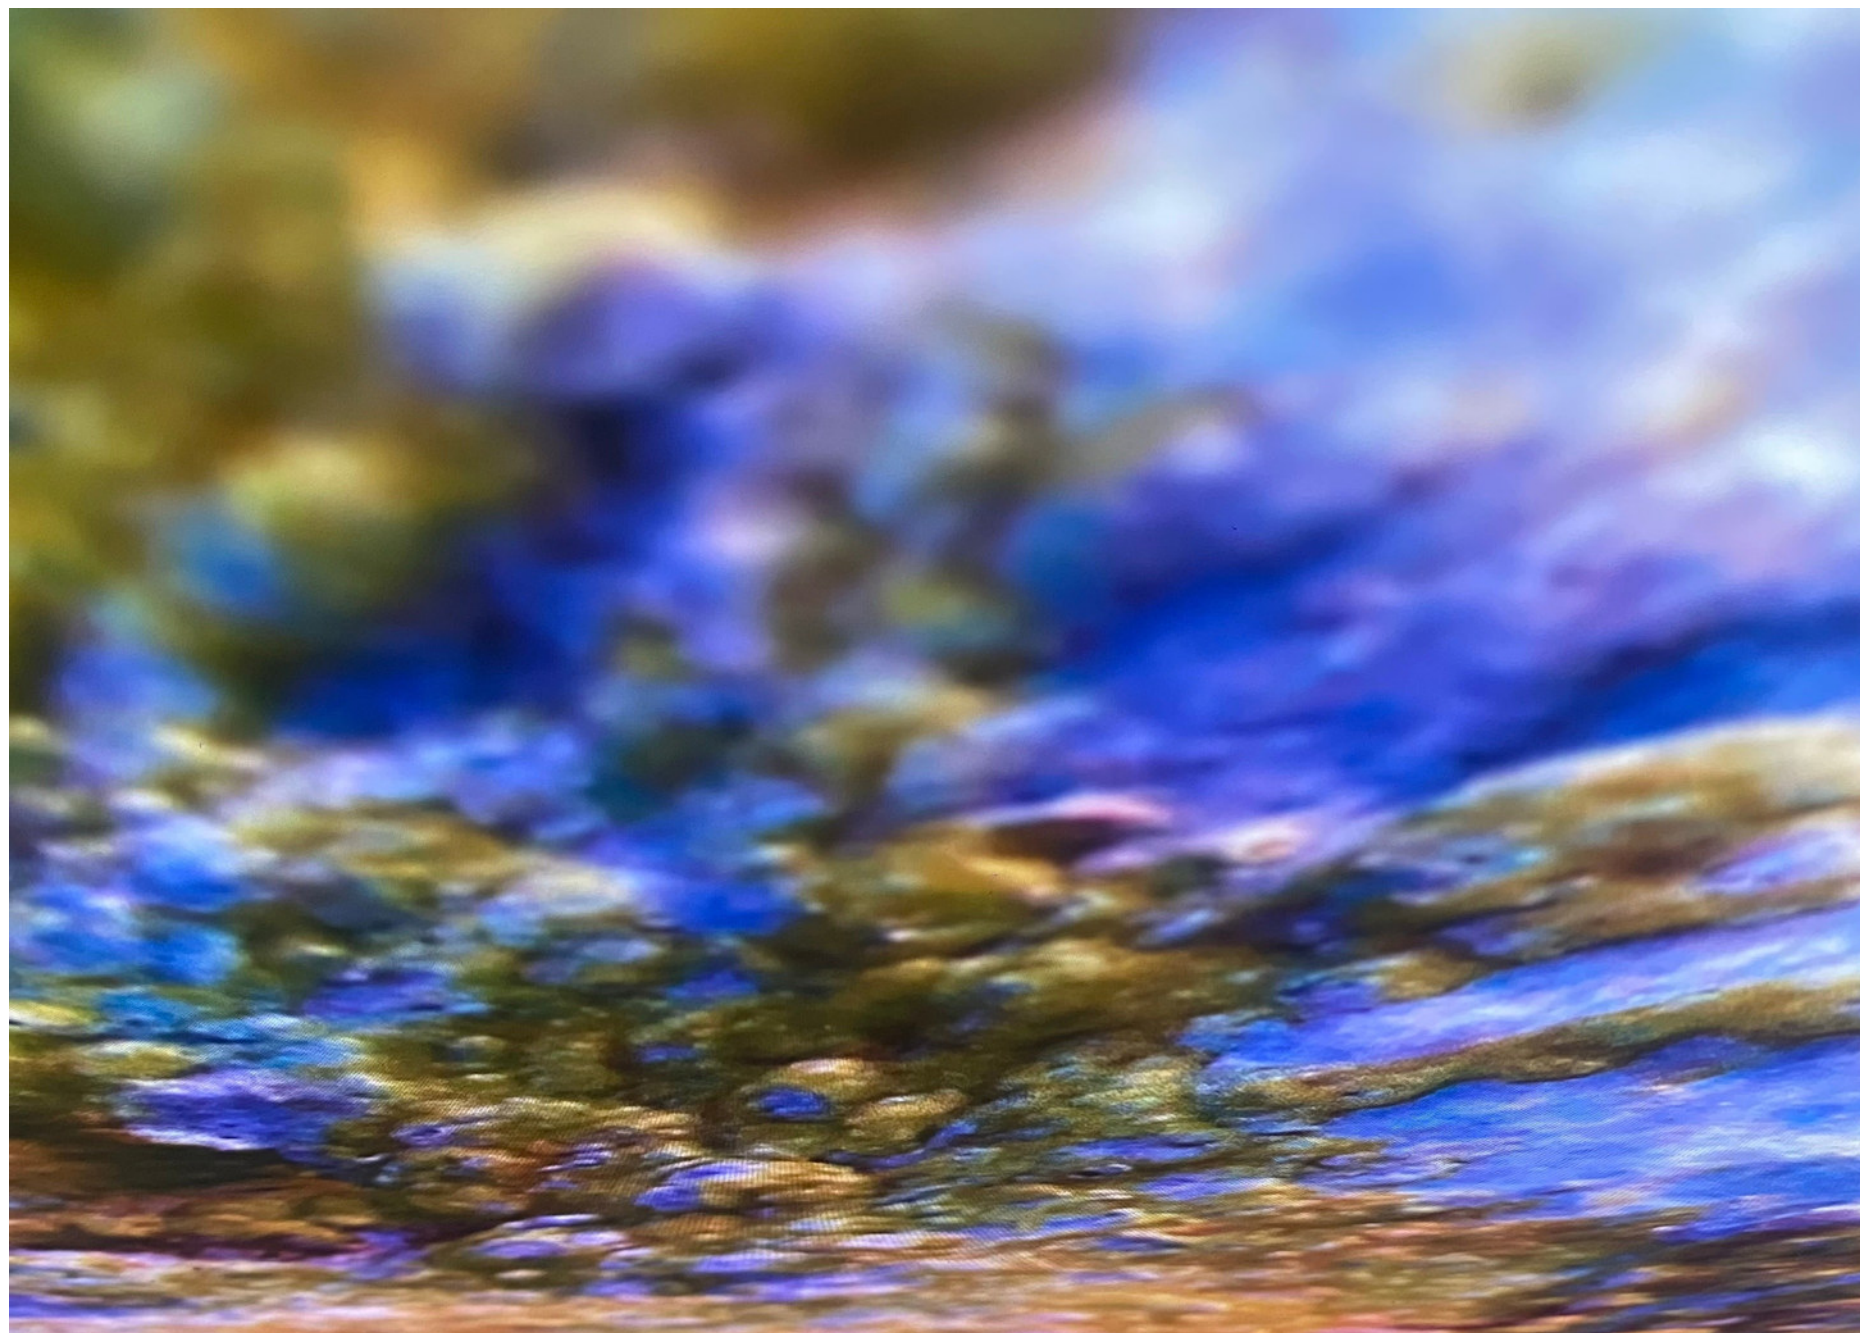

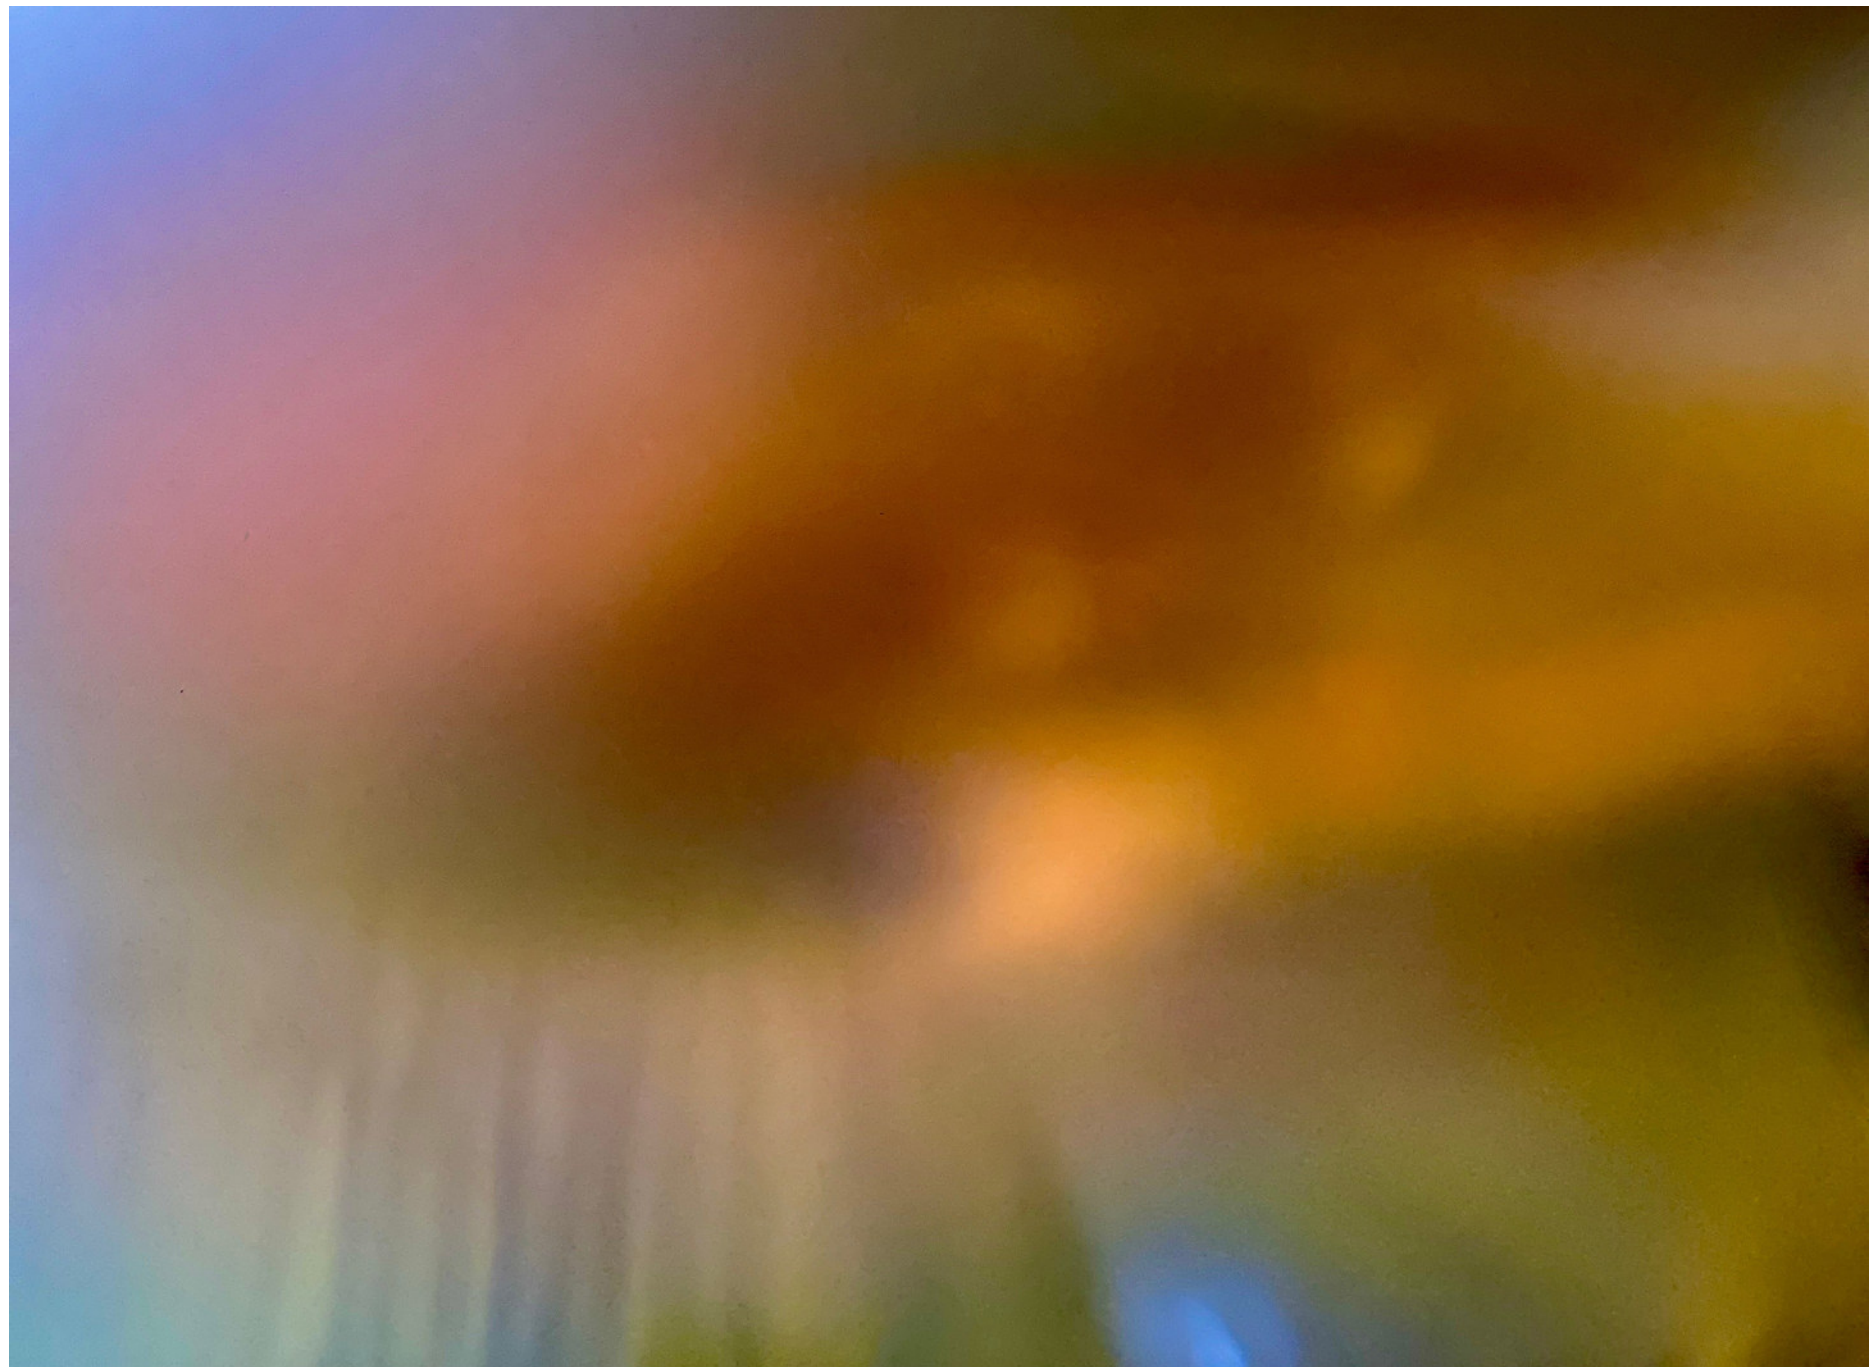

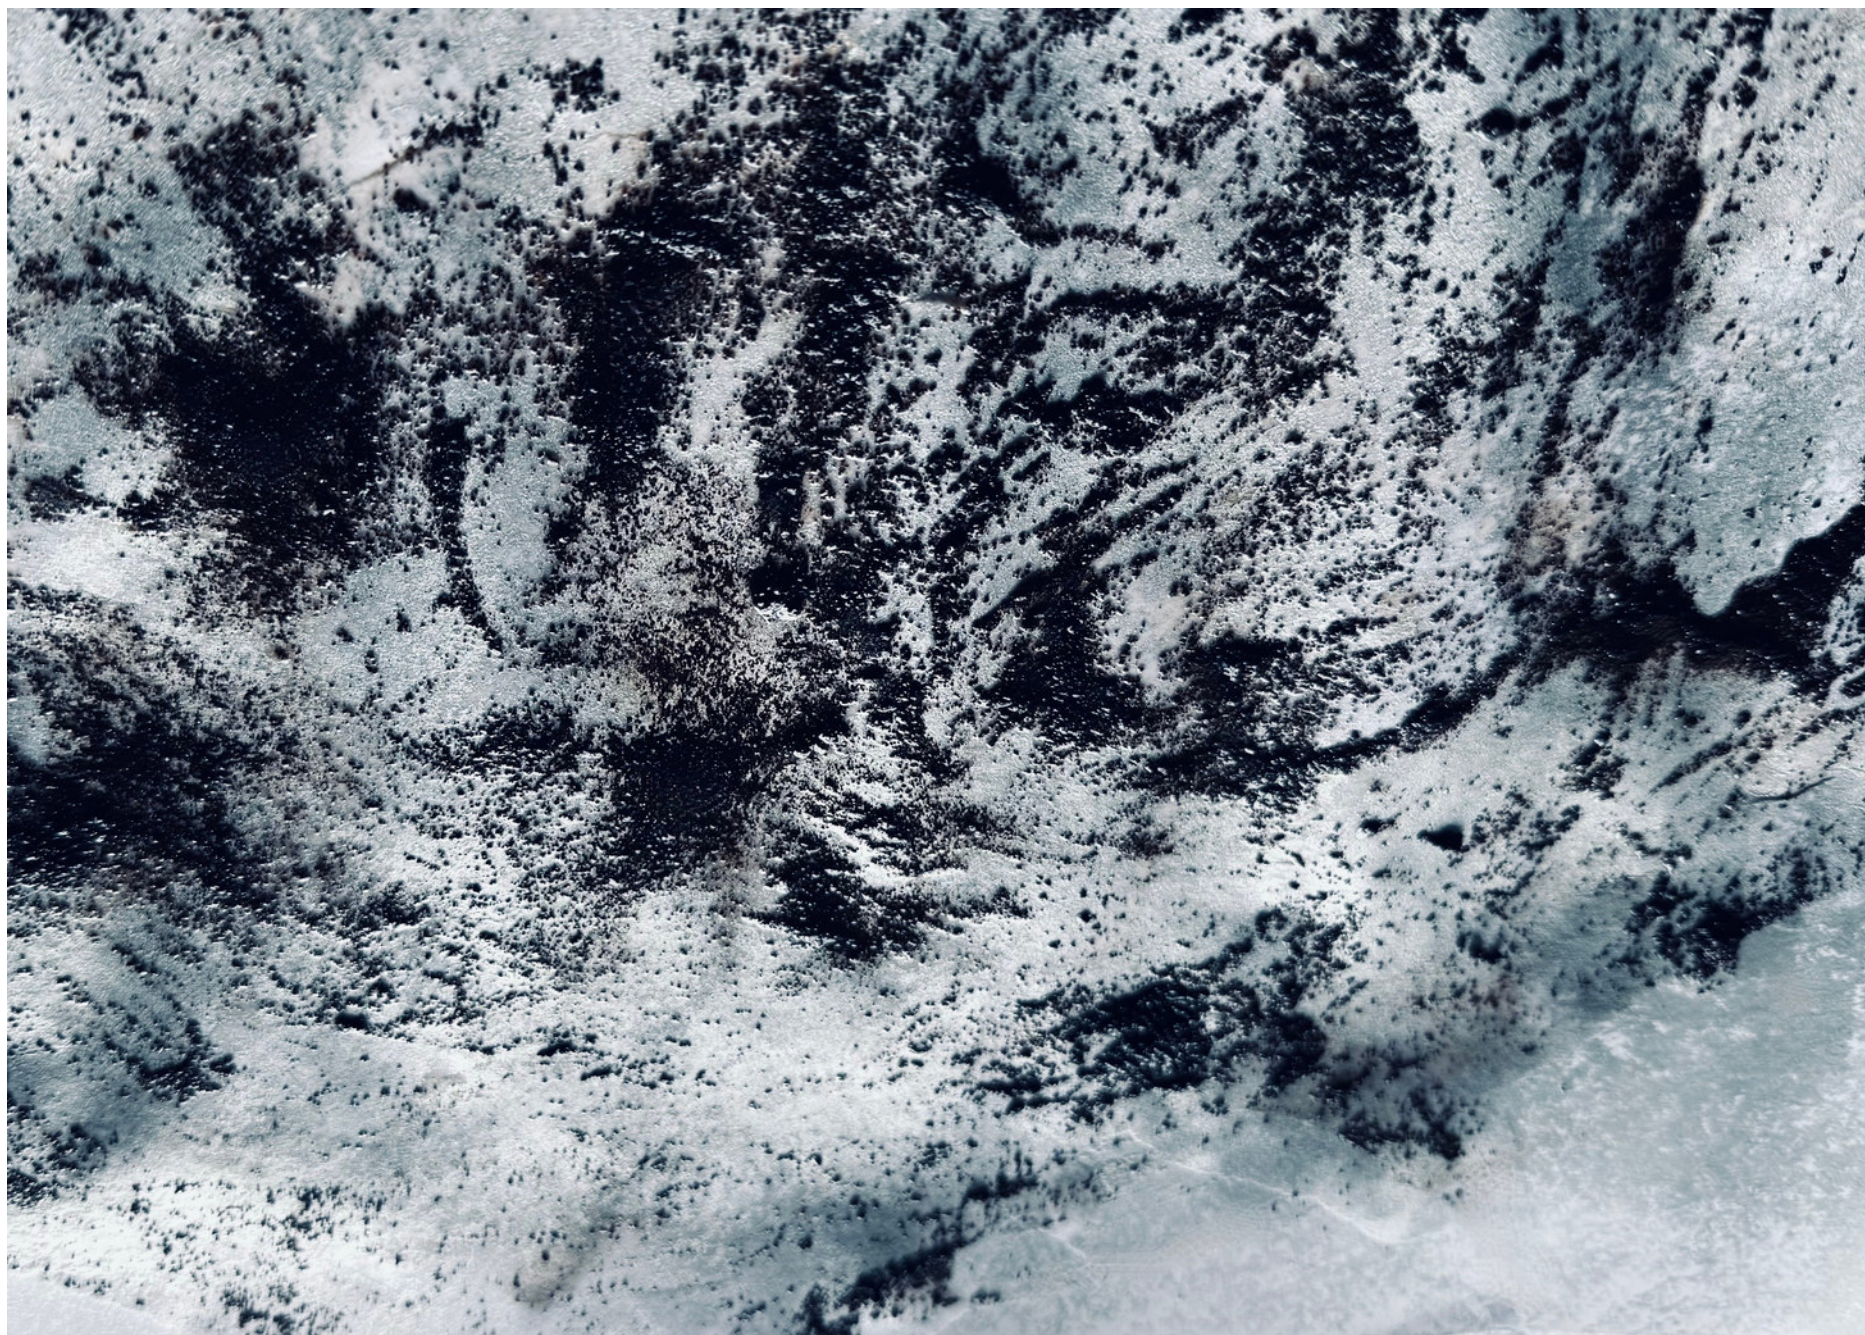

All 365 artworks are available for sale in limited editions of five each.

They are executed on archival brushed aluminum, in custom sizes from 8" X 10" to 60" X 70", presented in an artist's float frame, signed, dated, and authenticated on the verso.

The film is also available, for festivals, screenings and distribution. The soundtrack and songs are available, with and without narration, as an MP 3 or streamed.

A wide selection of limited edition fine art posters are also available, along with this book, as print on demand purchases.
